—A. J. Gordon will sail for London from New York, on the 8th inst.

—Mr. C. E. Riley sailed for Europe last week, to be absent during the summer.

—Mrs. John Q. Henry and daughters are at the Hotel Hunnewell for the summer.

—Dr. Merrill and wife of Hotel Hunnewell have gone to Europe for a four months' trip.

—Mrs. Geo. Agry, Jr., left this week for Gorham, Me., where she will spend the summer.

—Thirty babies will be christened at the Eliot church, at the children's service, Sunday morning.

—Remember the Natural History "Field Day," next Tuesday afternoon, as noticed elsewhere in to-day's edition.

—Mrs. Eliza Elliott's house on Oak street has been sold to the W. L. Rand's agency, to Mr. C. E. Creagan of Newton.

—Rev. C. C. Creagan of this city will attend the World's Sunday school convention to be held in London July 20 to 25th.

—Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Overman have removed to Boston and Mrs. S. A. Overman and daughter have gone to Chicago.

—Miss James will arrive in Newton next week for a stay of a few days, on a vacation from her duties at the W. L. Rand's library.

—Mr. William Z. Ripley left on Tuesday for the Adirondacks, with a party of students and teachers from the Institute of Technology.

—A collection will be taken in Channing church, Sunday morning, for the purchase of new books, and to defray other expenses of the Sunday school.

—Mr. G. W. Taylor and wife and Mr. W. L. Rudwick and wife of Pembroke street, Boston, have taken rooms at Mrs. Frankland's for the summer.

—Mrs. Walker's cottage on Nonantum street, formerly occupied by Mrs. Overman, has been leased through Mr. Rand's agency, to Mr. Brown of Boston.

—The young people of the Channing church, are to form a guild for church work, and the subject will be considered at the Sunday evening meeting.

—The father of Rev. Father Gilfeather and of Mrs. James Sullivan of Church street, died very suddenly at his home in South Boston, Wednesday night.

—Arthur W. Thayer, the leader of Eliot choir, is conducting the two great choruses of 100 voices each of the Glorious Jubilee, held in Boston this week.

—Miss Mattie Stark of Waltham has been engaged as contralto of the Channing church choir, and Mr. Clarence Hay considers her one of his most promising pupils.

—Rev. Mr. Freeman assisted at the communion at Eliot church last Sunday afternoon and preached an eloquent sermon in the evening upon "The Rich Young Man."

—During the month of May they have sold at Atkins' grocery over 1000 pounds of the Turner Centre print butter, showing that this grade is appreciated by the best trade.

—Rev. Dr. Calkins and wife and Mr. J. N. Bacon and wife have been in Saratoga this week, attending the convention of Congregational churches. They are expected home to-day.

—Miss Isabelle Shinn, Miss Mabel Inez Dyer, Miss Ida Davis and Miss Mabel Mansfield were members of the graduating class of Boston University, which received degrees this week.

—Mme. N. Menard, the well-known artist, sailed for Europe, June 1st, on steamer "Amanita," from New York. She has the good wishes of her many friends and pupils for a pleasant sojourn.

—Mrs. Gen. A. B. Woodward has sent to Dr. J. F. Frisbie for the Newton Natural History Society the large collection of botanical specimens which the general has gathered in this vicinity during the past few years.

—At the communion service in Eliot church, Sunday afternoon, 83 persons were received into membership, on profession of faith, and the new and old Eliot churches, in the new church a notable one in the church annals.

—Floral Sunday, or "Children's day," will be observed next Sunday at the Methodist church, the pastor preaching an appropriate sermon in the morning and the children giving a concert at 7 p. m. The church will be decorated.

—The forty-fourth anniversary of the Eliot Sunday school will be observed by appropriate exercises next Sunday, at 12 o'clock, in Eliot church and will see the place of the usual Sunday school exercises. Singing by the young people's choir.

—The household furniture belonging to the late Judge Park will be sold at auction on Saturday, June 15th, as Mrs. Park will go to Denver, Col., to reside with her son, and the house has been sold to John Shingle of Newtonville, who will occupy it, after having made extensive alterations.

—The widow of the late Commander Patch of South Framingham has been given a position as clerk in the census office at Washington, and has already left to enter upon her duties. She was also offered a position in the pension department.

—Mrs. Catherine Bailey of Walnut park is now the oldest person in Newton, Mrs. Allen of West Newton having died during last week.

—Mrs. Bailey celebrated her 94th birthday May 25, and is very well for one of her years and is interested in everything about her.

—There was a great demand for copies of the GRAPHIC, last week, containing pictures of the new and old Eliot churches, and the full report of the dedication exercises, and several hundred extra copies were sold. A few are still left which can be obtained by applying at the GRAPHIC office.

—Rev. Mr. Holly of Hayti, a son of Bishop Holly, gave an account of the condition of the poorer classes of population in the Haytian Islands, with an especial account of the Vaudou religion, in Grace church, Sunday morning. He also explained the causes of the frequent revolutions in Hayti. The speaker gave a unique and masterly description in brief and expressive words.

—Shrewd prophets predict that the mosquitoes will sweep this year as never before, and judging from a visit paid to Anderson's Window Screen factory, 178 Washington street, Boston, every one expects the prediction to come true, for his shop is taxed to the utmost to keep up with orders. A wet spring is always followed, they say, by a swarm of mosquitoes, and the pests are already plentiful.

—Capt. W. M. Ferris and First Lieutenant Frank D. Frisbie were delegates from J. Wiley Edwards camp, No. 100, Massachusetts Veterans, to the state encampment that met at Lynn, last Wednesday. There are more than 100 camps in the state with a membership of about 5500. The Massachusetts division of the Sons of Veterans ranks among the first in the country. The number of camp, and membership is constantly increasing.

—Bishop Paddock made his annual visit to Grace church on Friday evening, administering the rite of confirmation. He preached a sermon on the value of words, and a class of 22 candidates was then presented by Dr. Sinn, the rector. Ten of the class were young men and the total number of candidates was the second largest ever confirmed in Grace church. The musical portion of the service was rendered by the double quartet of the church.

—Rev. Dr. Calkins was seized with a fainting spell at the Friday evening meeting last week, and it caused a good deal of excitement among the large congregation present, as he was carried from the room. Fortunately, it was nothing serious, the attack being due to the heat of the room and overwork connected with the dedication exercises. Dr. Calkins was able to be in pulpit Sunday morning, when he delivered an excellent sermon on church work.

—The annual exhibition of sewing at the Bigelow school will be held on Friday afternoon, June 25, in the large hall of the building. Many were disappointed last year in not knowing of the exhibition in time to attend, and the notice is therefore given early. Miss Julia A. Grant, the teacher of sewing, speaks highly of the progress the children have made this year, and their work certainly shows that they have received careful instruction and have profited by it. It is probable that this will be the last formal exhibition, as the sewing department is now so well established that it is intended to place it on the same footing as the other school work.

—A lawn party will be held on the grounds of the late James S. Shelton, at the newell avenue, Newton, Wednesday, June 12, at 5 p. m. under the auspices of the Young Ladies' Auxiliary to the Women's Foreign Missionary Society, M. E. church. An address will be delivered by Mr. A. I. Nazarian, of the Boston University, to whom the proceeds will be given in aid of his missionary work. The admission fee will be ten cents. Cake and ice-cream extra. A large will leave the Newton depot for Mrs. Stephenson's grounds, at 5 and 6 o'clock. Fare, 10 cents. If stormy, the lawn party will be postponed to Thursday, June 13th, at the same time and place.

—Miss S. Louise Shelton, for 13 consecutive years a teacher in the Bigelow school, has declined a re-appointment, to accept at a much increased salary the position as vice-principal at St. Mary's Institute, a newly organized church school with abundant capital at Dallas, Texas. The school is to be one of the leading schools for young ladies in the south, and Miss Shelton had the great compliment of a unanimous election and is to be congratulated upon her good fortune. She has been one of the most efficient of Newton's teachers, and her pupils and their parents will miss her. It shows the high reputation of Newton teachers, when one of them is called to such a responsible position. Miss Shelton will enter upon her new duties in September.

—Mr. Benjamin Hartnett, father of T. J. Hartnett of this city, died suddenly at his residence on Tuesday. He was a resident of Boston, but of late his health has not been good and on Sunday he came to the church of St. Mary's. He was unable to be out-of-doors, but was seized with a fainting spell and carried into the house. On Tuesday he had a second attack which proved fatal. The cause of his death was heart disease. The funeral service took place from the house of his son here, at 8.30, Thursday morning, and at St. James church, Harrison avenue, Boston, later in the morning. The internment was in Cambridge. The deceased was 77 years old and leaves two sons, one of whom resides in Newton, and the other in Boston.

—The Fuller estate on the corner of Nonantum and Washington streets has passed into the hands of the new owner and is divided into five lots. Mr. H. E. Hibbard takes the lot on Washington street next to Daniels' stable, Mr. J. S. Sumner takes the corner lot, first lot on Nonantum place, Mr. Nellie Walker, the second lot, Messrs. Daniels and Murray, and Mrs. W. S. Brazer the last one which adjoins her estate. Mrs. Walker has purchased the house and will remodel it into a modern style. The old house on the corner has been sold and will be taken away. It is probable that the other lots will be built upon in the future, and the sale means a great improvement in the appearance of that section.

—There was an incident at one of the Newton churches on a recent Sunday, which caused considerable amusement among the congregation. The pulpit was filled by one of the clergymen attending the Boston anniversary, whose home is in a small town in Northern New England. The sermon was an unusually long one, and the hour for holding the Sunday school came and passed, the congregation began to grow restive, and still the conclusion did not seem to be coming. The pastor saw that if any Sunday school were to be held, some action would have to be taken, and finally arose and very courteously suggested to the preacher that the hour for holding the Sunday school had long passed and would hardly do to trespass longer upon the time belonging to the children. This was said so courteously that no offense could be taken, and the preacher responded, "Just another thought and I have done." The pastor very promptly cried, "Not another thought, Brother," and then the benediction was pronounced.

—At the Harvard church, Brookline, Wednesday evening, occurred the wedding of Miss Lila May Armstrong, daughter of Mr. Charles Armstrong of the Riverside Press, and Mr. Theodore C. Walker of this city, of the firm of Walker & Whitman, 36 Summer street, Boston. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Eben Thomas, the bride being given away by her father. The bride was charmingly attired in white brocade silk, with full court train and tulle veil. Her hair was a coronet of orange blossoms. She wore a diamond necklace and carried a bouquet of Catherine Mermet roses. The bridesmaids were the two little sisters of the bride, they were dressed in white silk, with large sashes, and each carried a shepherd's crook, with a bouquet of white pinks, tied with satin ribbon. The bridesmaids, four in number—Misses Holmes, Twichell and Dutton—were dressed similar to the maids of honor and carried bouquets of pink roses. Mr. Charles P. Armstrong was best man. The ushers appeared in full dress, and wore boutonnieres of white roses. Mr. H. Nelson Crane was chief, assisted by Messrs. F. W. O. Brigham, L. G. Hall, H. Norton, H. H. Phinney, Arthur Stetson and George H. Wheeler. After the services at the church a reception was held at Mr. Armstrong's residence, 74 Harvard avenue, Allston. A large number of prominent guests attended from Newton, Brookline, Allston, Brighton, Boston and other places. Among those present were noticed Judge and Mrs. Baldwin, Mr. and Mrs. George Hobbs, Mr. and Mrs. Gibson Brown, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Young, Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Robbins, Mr. and Mrs. Beckwith, Mr. and Mrs. Wilde, Mr. and Mrs. Swift, Mr. and Mrs. T. T. Wales, Mr. and Mrs. A. Marsden, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Rogers and family, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Tucker.

Death of Mrs. Mary H. Potter.

Mrs. Mary H. Potter died at her residence on Walnut Park early Thursday morning, at the age of 79 years.

Although suffering from the infirmities of age, she had been in fairly good health until a very few days. In her death Newton loses one of its oldest and most esteemed residents, and Eliot church one of its most honored members. Mrs. Potter was born in Oakham, Mass., of a prominent Massachusetts family, and after her marriage to the late John Cheney Potter, they removed to Boston where they lived until 1850, when they came to Newton, and took up their residence on Walnut Park. Mr. Potter at once took a prominent place in Newton affairs, and both he and his wife were leading members of Eliot church. Mrs. Potter took a great interest in the new church edifice, her husband having been one of the leading members of the committee which built the former one. She had a wide circle of friends, and the older residents especially will feel saddened to learn of her death. She leaves two children, Mrs. Mary E. Clark, of Santa Barbara, Cal., who is now seriously ill, and Mr. John Sturgis Potter of this city.

The funeral services will be held at her late residence on Walnut Park, Monday afternoon at 2 p. m.

Miss Hollingsworth's Concert.

A very enjoyable concert was given last evening at the Congregational church by Miss Sade L. Hollingsworth of Lowell, Mass. Miss Hollingsworth sang in excellent voice, and was the recipient of a profusion of flowers. The difficult Tarantelle by Bassford was given with remarkable facility of execution, while Gounod's familiar "Sing, Smile, Slumber," was sung with such purity of tone as we have rarely heard excelled.

Mr. Willis E. Nowell contributed two violin solos to the program, which were enthusiastically received by the audience. The first was the Romanza by Svendsen, given by request, one of the most beautiful of the later additions to Wilhelm's paraphrase of Wagner's "Die Meistersinger." Both were played with that faultless intonation and purity of tone and style for which this artist is so well-known. Mr. J. Wallace Goodrich contributed several pieces, as well as acting as the accompanist of the evening, all his work being thoroughly enjoyed. The Amphion Male quartet was heard in several selections, solos also being given by the members, all of which were of a high order of merit. Miss Hollingsworth is to be congratulated upon the artistic success of the concert.

Change the Name.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC.
All this trouble over a site for the almshouse, arises, I think, from the name of the place. The American citizen naturally is opposed to receiving alms, and Newton people especially object to having any advertisement made of the fact that they have any residents too poor to maintain themselves. If the name could only be changed most of the objections would disappear. If the almshouse were called "Newton's Protective Union," or as it is maintained by a tax, "The Tariff Retreat," or as it is to be located on Washington Hill, "The Washington Home," or as the poor are supposed to be rich in the next world's treasure, "The Way to Paradise," or some other beautiful and high-sounding name, all these objections would disappear, and we should see the different wards all eager to claim it.

As it is, the name of almshouse has become a synonym for defeat, a place to which those whose lives have been a failure may retire and exist for their few remaining years, and so none of us want to be reminded that such things are possible, and we want it tucked away somewhere out of sight, where in our discouraged days we may not see it. Let the name be changed by all means.

Rose and Strawberry Festival.

The date of the Rose and Strawberry Festival of the Newton Horticultural Society has been changed to June 13th, and will be held at Associates' Hall, Newton Centre. The exhibition of fruits and flowers will be held in the afternoon, and a promenade concert will be given in the evening. The idea of a concert is proving a very popular one and the tickets have sold remarkably well. A large and pleasant company is expected, and the society feel much encouraged over the prospective success of the affair.

Y. M. C. A.

A fair sized audience assembled in the Y. M. C. A. rooms last Sunday afternoon to listen to the Rev. Andrew McKeown, D.D., the new pastor of the Methodist church, who spoke from the text, "Whatsoever a man soweth, that shall he also reap." Dr. McKeown's words were from the heart and must have made an impression on all present.

The service next Sunday will be of the character of a gospel meeting.

Does It Heart Good.

It does the heart good to be assured by so excellent authority as the GRAPHIC that Newton is satisfied with the recent appointment of postmaster at Auburn date. It is a matter of no small moment to satisfy Newton, with all its double-distilled ideas of purity and sanctity in matters of an earthly nature. The procession can now move on.

Furniture at Auction.

The household furniture belonging to the estate of the late Judge Park, will be sold at public auction on Saturday, June 15th, at 10 o'clock a. m. For particulars see advertisement.

NONANTUM.

—R. H. Wood and family removed to Westvale Tuesday.

—Mrs. Haynes and her two daughters removed to Maynard Wednesday.

—Walter Henderson of this village sailed in the Cunarder Pavonia on Saturday last and will spend six weeks in Europe.

—A strawberry and ice cream festival was held at the North church on Tuesday evening and although the attendance was not large it was a decided success.

—A good sized delegation from this village attended the meeting held in Berkley Hall, Boston, by the S. S. superintendents' union last Monday evening.

—Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Hollins have been at Lawrence for several days past, attending the funeral of Mr. Rollins' mother, who died quite suddenly on Tuesday.

—Some sixty of the English people of this village attended a public installation of officers of Victoria Lodge, Sons of St. George, in Waltham, last Tuesday evening. A collation was served and a first-class entertainment provided.

—The twenty-eighth anniversary of the North Evangelical Sunday School was celebrated last Sunday evening when a large congregation gathered. The exercises were opened with the procession of hymn, "Hail this day," in which most of the school took part. After prayer and scripture reading by the pastor, appropriate recitations were given. Master George Hager of Waltham gave two declamations in first-class manner, much to the satisfaction of all; a duet by Misses Chapman and Little, "We come with song to greet you," was beautifully rendered; as also the solo, "A child's prayer," by Miss Butler. Following the exercises by the school, A. S. Lovett, Esq., of the Shawmut church, Boston, and Rev. Mr. Lamb addressed the children. The program reflected much credit upon those who had it in charge. The secretary's report showed the school in good condition, with an average attendance for the year of 144. Supt. Coe conducted the exercises and Miss Hudson presided very efficiently at the organ.

NEWTON LOWER FALLS.

—There is a case of scarlet fever reported this week.

—Mr. Heckle has removed from Boston to his handsome summer residence on Wellesley Hills.

—Mr. and Mrs. John Ross will spend the summer at Whycomach, C. B., N. S. They leave on the 12th.

—The new photographer has quite a business here now. The majority of his work being small tin type work.

—No one in this vicinity has as yet gone to their favorite summer resorts as the weather has been cool and stormy.

—There are four regular organized ball nines in this village at present and all have a game scheduled for next Saturday.

—Business is a little slack at present in the Dudley Hosiery Mills, but will resume running in usual form in a short time.

—A sale was held in Boyden hall last Wednesday evening, for the benefit of St. Mary's Guild. The sale proved a success, as all others that have been held by this society.

—The board of health ordered a family occupying a low cellar tenement, to find other quarters. This tenement should be closed as it is almost on a level with the bed of the river.

—The streets through this village the past two weeks have been very muddy, owing to the large rainfall and as the many shade trees prevent the sun from drying them up, they will be this way for a while yet.

—The work of the church temperance society in Boston, has been attended with so much success, that the address of the Rev. Mr. Hilliard, the secretary, on Sunday morning next, at St. Mary's church, cannot fail to be of great interest.

—The Puritans of Roxbury visited this village on the afternoon of Decoration day and gave the local club here an exhibition of good ball playing, the score standing at the termination of 7 innings, 23 to 1 in favor of the Puritans, who played a very brilliant game of ball.

—Great improvements have taken place lately at the crossing. A new street has been built through the vicinity, making a direct route to Wellesley. The B. & A. R. R. Co., are making preparations to blast out the ledge and fill in the swamp near by. This will be a select part of Wellesley Hills some day.

—Although the morning was so stormy a large congregation was present at the St. Mary's church on the occasion of the Bishop's visitation on Sunday last. The Bishop preached upon the duties of a Christian in his own home, and made a marked impression. The Rector presented eleven persons for confirmation. The holy communion was celebrated by the Bishop.

—William Seaver received word from chief of police Washburn of Worcester, that the painter, by name Sanderson, was captured by a patrolman of Division 11, Boston, and is now safely locked up in Charles street jail. It was thought he went to Worcester after leaving here and Mr. Seaver notified the police there to be on the alert for a man of that name. At different places where he has been at work here, persons have found property and valuables, one included a handsome gold watch, property of Judge Abbot of Wellesley, which was thought a great deal of.

Athletics vs. Maples.

The Athletics crippled by the absence of Morehouse and Farrell defeated the Maples of Dorchester, Saturday, by a score of 17 to 10. The feature of the game was the catching and throwing of Dunn. Hutchinson, who was substituted for Farrell, played a good game at short and Harkins took Morehouse's place at first. The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Maples	4	0	1	3	0	0	0	0	10

Hits: Athletics, 15; Maples, 6; Errors: Athletics, 13; Maples, 17. Batteries: Athletics, Cook and Dunn; Maples, Connel and Danmore.

Special Sale.

of Ladies', Gents', and Children's fine underwear and Hosiery at way down prices now going on at A. L. Gordon's, Successor to Foss & Gault, 22 Temple Place, Boston.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

THE GAS COMPANY GIVEN POWER TO RUN ELECTRIC WIRES.

The board of aldermen met Monday evening, with Alderman Pettie in the chair. Other members present were Aldermen Johnson, Tolman, Chadwick, Harbach and Kennedy. The minutes of the last meeting were read and approved.

A communication was received from Francis Jones and Frank W. Barney, stating that on Nov. 28, 1883, they gave a guarantee for ten years, in order to secure the laying of water pipes on Cottage street, ward 5. They thought at the time this was the usual custom, but had since learned that guarantees were required in some cases for only five years. They also found that the city was not crediting them with all the receipts from the use of water on the street. They had applied to the Water Board for a reduction, but perhaps because it had no jurisdiction, the Board had not made any response, and therefore they had applied to the board of aldermen. The petition was referred to the committee on claims.

Alderman Harbach presented a petition from P. Sullivan, calling the attention of the city council to the drain on the corner of Beacon and Walnut streets. He had bought a lot there, on which he intended to build, and the stagnant water was dangerous to health; referred to the highway committee.

AGAINST THE POOR FARM LOCATION.

Alderman Tolman presented a remonstrance from citizens of West Newton against locating the poor farm on Cherry street or anywhere in that vicinity. The proposed location was in the midst of a thickly settled neighborhood, and adjoining valuable property which it would depreciate in value, and there was more objection to locating it there than letting it remain in its present location. A hearing was asked for and the remonstrance was signed by Geo. B. Wilbur, V. E. Carpenter, L. G. Pratt and some eighty other citizens and tax payers.

Alderman Tolman moved that a joint hearing before both branches of the City Council be appointed for June 24th at 8 p. m. and the motion was passed.

OTHER MATTERS.

W. R. Dresser was granted a permit to move a building from Chestnut to Boylston street.

D. R. Emerson gave notice of intention to build a dwelling house 29 by 51 feet, on corner of Emerson and Pearl streets.

M. S. Hodgson was granted a permit to move building through Washington street, ward 2.

J. H. Bemis was granted a license to put up a stable on Columbus street, Newton Highlands.

Alderman Chadwick stated that there were remonstrances against granting a license to R. J. McAdoo to erect a stable on Otis street, ward 2, and he moved that they be granted a hearing on June 24th, at 7:30 p. m. The motion was passed.

Alderman Johnson presented an order granting to the Newton and Watertown Gas Company the right to erect and maintain wires and poles through any street in the city for electric lighting, subject to the rules and regulations of the board of aldermen, or to such rules as might be made in the future, the height of wires, kind of poles, and places where wires were to be placed to be regulated by the board. The order was passed.

A hearing was given on H. W. Fanning's application for license to put in a steam boiler and engine to his new building at Upper Falls, but as no one appeared the hearing was closed and license was granted.

Alderman Chadwick presented the petition of the New England Telephone and Telephone Company, for a location for its poles and wires on certain streets of the city, the same streets where they now stand, and the company promised to reserve the upper cross arm for the city telephone, fire alarm and police signal wires; referred to the committee on licenses.

The board then adjourned to June 24th, June 17th being a holiday.

Newton's New Water Park.

To the Editor of the Graphic:

The Newton papers last week mentioned with commendable pride the several new improvements proposed under the present administration, but they omitted the crowning work of all.

The city government, through the combined talent of the engineer and highway department, has found a way to change the long time insignificant ditch on the Widow Collin's land, Court street, Newtonville, into a beautiful miniature lake, thus giving to the resident abutments on Court street, a picturesque water park.

It has for many years been a puzzling question with these same residents how the surface water, which pours into and runs down Court street, could be securely housed. Through the intelligence and skill of the department above named, the problem has been solved. By a series of compensating grades and the judicious leveling up of the sidewalk on the lower sides of the street, the water shed of Court street and its tributaries is so securely housed that not a drop can escape. These periodical contributions will keep the new lake at full banks without the necessity of drawing upon the city's water supply.

Aside from this there is an utilitarian standpoint from which to regard this important addition to the city's public works. The fire department—another department well managed, and officered, has inspected the new lake with a view to using it as a storage reservoir, which will prove invaluable in case a fire occurs in the extensive system of buildings connected with the planing mill and the electric light plant on Crafts street.

As a little later in the season the surface water of the lake will assume a beautiful and healthy green color, the ladies' association of Court street have christened it Emerald lake. There is but one drawback and that is, it is barely possible that the State board of health and the new State commission on sewerage and drainage may object to the plan in detail.

Field Day.

The Newton Natural History society will have its next "Field Day" on Tuesday afternoon, June 11th. It will be an afternoon and moonlight excursion on Charles river. The party will gather at Riverside about 3.45. There they will take boats and go down the river to some point where they will go on shore. A few hours will be spent at that place. After sunset they will have a moonlight row on the river, returning in season to take the 8.50 or 9.30 train. If a sufficient number desire to go on this excursion, boats will be secured and reduced rates. All those who wish to go are requested to notify George L. Chandler, W. S. French or Dr. J. F. Frisbie. Any one wishing to accompany the society on this "Field Day" is cordially invited to do so.

There will be ample opportunity for those who wish to seek out and examine the spot on the river which Prof. Horsford believes to be the site of the ancient Indian settlement of Norumbega. Persons wishing to go on this excursion who cannot be at Riverside when the party take boats can follow later on and meet the party lower down the river. An invitation has been extended to Prof. Horsford to accompany the society on this "Field Day" to Norumbega, and there give his reasons for his belief in that location, as the Norumbega referred to by the ancient chroniclers of the early navigators along this coast. It is to be hoped he will be able to accept and add to the interest of the exercises for the day by his presence and words. It is suggested that all provide themselves with lunch.

Those who cannot leave Riverside at 4 p. m. can take boats later in the afternoon and join the party down the river, and of course return whenever they choose.

It will be necessary to engage boats in advance, therefore it is necessary that those wishing to go should notify the committee as early as possible.

Should Tuesday prove stormy the excursion will take place on the first pleasant afternoon.

The following letter has been received from Prof. E. N. Horsford in reply to an invitation to meet the Newton Natural History Society on the 11th:

Dear Dr. Shinn:—It is a high compliment to be invited to talk about Norumbega. I will be at Fort Norumbega, just above the mouth of Stony Brook, at 4 p. m., on Tuesday, the 11th. I am very truly yours, D. N. HORSFORD.

In the Scientific World.

In photographing clouds great difficulty is experienced in obtaining photographs of cirrus clouds, the reason being that the blue light of the sky acts with nearly the same active energy as the white light of the clouds on the sensitive silver salts of the plate.

It is pointed out that when much dust is present in the atmosphere the heat of the sun is greatly absorbed; hence it seems probable that dust particles may aid in the formation of fogs in another way than by acting as nuclei.

Now—and Then !!!

To the Editor of the Graphic:

The newspaper accounts of the Eliot church dedication and the participation therein by the Rev. Mr. Hornbrooke, pastor of the Channing Unitarian society, recalls most vividly the bigoted opinions which obtained but a generation ago, in contrast with the liberal and more Christian views which prevail to-day.

When the Channing society was established in Newton, a member of the Eliot church, a son of the then prominent and public-spirited citizen of the town, asked for a letter from the church, by which he might be released from communion with the society and enabled to worship in the Unitarian fold.

The church committee not only refused the request but insultingly voted to excommunicate the petitioner for daring to join a sect then thought by our Eliot worshippers to be in league with his satanic majesty. Two members of that committee were cousins of the petitioner, and a third, his brother-in-law, but neither had the moral courage to stand firmly for right, justice and Christianity as taught by the mass.

One of this triumvirate has passed over the silent river and a memorial window was yesterday dedicated to his memory.

And now what do we see? The very Shepherd of this proscribed flock is invited by the elect to enter the holy of holies and assist in consecrating the beautiful edifice. Verily, the lion, the lamb, and the millennium have formed a close connection. All hail to the new departure. But isn't it funny? H. S. J.

The Verdict Unanimous.

W. D. Sult, Druggist, Bippus, Ind., testifies: "I can recommend Electric Bitters as the very best remedy. Every bottle sold has given relief in every case. I have taken six bottles, and was cured of Rheumatism of 10 years' standing."

Abraham Hare, druggist, Belleville, Ohio, affirms: "The best selling medicine I have ever handled in my 30 years' experience, is Electric Bitters." Thousands of others added their testimony, so that the verdict is unanimous that Electric Bitters do cure all diseases of the Liver, Kidneys or Blood. Only a half dollar a bottle at Arthur Hudson's drugstore.

"Can't eat a thing." Hood's Sarsaparilla is a wonderful medicine for creating an appetite, regulating digestion and giving strength.

FRENCHMAN'S BAY, THE AMERICAN BAY OF NAPLES.

The Bar Harbor Record in its last issue devotes nearly a page to a description of Frenchman's Bay, on which Hotel Sorrento is situated and the many beauties of the place, which is called the American Bay of Naples. It says: "Those who have visited the sunny clime of Italy, compare the scenery of the latter bay to that of the former, and probably with a good deal of justice. There is certainly no spot on the sea coast of the United States which can surpass in scenic beauty this rock-girt bay of ours; nowhere is such a striking combination of all that is beautiful and grand in nature to be found. What piece of water on this continent mirrors on its placid bosom so many cloud-capped peaks or foliage-covered islets? What shores can show so many palatial residences and handsome summer houses? Whether dancing in the rays of a summer's sun, or lashed into fury by the icy blasts of winter, Frenchman's Bay, with its rocky shores, its beautiful islands and its mountain peaks, is a natural feature which eclipses any thing in this vast territory." The Frenchman's Bay company have been making great improvements the past year, and the magnificently appointed Hotel Sorrento will delight the summer visitors to this resort, which is expected to rival Bar Harbor in popularity, as it does in beautiful scenery, fine cottages and everything that tends to make a summer resort enjoyable.

NEWTON TARIFF REFORM CLUB

TARIFF FABLES.

THE LION, THE FOXES AND THE SHEEP.
IV.

A lion, by promise of spoils, got the foxes and the sheep to join him in a protective league for plundering all the other animals. Having caught a fat deer the lion divided it into thirds. "This part," said he, "is mine of right as King of the forest. The second share is the reward of my industry. The last portion is my true profit—touch it not." The foxes left the alliance at once but the sheep picked the bones, and foreign lions could not hurt them.

This fable shows how a high tariff makes high wages.

A VOICE FROM PITTSBURG.

One of the foxes is called the "National Labor Tribune," and last fall was a member in good standing of the league. On March 4th, a rolling mill at Pittsburg announced a reduction in wages and the comment of the Tribune is as follows:—"A fine day truly to whack mill wages, the day of the inauguration of the party whose viciously announced policy is a protective tariff, whereby to maintain home industries." But worse than this the "whacking" seems to have become general through Pennsylvania, and one of the hardest hits comes from one Mr. Carnegie. Let the Tribune speak again: (May 25) "There was not much difference in the wages per ton of rails between English and American mills in 1887, when business was good in America and poor in England. Now that wages have been advanced abroad and reduced at home it is doubtful whether there is any difference existing," and yet there is to be "another reduction at home," and further advances abroad.

The Tribune wants the Protectionists to explain why the pauper labor of England is improving its condition as to wages; while the intelligent and well-to-do protected workmen of Pennsylvania are "sliding down hill."

The iron masters of the Keystone state find themselves threatened by their rivals in Alabama, and no political power can afford them protection by tariff. Birmingham will avenge Bridgewater. And the wealth and intelligence of the second State in the Union can invent no remedy except to "whack wages." To be sure the economist suggests that a foreign market for our iron and steel products will solve the problem, but a foreign market we can never have under the present tariff.

If Mr. Carnegie and the rest will "whack" the tariff with half the energy they are "whacking" the wages the tariff is supposed to protect, Pittsburg may laugh at Birmingham. The free ships that shall bring of duty untaxed iron ore into Philadelphia will leave port freighted down with the products of the Homestead mills. Whack the tariff, Mr. Carnegie, and leave the workmen alone!

Worsteds and Woolens.

Secretary Windom is happy, or ought to be so. It is always a satisfaction to pay a big debt and he has done this. The worsted manufacturers are not quite so happy inasmuch as it is not so blessed to receive as to give; they have only received. Art and science since 1883 have got ahead of Congressional enactment, but partly necessity has beaten art and science out of sight.

At the United States Laboratory at New York City, worsted goods have been chemically and microscopically examined, and have been found to be composed of wool! Since the days when Aesop's mountain brought forth the unexpected mouse, nothing quite so good as this has come to our notice. What did Mr. Windom think worsteds were made of?

Worsteds and Woolens.

We must condemn utterly the abuse of power shown by this executive officer in overruling the clear wording of a law, but we commend the truthfulness, brevity, and alliterative quality of that sentence—worsteded are woolens. But what about the Tariff? We have examined that chemically and microscopically and find it to be composed entirely of taxes. Are Tariffs taxes?

"Worsteds are Woolens!"

We must give this credit.

For Windom has said it.

"From wool, worsteds are made."

So is the debt paid.

"Worsteds are woolens."

"Tariffs are Taxes."

We must give this credit.

As soon as we've read it.

The people who pay.

Are the people who say.

"Tariffs are Taxes."

CASTLES IN SPAIN.

A NEWTONVILLE YOUNG LADY'S EXPERIENCE AMONG THEM.

[Written for the Graphic.]

We left France for Spain with the intention of seeing and studying it as much as possible. We had not been long among the people before we began to like them very much. We greatly enjoyed their gay, frank and hospitable natures, as well as the quaint old cities, the delicious climate, and the deep blue skies of sunny Spain. Our first Spanish city, after some weeks in Northern Africa, was Malaga. This city is hardly interesting enough to pay one for more than a day's visit. The houses are low and straggling and the streets are very badly paved. The Malaga girls have a wide reputation for beauty.

The ride from Malaga to Granada is through a most fertile and picturesque stretch of country. The Alhambra at Granada though fast falling to decay is still one of the most beautiful pieces of architecture in existence. It is situated on a hill near the town. The approach is through a beautiful stretch of woodland, covered with flowers, and watered by a little stream called the Darro. The exterior palace is built of red brick in the Moorish style. The walls are covered with carved and embossed stucco work, of arabesque order, and azulejos.

The court of Lions, which is the best preserved part of the building, is surrounded by graceful Moorish columns. The floor is mosaic, and in the centre is a large fountain upheld by twelve marble lions. The hall of Ambassadors leading out of this court, is most graceful and artistic. The walls are covered with geometrical designs, interwoven with verses of the Koran. The ceiling projects, like an inverted pyramid, and resembles frosted cake. Each one of these old chambers and sunlit courts has its own peculiar history, and one can hardly help feeling a sense of awe as he thinks of its former possessors, who played so great a part in the history of the world.

About two hours ride across the vega is the little town of Santa Fe. This town consists of one square and four short streets leading out of it. It is surrounded by a wall with a stone gate at the head of each street. It was built by Ferdinand and Isabella during the siege of Granada, in sixty days, and has not changed a whit since. The inhabitants had probably seen few foreigners before, as immediately upon our arrival we were surrounded by more curious men, women and children than we imagined room for in that small compass. Here Columbus held his famous interview with the Catholic Sovereigns, Ferdinand and Isabella, which resulted in the Queen selling her jewels to equip the expedition which was to discover a new world.

We went one evening to witness a Spanish dance in an old room of the Alhambra. These dances are very graceful, and it is a pity that they are now little danced except in the rural parts of Spain. The dancers were dressed in Spanish peasant costume, and were very pretty and graceful.

Our residence in Seville enabled us to do some studying of the Spanish people and their language. The Spanish language is largely Latin, changed and corrupted after long use. It is very musical and pretty, and easy if one knows French or Latin. With our scanty knowledge of Spanish we were able to make several friends and acquaintances among the people, whom we enjoyed very much. These people are perfect prodigies of intelligence, gaiety and hospitality. On meeting a gentleman he will say to you, if you are a lady, "I kiss your feet," if a gentleman, "I kiss your hands." If you call on a Spaniard, on leaving he will say, "This is your house, come to it as often and at any hour you please." If you admire anything of his, he is very liberal and says, "It is yours." It is needless to say, you are not expected to accept it. Invitations to dinner are frequent but seldom accepted. Small informal evening calls are the style. The streets and cafes are crowded with men in the evening, but ladies of the upper ten seldom go out after dark.

Spain has made little progress during the last four hundred years. It seems to have gained nothing from the Conquest of Granada. The Spaniards far from being ashamed of this, rather glory in it, making fun of the "poor ignorant foreigners" who spend their time and money building railroads and other modern improvements in their country.

The climate being relaxing, the Spaniards are a delicate race, but they are very graceful and handsome. The girls have black hair and large soft black eyes. They all wear the mantilla, and the men wear long cloaks faced with some bright color. They throw the end of the cloak over their shoulder, so that the facing shows. In the evening the young men go about serenading their young lady friends on the guitar, or sang, and talking to them through the bars of the window.

At carnival time, which takes place during the three days before Lent, everybody turns out and enjoys himself to the utmost. The streets are paraded with masqueraders in all sorts of absurd costumes. The young men have their pockets full of little bits of colored paper and gold dust, with which they pet the passers-by. In the afternoon half the population promenade the streets on foot or in carriages, and the other half stand on the balconies and pet the others with beans, candy, flowers, and colored paper. Every afternoon at four o'clock the aristocracy turns out and rides or walks up and down the long promenade. They talk and laugh and enjoy themselves with each other. In other cities the band plays during this time, but the Sevillians are not fond of music.

One can hardly help being fond of Seville after living there a short time, it is such a quaint old city. The open patios, flat roofs and horse shoe columns of the Moorish style still abound in the Seville houses. The cathedral at Seville is magnificent, but part of it having fallen in a few years ago, it is now sadly out of repair. The Alcazar rivals the Alhambra in the opinion of many. It is in perfect preservation but we did not think it equal to the Alhambra. The garden is a perfect paradise. It is filled with all kinds of tropical plants. In the centre is the old bath of Maria Pedilla. Seville, though no worse than the other Spanish cities, abounds in beggars. On refusing one you should say "Pardon me for God's sake," or "God will help you brother," (I can't).

The cathedral at Cordova, the Mecca of the Western Caliphate of the Moors, is an old Mosque containing 1196 Moorish columns. The centre is now converted into a Christian church. Cordova itself is a quaint old city, with narrow winding streets, and containing several relics of the old Romans.

From Madrid we took two excursions, one to Toledo and the other to the Escorial. Toledo is one of the most picturesque old cities in Spain. It is built on a hill, one side of which is perfectly perpendicular. The old castle and walls are tumbling to decay, and as one views the city from the Puerta del Sol, it gives the idea of a complete ruin. The Escorial is called the eighth wonder of the world but it is so vast and sombre and in such a dreary situation that it is hardly pleasing. It seems to be well suited to that gloomy and bigoted character, Philip II, who built it.

On reaching Burgos we expected to find the people more industrious than we found them in the south. But, on the contrary, they were fully as indolent and careless, less handsome and enthusiastic than in Andalusia.

St. Sebastian is a pretty little seaport town. Here things lose their strictly Spanish aspect. The ladies all wear bonnets and the men wear Tam O' Shanter. We had the fortune while there to witness the meeting between the Queens of England and Spain. The city was gaily decorated and there was an immense crowd collected along the road where they were to pass. As the two Queens passed by together in an elegant landau drawn by four horses, and followed by all their retinue, there was a great cheer raised. Queen Victoria, contrary to her pictures, has a kind dignified face. The Queen of Spain is much younger and has a very intelligent, animated countenance. After witnessing a Basque dance from the balcony of the palace, the two Queens rode off to the music of "God save the Queen."

The next day we bade good-bye to Spain after three of the most enjoyable and profitable months we had spent in all Europe.

A Woman's Discovery.

"Another wonderful discovery has been made and that too by a lady in this country. Disease fastened its clutches upon her and for seven years she withstood its severest tests, but the vital organs were undermined and death seemed imminent. For three months she coughed incessantly and could not sleep. She bought of us a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption and was so much relieved on taking first dose that she slept all night and with one bottle has been miraculously cured. Her name is Mrs. Luther Lutz." This write W. C. Hamrick & Co., of Shelby, N. C.—Get a free trial bottle at Arthur Hudson's drugstore.

The Remarkable Cures.

Which have been effected by Hood's Sarsaparilla are sufficient proof that this medicine does possess peculiar curative power. In the severest cases of scrofula or salt rheum, when other preparations had been powerless, the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla has brought about the happiest results. The case of Miss Sarah C. Whittier, of Lowell, Mass., who suffered terribly from scrofula, sores, that of Charles A. Roberts, of East Wilson, N. Y., who had thirteen abscesses on his face and neck; that of Willie Duff, of Walpole, Mass., who had hip disease and scrofula so bad that physicians said he could not recover, are a few of the many instances in which wonderful cures were effected by this medicine.

If Your Skin

is rough, and pimply or covered with blotches and sores, and you want a clean, smooth skin and fair complexion, use Sulphur Bitters. The best medicine in such cases I ever sold.—C. E. Scheffler & Co., Druggists, Lawrence, Mass.

THE ALMSHOUSE LOCATION.

The question of a location for the Almshouse has excited much interest in certain sections of the city, and the committee in charge of the removal gave a great deal of time to the matter. After it was decided to remove from the present site, on account of the land being too valuable for the purpose, numerous locations were looked at and discussed, but none seemed so suitable or convenient as the one finally selected on Cherry street, ward Three.

There was some talk of locating the almshouse near the Needham line in the Oak Hill district, but it was found to be so far removed from any railroad station, and from the other city buildings as to be decidedly inconvenient. One Oak Hill man asked the committee if any of the inmates had ever come from Oak Hill, and when they confessed that Oak Hill had not patronized the institution, he asked them if they were going to bring the almshouse over there to make things even? He thought the almshouse should be in the districts from which the inmates came. There was some sense in this and the committee finally decided that the almshouse ought to be within easy reach of City Hall, as this would mean a great saving of time to city officials.

The price at which they can obtain the six acres and three-quarters of land is about two cents a foot, which is certainly reasonable, and the buildings are estimated to be worth at least $500. The sale of the Allen estate this week, and the prices realized, shows that for some reason land in that section is not so valuable that the presence or absence of the poor farm could affect it materially.

There has been a vigorous remonstrance against the selection made, and the remonstrants are to have a hearing June 24th. The committee which has been considering the matter do not feel like going over the work again, and they think that if the remonstrants do not desire the almshouse in their neighborhood, they should present some other location which will be as convenient, as suitable, as reasonable in price, and to which no objections will be made by the neighbors.

If they do this there is no doubt that their remonstrance will be heeded and the site they recommend selected.

The committee, however, have found that people are a good deal like Mark Twain in this matter, while none of them want the almshouse in their vicinity, they are perfectly willing that some other ward should have it, and there is probably no location which could be chosen, to which no objections would be made. It has been a very difficult matter to decide upon any location; and the matter has taken up already more time than any other of the official duties of the committee.

MONEY IN ELECTIONS.

The bill to restrict and regulate the use of money in elections was defeated in the Senate on Thursday, and this will convey an unfortunate impression.

Even the Boston Journal says that "it is difficult to see how a man who values his reputation for veracity can deny that there is need of such a law as this, and deliberately close his eyes to certain phases of Massachusetts politics." It says that the defeat of the bill was a grave mistake and so it was.

The bill itself was a mild one, and a four horse team could have been driven through any of its provisions, so that there was no danger in passing it. Cynical people say it was evidently framed to gain a cheap reputation for honesty in elections for those who support it, and for this reason it is all the more inexplicable that the Senate should have defeated it. If it was really desired to prevent the use of money in elections, a bill could have been framed that would have been much more effective than the one proposed, but even this bill was a tentative striving after better things, and showed the effect of public opinion upon the members of the lower house. It was a step in the right direction, and possibly would have been followed by others which would have really accomplished what they professed to desire.

The new ballot law was a vigorous measure toward securing purity in elections, and will do a great deal toward clearing the political atmosphere. It ought to be followed up by a stringent law, restricting the use of money by candidates and their friends, and then Massachusetts would as it has done in the past have led the way in a needed reform.

A committee of Newton ladies have taken in charge the work of collecting clothing or bedding for the Pennsylvania sufferers, and ask that all who have such things to spare, to send them to Armory Hall on Monday next, between the hours of 9 a. m. and 6 p. m. The call should meet with a generous response as such articles are needed and will be for some time to come.

AID THE SUFFERERS.

A money subscription has not been started in Newton, as Newton citizens are already well represented on the Boston lists and probably all who desire to send money for the immediate wants of the sufferers have or will contribute through Boston agencies. The clothing and bedding will be gladly received, and the ladies who have the affair in charge should receive a generous donation at Armory Hall next Monday.

GOVERNOR AMES has made his appointment of the late Judge Park's successor, and has chosen Alderman John C. Kennedy. Mr. Cate notified the governor a week ago that he was out of the contest, and wished his name withdrawn from it. This left Mr. Kennedy as the leading candidate, and as his petition was signed by many of the leading citizens of Newton, he secured the appointment. The matter has received a good deal of discussion in private, and the governor has received a great number of petitions both for and against, and it must be a great relief to him that the matter has ended. Mr. Kennedy has practiced a good deal before the court, so that he is familiar with the business, and his petition bore the names of a great many of the most prominent citizens of Newton, including ministers, lawyers, doctors and business men, and any man might well feel proud of such an endorsement.

THE proposition to locate the alms-house on Cherry street has caused quite a commotion among the property owners of that section, and they have sent in a numerous signed remonstrance to the city council. A hearing has been granted for June 24th, and it is said that most of the residents on that side of the track will appear and protest against the unwelcome addition to their number. But where is the almshouse to be located? The property owners want it removed from Waban, it is not wanted in West Newton, and probably there would be a remonstrance raised against any location that could be selected in the city limits. One of the aldermen suggests that as it is clearly impossible to move the alms-house, the only alternative left is to move the city!

OUR excellent contemporary, the Milford Journal, says that the blunders at the State House the last six months give the Democratic managers high hopes of carrying the state next November, and among these blunders it considers the state house extension job, which the governor has favored in season and out of season; the Metropolitan Sewerage bill; the B & A. and the Bell Telephone watered stocks, and a number of other things which will cost the state a very handsome sum. It has certainly been a very accommodating legislature, and the members seem to think that the only thing to do with the public money is to spend it. The Journal is evidently looking for the day of judgment.

WHATEVER may be thought about the state house construction, which promises to prove a rather expensive affair, Governor Ames has made an admirable selection for the commissioners. They will command the entire confidence of the public. John D. Long heads the commission; William Endicott, Jr., is the financial head of the great mercantile house of C. F. Hovey & Co., and Benjamin D. Whitcomb is a builder of high standing. Such a commission ought to prevent any wasteful outlay, and secure an honest expenditure of the public money.

EDITOR George G. Cook of the Milford Journal has been appointed postmaster of that town, Postmaster Stratton being removed to make a place for him. Editor Cook is a firm believer in the spoils doctrine, but nevertheless we still believe that it is better to conduct a Republican paper from a pure love of the party, than from any desire to secure a fat office as a reward. An editor who accepts office gives ground for the suspicion that he is working for vulgar gain, rather than from a high and holy devotion to principle.

COL. HEWINS' statement that horse cars cost 10 cents a mile, while storage battery cars can be run for 5 cents or less, would make a great saving in the cost of running street cars, if the Colonel's calculations prove correct. So far the electric cars have proved much more expensive than horse cars, and any more economical methods than those now in use would be gladly hailed by street car companies.

NEWTON will be affected in one way by the great Johnstown calamity, as the Johnson steel rail company, whose works are located there, were to furnish rails for the Newton Street Railway Company. The works are destroyed and this may postpone the building of the road to a later date than at first contemplated.

ALDERMAN Kennedy will resign his position to accept the appointment of justice of the Newton police court, tendered him by Governor Ames, which will necessitate a new election. There has been no discussion yet of his successor, but the office will probably be given to him, restricting the use of money by candidates and their friends, and then Massachusetts would as it has done in the past have led the way in a needed reform.

Board of Health.

A special meeting of the board of health was held in the aldermen's room, City Hall, Thursday afternoon. W. H. Mague was awarded a contract for one year to collect the swill in various parts of the city, including Newton Lower Falls, at $2400 per annum, the contract to date from May 1. The first bids for the swill contract were based upon a term of three years, the figures being W. H. Mague, $9,000; John J. Gannon, $5,000. Both were rejected on the ground that the one was too high and the other too low. Proposals were again asked for by the board on the basis of a one year contract and only one bid was received, that of W. H. Mague. From the first figures quoted by the party to whom the contract has been awarded, the city saves $800, although it is rarely the case that a city rejects a proposal on the ground that the bid is too low, provided sufficient bonds are given for satisfactorily carrying out the work.

Applications of Electricity.

Scribner's Magazine for June marks the beginning of a new enterprise not less notable than the Railway Series commenced a year ago. It is the series of popular articles on The Practical Applications of Electricity, a subject which has become of chief importance in the scientific, commercial and industrial world. The opening article by Professor C. F. Brackett, of Princeton, is entitled "Electricity in the Service of man." It is an introductory paper which sets forth, in a clear and precise way, some of the common methods by which the more important electrical phenomena are produced, the laws which they reveal, and the principles involved in measuring electrical quantities such as the Volt, Ampere and Ohm—terms which have lately come into general use, though not popularly understood. The principles so lucidly explained in this article will be fully applied in the rest of the series which will describe Modern Telegraphy, Electric Lighting, Household Devices, etc. The illustrations in Professor Brackett's paper show some of the best apparatus in a thoroughly equipped modern laboratory, and include a number of rare portraits and several fine plates.

Among the writers already secured for this series are announced C. L. Buckingham, chief electrical expert of the Western Union, President Henry Morton of Stevens Institute, Dr. M. Allen Starr, a prominent authority on electricity in medicine, and A. E. Kennedy, chief electrician in Mr. Edison's laboratory. Each paper will be elaborately illustrated from special sketches and photographs, which it has been possible to make through the unusual privileges granted this Magazine by the leading electrical companies.

Two Literary Women.

Although Mrs. Cashel Hoyce has been for many years before the public as a writer, and has produced excellent work in fiction, she has never been fortunate enough to achieve a wonderful paying success. She has told me that her earnings average $500 a year, about $250, or $50 a week. She values her American connection very highly, and acknowledges that the largest part of her income is derived from America. Having formed a literary partnership for copyright purposes with John Lillie, the Harpers are able to protect her later writings, and pay her with the promptness and liberality which the name is a synonym. Mrs. Hoyce lives in a pretty house in the old Court suburb, Kensington, not far from the beautiful town house of the Duke of Argyll on Camden Hill. Her husband is a legal light, and is a permanent member of the counsel for the management of the Prince of Wales's Royal estates. This office brings him a salary of £1000 per annum, so that financially as well as socially Mr. and Mrs. Cashel Hoyce are in an enviable position. Mrs. Campbell Praed is a graceful, delicate young woman of about 35. She comes of a good family, and the name of her husband is also that of a family. She is a charmingly artistic dresser, and as far as her health will permit associates with a gay and fashionable set. Her novels are widely read, but in England are kept away from young readers, exactly as those of Julia. They are in a certain sense brilliant, but are restricted to the delineation of scenes and manners of a fast and loose class of people—a kind only too prominent in large cities in this feverish age. Her literary style violates all canons of the art, as understood and studied by the more serious writers; nevertheless, it is not necessary to buy any new pieces, a fascination in her study of character, which causes a reader to pursue her fiction breathlessly to the end, and then toss it away, vowing that the time spent in reading it might and should be more profitably employed. Mrs. Campbell Praed has been in America, having made the now regulation trip thither with her friend, Justin McCarthy.

Ideal Summer Cooking.—The latest invention for lightening the labors of the housekeeper is the "Famous" Oil Range, which is a complete substitute for the coal range. It is unlike any other oil stove. Its distinctive feature is the Curved Burners on the principle of the Rochester or Student Lamp, making it one-third more powerful than any other oil stove of equal size. It will do all the Cooking, Washing and Ironing of the family with greater ease and at less expense than a coal or wood stove. Another advantage it possesses is in taking the regular stove furniture so it is not necessary to buy any new pieces. The stove is on a Permanent Stand and is just high enough to work over with ease. It has the endorsement of Mrs. Henry Ward Beecher and many other prominent housekeepers, and is certainly the highest development of an oil cooking apparatus we have yet seen.

Wonderful Nerve.

How often you hear this expression in the sense of meaning "great audacity" and surely no greater instance can be given than the audacity of some Tea Stores in imposing on the people poor and adulterated trash with a present, relying on their ignorance not to discover the imposition. Do not be longer deceived. Buy O. & O. Tea which is a pure Tea containing only choice high grade leaf and guaranteed by a responsible company. This will strengthen your system so that you will truly have a "wonderful nerve."

CLEVELAND'S

THE PUREST AND BEST

Is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, and a small portion of flour as a preservative, nothing else whatever, and is warranted entirely free from alum, ammonia, phosphates, lime, and all the adulterants frequently found in baking powders. The character of materials used, their purity, and the nicety of their combination, render Cleveland's superior baking powder the most healthful and most economical in use, and it always affords wholesome, nutritious, and delicious food.

It is recommended for purity, healthfulness and efficiency by Government and State chemists, chemists of Boards of Health, and professors in institutions of learning throughout the country.

It was a Connecticut boy who surprised his teacher in reading the other day, by his interpretation of the sentence, "There is a worm; do not tread on him." He read slowly and hesitatingly, "There is a worm doughnut; tread on him!"—[Christian Register.

"Here's a funny error in spelling," said Fogg's aunt, looking up from the play-bill, "that woman in the bathing costume is put down as a 'diva.' Of course, anybody can see what is meant, but it's odd that such a mistake as that should have gone through without anybody discovering it."—[Boston Transcript.

—Wildor M. Bush is getting his yacht "Adrian" into sea condition. She is now lying in Boston harbor with her crew on board, and will make her first trip during the latter part of the present month.

—The members of the Woman's Educational club will attend a basket picnic at the Arboretum, West Roxbury, Wednesday, June 12. Barges will start from the West Newton railroad station at 8.45, a. m.

—A pamphlet has been issued by the West Newton Woman's Educational Club containing an account of meetings held during the winter, and containing besides a large amount of interesting matter concerning woman's work and education.

—Mr. John Pearce sailed Saturday in the Pavonia for Europe, and was wished a happy bon voyage by numerous friends who went to see him off. He goes to Paris and London, representing a syndicate in this country in the interests of the terminal city and will be absent for about three months.

—Mrs. Sarah Lockett, aged 80 years, died at her late residence, Forest avenue, Saturday. She was born in Alton, Mass., and was the widow of Mr. James G. Lockett. She had been a resident of this city for about five years, and was much respected and esteemed. The funeral took place from her late residence, Tuesday, at 2.30 p. m.

—Miss Jane Fahey and Patrick Fitzgerald were married in St. Bernard's church, Wednesday morning, Fr. Barrett officiating. Miss Fahey was connected with the Sunday school and had numerous friends in the city. The couple received many wedding gifts, including a handsome marble mantel clock from the Sunday school. Mr. and Mrs. Fitzgerald will reside in Faneuil.

—At a supper given to the young ladies who were in the cast in the drama, "Held by the Enemy," given under the auspices of the Young Men's Association, at the residence of Mr. J. R. Condrin made the presentation speech, and Fr. Barrett responded, expressing his appreciation of the kind sentiment which prompted the gift.

—There is much opposition to the proposed location of the almshouse on Cherry street, and already a remonstrance has been received by the board of aldermen, signed by Messrs. Vernon E. Carpenter, G. B. Wilbur, L. G. Pratt and about 80 others. Citizens generally who live in the vicinity of the location proposed are uniting in active opposition to the plan, and it would be an injury to their property, and that some more isolated site should be secured.

—The estate of the late Geo. E. Allen was sold by Bruce S. Evans at public auction, Monday afternoon, at prices which are well considered. The property consisted of a house and 11.355 feet of land was purchased by Harry Edwards for $3,100; a lot of land on Cherry street, adjoining the dwelling house, containing 9.281 square feet was sold to S. E. Barber at 7.34 etc. lot of land, containing 7,002 feet on the corner of River and Cherry streets, to Geo. A. Fewkes, at 8.1-2 cents; lot of land on Cherry street, containing 6.471 feet to Mrs. Johnson at 8 cents. The sale of the dwelling house is regarded as unfortunate, as it may result in depreciating the value of real estate in the neighborhood.

—The city marshal has advertised for bids for supplying the police department with uniforms, and the bids will be received by the committee on police until Saturday, June 15, when they will be opened. The committee reserve the right to reject any or all bids. An appropriation of $10,000 was provided in the annual appropriation bill for the introduction of the system, and it is probable that it will be introduced and be in operation in a few months.

—A very pretty home wedding took place at the residence of Mr. George L. Rogers, Mr. Vernon street, Wednesday evening, when his daughter, Miss May L. Lovett, was married to Mr. Chas. P. Hall. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. C. Gaynes, pastor of the Unitarian church, in the presence of the immediate relatives and friends, and a reception followed from 8 to 10 o'clock, some 700 guests being present from the neighborhood and other cities. The house was beautifully decorated with exquisite cut flowers and potted plants, and during the evening a fine musical program was rendered. The wedding gifts included a very valuable collection of solid silverware, works of art and a bewildering variety of useful and ornamental articles. Mr. and Mrs. Hall will enjoy a wedding tour, and upon their return will reside in Newton.

C.; competitive individual drill by a detail of 12 from each company, commanded by Adj. W. A. Leedom; competitive company drill, Co. B. and Co. B.; skirmish drill, commanded by Capt. A. W. Little; dress parade, commanded by Maj. F. L. Moorehead; award of prizes and commissions by Mayor Burr; the judges will be Capt. N. A. Thompson, D. C. staff 2d Brigade, M. V. M.; Lieut. F. L. Locke, adjutant 1st Battalion, Cavalry, M. V. M.; the music for the occasion will be rendered by the Fifth Regt. band, Mace Gay, leader, and the march "Major Benyon," Burrell, will be rendered here for the first time. This beautiful march was dedicated to Maj. Benyon of the 5th Regt., M. V. M., the military instructor at the high school.

—Mrs. Lucy Lane Allen died at the residence of her son, Mr. Nathaniel T. Allen, last Saturday afternoon. The deceased was born in Scituate, and was the daughter of Mr. Benjamin T. Lane. She was 83 years of age, and had enjoyed remarkably good health during the greater part of her long life. When a young girl she taught school in Medford, and was a very successful teacher. She was married in 1814 to Mr. Ellis Allen of Medford, where she resided until his death in 1876. Since that time she had resided with her children. Mrs. Allen was a lady of great culture and ability, was an advocate of liberal education, and progressive ideas upon the care and management of the young. A short time since she received a severe shock, and a fall and her health gradually failed. She was the representative of the sixth generation, her ancestors having settled in Medford and lived upon the same spot during all the years since. She was the mother of 8 children, 6 of whom are living, William C. Joseph A., Nathaniel T. and James T. Allen, Mrs. Lucy M. Davis and Mrs. Abby J. Davis. Her funeral was taken for the funeral home of Mr. J. B. Stoddard, and the English and Classical school.

The young ladies in charge were: Misses Lizzie Hill, Fannie Smith and Bessie Gordon.

—The carnival on the Charles river, June 17, under the auspices of the Newton Boat club, will be one of the most interesting affairs of the kind ever carried out in this city. The program for the day includes a tennis tournament on the club grounds and other competitive sports in the forenoon. In the afternoon there will be a regatta, and among the events to take place on the river will be a canoe race for Rob Roy boats, a race for cedar rowing boats, a club race and a swimming match. In the evening the clubhouse and grounds will be brilliantly illuminated, and there will be a promenade concert, followed by dancing and social features.

—The Appalachian Mountain Club started May 30 on their excursion to Mt. Ascutney, Vermont, the Cas-cad-na-dee of the Indians. The cars were left at Cold River and the party was taken for the Mt. Ascutney, where blasts were fired to enable the party to obtain specimens of beryl, and then to Charlestown, N. H., where headquarters were established. Friday was devoted to Mt. Ascutney, twenty miles distant. In going the horses were eased by the party making twelve miles in a car attached to an empty cattle train. The ascent was easy, the air clear, and the view grand, Ascutney being 3185 feet above sea-level. The return ride in the evening was enlivened by songs, by showers, and by raids on the farm houses for supplies. Saturday the amateur photographers took several remarkable views in Devil's Gulch in which our Newton members all find themselves left handed. Most of the party stayed over Sunday.

On Thursday, May 30, the ordinary exercises of the school were not omitted, but the day was devoted to the annual review before Capt. E. C. Whitney, preparatory to meeting the procession, which arrived and passed the seminary at about 6 o'clock. Both companies of the Lasell students were drawn up in line at the foot of the lawn as the procession passed. The veterans and dignitaries in carriages lifted their hats to the girl soldiers as they went by. After the military companies had turned the corner and gone down Grove street, they stood in line on one side, and the Lasell companies passed them, escorted by a drum corps, and for the purpose. The girls stocked their guns, counter-marched, and when in front of the soldiers who had served in the late war, at the command of Capt. Whitney, they broke ranks and each girl decorated one of the veterans with a military badge of red, white and blue, until every one of the veterans had one of the decorations pinned to his coat. It was all very gracefully done and formed a pleasing feature of this Memorial Day.

There will be

THEN AND NOW.

When Washington was president, As cold as any icicle, He never on a railroad went, And never rode a bicycle.

He read by no electric lamp, Nor heard about the Yellowstone, He never licked a postage stamp, And saw a telephone.

His trousers ended at the knees, By wire he could not send a dispatch, He filled his lamp with whale oil grease, And never had a match to scratch.

But in these days it's come to pass, All work is with such dashing done— We've all those things; but then, alas— We seem to have no Washington.

AMERICAN CELESTIALS.

GRAPHIC PICTURES OF THE CHINESE IN SAN FRANCISCO.

[Written for the GRAPHIC.]

SAN FRANCISCO, May 25.—It was only a few weeks ago that the city of San Francisco was illuminated in honor of the signing of the Chinese exclusion act. There were street bonfires, gorgeous pyrotechnics, bands of music, long processions and a general glorification. The community was in a condition of ecstasy, for the popular cry of "The Chinese must go!" had been realized and everybody was happy. Now the great ships from the Flowery Kingdom no longer dump a thousand or more Celestials into San Francisco every fortnight. In fact it is easier for a camel to pass through the eye of the proverbial needle than for a John Chinaman to get past the Golden Gate. All kinds and classes of people seemed to labor for this particular consummation. The newspapers, Democratic and Republican alike, vied with each other in urging the passage of the bill and then demanding the president's signature. The coast seemed to be a unit on the proposition, and politicians declared that the uncivilized Mongolian must not be permitted to take the bread from the civilized Caucasian, and that this was a white man's government, intended only for white men, and for white workmen particularly. Between you and me, good reader, it was largely the cry of the demagogue. Scratch a property holding Californian today, and ten to one you will find him quietly, but none the less positively, a pro-Chinese man. He will shout anti-Chinese with the best of them for business, political or other prudential reasons, but he knows and will admit to intimate friends that Chinese labor has been the making of California, and that without it the state would not have been what she is in this year of our Lord 1889. The lands that have been reclaimed, the grapes that have been harvested, the railroads that have been built and the vines and fruits exported, are the result of the plodding, uncomplaining, industrious and poorly paid John Chinaman. You might as well say that the South Atlantic states should do away with the services of the negro as that the Pacific slope should banish the almondy Celestial. Today, even, they are necessities; not creatures merely held on sufferance. They can do and will do what the white man cannot and should not. They are the scavengers of the cities, the safety of the country. There are times in the vineyards, the hop fields, the fruit groves, that thousands of men are necessary at once, for a week or two weeks, say a month, in the year. For that time they are needed, and only then. White men could not exist on one month's work in twelve, but the Chinese can. It will be a perplexing problem to solve, how the California grapes and fruits can be harvested when John Chinaman is no more. I met Dennis Kearney today on the fashionable thoroughfare that is named after him and the late general. The sand lots orator is a little down at the heel at present, but he is blatant and bold as ever. "What should we do with them?" he said angrily in answer to my question: "throw 'em in the sewer; they're not earthly good. If they were not here, white men could have employment and this country would be populated by Christian and Caucasian workers. Put the Chinese out altogether, and there would flock from the east an army of white laborers who would be a credit to the state, who would be the consumers as well as the producers, which the Chinese are not; who would spend their money where they earned it, which the Chinese do not; who would improve society, not degrade it, and who would help the general cause of humanity." Now this argument of Dennis Kearney is the regulation argument of the day. Perhaps it is the strongest side of the case; it is certainly the most popular. But the interesting fact remains, that thus far no one has been discovered who can fill the bill, who can take the place of the heathen, for with him the country has been developed and agriculture and viticulture made profitable. Without him it would be an impossibility.

Mark you, please, this letter is not an argument for the Chinese. Far from it. It is a beautiful dictum and a most acceptable one, that this glorious country is for the Caucasian, not the Mongolian; for the Christian, not the Pagan; for the brightness of American progress, not for the darkness of Chinese superstition. Heaven speed the day that it may come to pass, but we must look at things as they are, not as we would wish them to be. And in things as they are we find the pig tail a very large, important and by no means lovely element in California life. If you would see the Chinaman at his best and worst, you must look him over in his own house in San Francisco. I have seen him in his haunts night and day; in the cool of the evening and in the bright light of the morning, and know him fairly well. Within a compact area of twelve blocks is Chinatown here located, and yet within that area nearly 40,000 Celestials live, or rather exist. They herd together like rats, and their mode of living is little above the animal. The Chinese Joss houses, theatre, restaurants, opium joints and gambling halls have been frequently described, but they can give little idea of the reeking depravity of the place. For two or three dollars a guide will take a couple through the entire town, and the excursion takes from 8 in the evening until 2 in the morning. It is all a fearful picture, but the white man or woman is treated with marked respect, and can go anywhere without fear of robbery or physical harm. In one three story building 1,500 Chinamen will live, the rooms being arranged like the forecastle of a ship, in tiers of bunks one set above another. One large room is for eating, another for cooking, and all the surroundings, while more or less clean, are dark, dingy and barren. The Celestials fairly swarm in these places, and their heathenish jabber is a puzzle. The theatre is the place to see John Chinaman at his ease. It holds about 2,000 and is densely packed night after night. The visiting white is allowed to sit on the stage. The play usually lasts for three or four weeks, and is given in sections of two or three a night. No scenery is used, and a hideous band of musicians twang at a hideous lot of ear splitting instruments while the actors perform. No woman is permitted to act, so men take their places. They are educated up to it, and the simpering Chinese maid in gorgeous dress is excellently portrayed by some young fellow. Watching the vast sea of faces from the stage is a picture one will long remember. One man seems the exact duplicate of the other; they all look alike, and wearing the identical hat, pig tail and blouse, the scene is monotonous to a degree. However much pleased he may be, the Chinaman seldom shows it and never applauds. Occasionally there is a grunt of pleasure, but the yellow, expressionless faces never light up with satisfaction. When a section of the play ends at midnight they all go out and gamble—every mother's son of them—and the lottery dealers do a thriving business. Later they tumble into their wretched bunks, and with a little box of opium "hit the pipe" and lie down to pleasant dreams. In the restaurants you can see the rich Chinaman. He is superbly dressed, and has about him his men friends and his women slaves. He sparkles with jewels, and is the fat and greasy citizen we meet in the purple of life. Chinese musicians play for him, Chinese women coddle him and the restaurant feeds him and his guests with the finest of food. Even into the secrecy of their magnificent pink dining halls the white visitor can boldly enter and look on. John Chinaman fears to offend his Caucasian brother in any way. To him everything is open. Down in other sections of the town, the gambling places, the "two bittee lookie" quarter and the poorer streets reeking with depravity, are many interesting sights, but I draw the veil. Only this can be said for it—the Celestial keeps all his vice to himself. He is never drunk outside, never ragged, dirty, disreputable or dishonest away from Chinatown. He will plod and work and slave for you faithfully up to the letter of any agreement. It is only when he leaves you to become his own master that he makes the break and going to his haunts becomes a low, vicious atom of humanity.

I attended a Chinese funeral. While in the flesh the "remains" had been popular, and the paid criers at his bier were many. The friends also gathered numerous, and many invocations were made to the God of Wrath, the God of Luck and the God of Health to make it pleasant for the departed in the sweet by and by. It seemed to me that every hack in San Francisco had been chartered for this funeral, for when the carriage procession started it was fully a mile and a half long before the last Chinese quartet had gotten into the last vehicle. A carriage full of musicians, playing tom-toms and beating gongs, led the way, then the hearse holding the body, placed in a common coffin. Upon the hearse sat a Chinaman laden with small pieces of perforated tissue paper. Behind the hearse, at intervals of ten carriages, were more tom-toms and gongs. Finally the funeral started and dashed through the city pell mell, bound for the graveyard. It looked more like a fast drive to a horse trot than a pilgrimage to a cemetery. When they moved along the Chinaman on the hearse began throwing out his bits of paper until the streets were littered with them. The wind took them here, there and everywhere, and as they scattered, the Chinaman chuckled merrily. It is a Chinese superstition that when the body starts to the grave, the devil starts too, and tries to get there before the corpse, which he is supposed to grab. But in the race he must pick up every bit of paper thrown from the hearse. If he misses even one, the jig is up and the corpse is a winner. This particular funeral finally reached the cemetery, where the body was hurriedly put in the open grave, which was as quickly closed up. At the end of the procession came an express cart laden with a young roasted pig, dishes of juicy sweetmeats, pots of rice, nuts and teas. These were all reverently placed on the grave and the mourners departed. The idea is that when the devil does arrive he will be pacified by finding a good, hearty meal. The next day the roasted pig is gone.

LONDON MEMORANDA.

Photographic Flashes Taken in the Great City by Prentice Mulford.

(Special Correspondence.)

SAG HARBOR, May 30.—No "tumblers" in England. All glasses, a "pitcher" is a jug. Don't ask for pitcher of water over there. Nobody will know what you mean. Warning all in cold weather they call "chilling" it. Done in a sort of brass hopper kept on bar. Nobody in London knows Thames as a river. Told driver once to drive me to river. Didn't know what I meant. Must ask for bridge you want that crosses Thames. Such as "Westminster," "Waterloo," "Blackfriars," "London," etc. Coal spoken of as "coals." No "buggies." Molasses known as "treacle." Sold by the pound. "Chemist" and "druggist," different affairs. People spoken of as "starved with cold." London English better spoken than with us. All syllables sounded. None cut off. Full justice done to the terminal

"ing." Thus: London says "speak-ing," America, "speak-in." Lancashire English next to Choctaw. Devonshire English resembles New England English. Liverpool English sprinkled with Welsh. Few restaurants. Most coffee houses or chop houses. Coffee generally sloppy. Tea good. Frequent notice in windows: "No charge for cooking." Meaning this: Customer buys chop or steak at market. Coffee house cooks it without charge. Charges penny for coffee. Ditto for bread and butter. Special shops for cooked food abundant. "Ham and beef shops." Corned beef. Ready at noon. Can buy down to two pence worth. Shaved off very thin. Superbly cooked. Freshly boiled potatoes and turnips by the ha'penny worth. Given you in paper roll. Also soup kitchens. Soup only. Pea soup and beef soup. Penny a bowl. Bowls chained to table. Also fish kitchens. Busy mostly at night, 10:30 p. m. for late suppers. Fish fried in vats of oil. Potatoes ditto. Eight cents buys fish supper for two. Pint of porter two pence. Fish kitchens crowded at night. Customers, plate in hand, at counter, two deep. Also hot sausage shops, eel pie shops, kidney pie shops. Boiled "winks" on hand cart. Otherwise salt water snails. Picked out of shell with pin.

Britain a land of bars, otherwise "public houses." Our saloons there are "wine and spirit vaults." Brass mounted. Heavy brass work and railings outside. Endless polishing required. British bar mounted for heavy work. Heavy liquors, generally taken straight. Liquors cheap and as a rule better than ours. All measured out to customer. Customer never touches bottle. Buy by the "go." Thus "a two-penny go of rum," "a three-penny go of gin." British bar divided into compartments and departments. To suit classes and wants of customers. Thus "bar parlor," for sedentary and social drinking. "Bottle and jug department," or "Family Entrance." For the maid with the family beer jug. Other departments for stand up drinks. All front on same bar. Bar maids abundant. Bars as free to women customers as men. Equality of privilege. Ditto at times of drunkenness, especially on Saturday night at London's East End. Drunken women common in parts of London. Also women in rags. Also women in rotten rags. Find them on sunny days sitting in rows on curbstones. Bleary eyed. Slouchy, sooty, slovenly. Beg of you for penny as you pass. Live on gin and herring. Live in holes. Live anywhere. Can't tell themselves where they do live. One roof this week, another that. Not much woman or humanity apparently left in them.

Gin and milk favorite morning beverage. Among working classes. Reputed nutritious as well as stimulating. Gives massive headaches and runs in to knees if too freely used.

Streets very cleanly swept. New York's a pig sty in comparison. Noliberty poles. All flag stags sticking out of church steeples. Economy of space in burying grounds. One grave holds entire family. Twelve feet deep at first. One coffin atop the other. One tombstone does for the family. Epitaph spaces left for those who are to follow. No room for long verses. Plethora of sepulchral and ghastly taste. Skeletons in stone carved over old church doors.

Pomp at funerals. Coffins black. Hearse horses ditto. With manes two feet in length. Tails sweeping the ground. Peculiar breed. Raised for funerals. Broke to hearses. Pirates' flag half yard in length from hearse driver's hat. Plug hat. Hired mourners. Clad in rusty black. More plug hat and red noses. Will mourn for you at so much per hour. No matter who you are, where you came from, what you've done or where you're going to. Afterward adjourn to tavern near cemetery, and refresh on beer and cheese. Ruby tint on end of nose renewed. Ready for next mourn. Business of a prolonged perfunctory mourn. Advertising posters with scale of prices for funerals common on streets. Four or five grades of funeral. Lowest fifteen to twenty dollars. Highest one hundred. Burying a big business in England. Everybody dies there some time in their lives.

Copied following epitaph from a Woolwich grave yard:

Went not for me, my parents dear, There in no weakness wanted here, The hammer of death was given to me, For eating the cherries of the tree.

The Day of the Month. "Let's see, what day of the month is this?" That question is heard in the hotel writing rooms hundreds of times a day. One man after another sits down to write a letter and has to ask his neighbor. His neighbor likely does not know unless he has asked some one else before the questioner came in; and the man who originally stated the date was probably able to do so only by referring to a newspaper which he was lucky enough to have with him. Out of ten business men who sit down to write a letter there is not more than one who dares to date a letter from memory; and this is probably as true of business men in general as of those who are found in the hotel writing rooms.—Troy Times.

The Minister's Technique Was Wrong.

(From the Chicago News.)

Mr. Gausaulus was telling a group of the bibliomaniacs yesterday that there was nothing so beautiful in a house as a bay of bright children. "I have a very lovely family," said he. "I hold, as the lovely would say, a bobtail flush." "What's that?" asked Hon. Charles B. Farwell, the well-known collector of Bibles and psalm books. "We are talking about children," exclaimed Mr. Gausaulus, "and as I was saying that in our family we have a bobtail flush—four girls and a boy." Thereupon everybody laughed—every body except the sage of East Pearson street. "No," said Mr. Farwell, smiling sadly, "it is evident you have had no experience in the ways of the world; otherwise you would not make so erroneous an application of terms. You do not hold a bobtail flush; you hold four of a kind—four queens and jack—a powerful good hand, sir, and I should advise you to stand pat."

Hard on the nerves: A dog down in Pennsylvania swallowed the baby's rattle the other day. It hasn't affected the dog seriously, but it's awful wearing on the people of the house. Every time the dog moves it sounds as though a rattle-snake was after you, and the result is that about two-thirds of the time everybody in the house is either climbing up on a chair or jumping down from one.—Burdette.

E. C. MORRIS & CO'S SAFES

ALWAYS PRESERVE THEIR CONTENTS. Read from the Great Marblehead, Mass. fire. Marblehead, Mass., Dec. 23, 1888. Messrs. E. C. MORRIS & Co., Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen, This is to certify that I have been using a No. 6 E. C. Morris & Co's safe in my store, and that in the most terrible fire this town has ever known on the night of the 25th inst., the safe was subjected to very intense heat for 36 hours, and upon its being opened, to my surprise, found its contents in perfect condition, with the exception of the leather on one book which was against the wall of the safe, while the writing on every leaf was as clear as if legible as when it was put in. I also found Machine Twist, Needles, Papers, etc., in good, clear condition. In case I should feel that I can do no better than to use again what has served me well in this fire, in our fire of 1887 I had a safe of another make, the contents of which came out in very good shape but not as well as this one, although this fire was not as bad as this one.

You are at liberty to use this testimonial as you see fit, and should take pleasure in showing the books, etc., to any one who would like to see them.

Respectfully Yours, [Sgn.] HENRY O. SYMONDS.

P. S. Dec. 28.—I have this day purchased another of same size, having been satisfied with the other.

Boston, Mass., Jan. 2, 1889.

Messrs. E. C. Morris & Co., Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen, On Aug. 9th, 1887, we had one of your large safe of 9th in our Wollbrook, N. H. factory, which went through a very hot fire and stood the test. Again on Dec. 25, 1888, in the Marblehead conflagration another of your safe stood the test and all its contents found in good condition, even a gross of matches.

Under the circumstances we can safely recommend your make to all.

Yours truly, [Sgn.] F. W. & I. M. Monroe.

Marblehead, Mass., Dec. 28, 1889.

Messrs. E. C. MORRIS & Co., Boston, Mass.

Gentlemen, On opening our safe which we purchased from you some time ago, we found everything in perfect condition. The situation of our safe caused it to be exposed to intense heat for a number of hours, and we were very much surprised to find it in such good condition. As soon as we are ready to purchase we will call and select another of your make.

Yours very truly, J. M. Cropley & Bros.

A WOMAN'S ADVICE.

The Rich Experience and Earnest Counsel Given by a Lady who wishes the Good of Her Sex.

The official statistics for New England show that more than three-fourths of all who die are females. This is something appalling. To think of the thousands of beautiful, delicate and lovely women, who pass each year into untimely graves, and often after long suffering, is terrible.

Some die of fevers, some of child-birth, and some of inherited disease, but by far the greater number pass away by the innumerable troubles known as female complaints. There is something about these complaints that makes it shudder to think of. It would seem that they are needless, but we find most women weakened, depressed, and subject to pains and distresses, and periodically sick.

Probably no woman ever knew more about or sympathized more keenly with suffering than Mrs. Wm. A. Livermore. Speaking on the subject recently, she said: "I have sometimes felt that life was a failure when I saw how much suffering there was, but I have found out how to overcome these great troubles which assail womankind. First of all, careful living is necessary, and then I believe that if every woman would use the great remedy which I have found so good, she could be certainly restored to health and happiness. I do not know its ingredients, but Hunt's is beyond question the greatest compound ever offered to suffering women. I have used it and seen its good effects. I have seen women so low that they thought of death brought back to health, vigor and life by its use. I believe it has the power to make any woman happier, to banish her sufferings, and prolong her life."

Such are the words of advice which any woman who desires health and beauty, instead of sickness or sorrow, cannot afford to neglect.

Silks and Lace Wraps That Are Simply Dazzling—Walking Gowns That Are Visions of Loveliness—Blending Directoire Styles with Common Sense.

(Special Correspondence.)

New York, May 30.—Of all the wraps for very warm weather that I have seen, the two that are presented here are probably the best adapted for the purpose, and they are both entirely novel and can be made very easily. The little shoulder wrap is made of silk and lace, and is one of the kind that gives grace and piquancy to a slender figure and makes a stout one look slim. The model is of rich black Ottoman silk, trimmed with real guipure lace, arranged much in the form of a

SILK AND LACE WRAPS.

Berthe in front and set in the shoulder seam at the back, being held full over the shoulder. Crochet or jetted rosettes add richness to it, and at the neck there is a lace frill standing, with a fall in form of a collar. This is made by taking lace of the same width as the rest and gathering it so that the selvedge edge comes at the top and the flowered edge falls below. The upper edge can have a button-holding of colored sash silk along it, and this has a very pretty effect. The belt is of rich black ribbon. This wrap can be utilized, as the silk shows but little and is really more for the foundation than anything else.

Many ladies have laid by which would come in very handy for this wrap. Thread, Chantilly, French imitation, Spanish or guipure, are all suitable, and it is a most dressy, dainty little garment. I asked the quantities of materials needed and find that it requires but one yard and one-eighth of silk and two and one-quarter yards of lace about nine inches wide and two yards of the narrower lace, or four if all of one width. The length of the bows and ends govern the quantity of ribbon.

The long black lace mantle is made of the lace woven for the purpose, and is to be simply gathered on to a yoke and then gathered in the back to a ribbon. These are worn over light colored dresses, and are very pretty. It is economical, as when the fashion for such a wrap goes out, it can be made over into a handsome dress. These are however only worn by matrons. The other wraps are for the younger ladies.

The two pretty walking gowns show the happy blending of the directoire styles with common sense, and both are entirely novel and exceedingly elegant.

I saw yesterday a dress that had just been finished for a young girl, and it was so pretty that I must describe it. It was of very light gray derobe, a material as cheap as it is pretty, and the skirt was plain and full in the back, being shirred about five inches deep around the hips.

Three rows of black velvet ribbon, one inch wide, were sewn around the bottom above the hem. The waist was surplice front, with black velvet ribbon on the edges. The sleeves had velvet cuffs, and there was a hemmed sash of the dress material draped on a buckram waist-band, and edged with the velvet all around, and a fringe was made on the bottom of the sash by loops of velvet. The young lady who will wear this will wear pink flowers, and thus be a thing of beauty and a joy to her sweetheart.

WE DO NOT HESITATE

To assert that in no other establishment in New England will you be able to make your selections from such a magnificent stock of goods. No other establishment caters to the wants of the purchasing public so thoroughly and completely as we do.

No Other Establishment in our line of business Can Compete With Us,

Either in the varieties offered for selection or in the remarkably low prices quoted on the goods.

WE SELL FOR EITHER CASH OR ON INSTALLMENTS,

AND ANY ARTICLE WHICH YOU BUY OF US WE WILL DELIVER FREE to any city or town in New England where there is a railroad freight station.

IN REGARD TO OUR NOW FOR

CARPET SALE CHAMBER SETS.

We will say this: The manufacturers of carpets, owing to the dull buying of their goods by the retailers, find themselves overstocked, and, as a matter of fact, are anxious to dispose of a part of their surplus at once. We have taken advantage of this condition of the market, and have made some mammoth purchases in this line, and on entering our store you will see hundreds and hundreds of rolls, stacked four and five deep, all in the original sacks, just as they came from the mill. And now that the goods have all arrived, and are ready for immediate delivery,

WE ARE PREPARED

To offer them to the public of New England at prices lower than ever before quoted on the same grades of goods.

YOU CANNOT

Do yourselves or us a greater favor than to come to our establishment, look at our stock, and then compare it with the small, insignificant displays which are offered in the majority of houses in our line of business in this city.

WE MAKE NO VAIN BOASTS nor MISLEADING STATEMENTS, neither do we come out in the papers with falseboos so glaring that they insult the intelligence of the people who read them. WHAT WE HAVE DONE is a matter of record, and a record of which we are proud. WITH US YOU CAN DO, we want you to come and see for yourselves.

WE HAVE CARPETED OUR SIDEWALK WITH

Royal Wilton Velvet,

The same grade that we are selling at such low figures, and shall let it until Wednesday night. It has already had three days' wear, and we propose to give it three days more.

THOUSANDS WALK ON THAT CARPET daily, and when we take it up it will have been subjected to such an ordeal as no other carpet has ever passed through. You must know that we are perfectly confident of what our goods will stand when we do this.

LOOK FOR THAT CARPET

As you pass by, and then come in and see our prices and get our prices.

We have hundreds of rolls of

STRAW MATTING

And at the prices we are selling the stock is waiting rapidly.

—The first Episcopal service in this village was held on Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock, in small Associates' Hall, which was well filled notwithstanding the threatening aspect of the weather. The ladies had spent much time in making it look like a chapel and in this they were very successful. Rev. Mr. Mills of Newton Highlands officiated and spoke earnestly to the new society on their duties to themselves, and to the church. A quartet composed of Mr. David B. Harding, Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Hunter and Miss Belle Bassett, sang. Mrs. A. R. Dyer presiding at the organ. "Trinity" is the name that has been adopted for the new church which starts out under very favorable auspices.

—On Wednesday of last week an all-day missionary meeting was held in the Methodist Episcopal church. At 9 o'clock the exercises commenced with a business meeting. Mrs. Watkins, secretary of the New England Missionary Society, presided. Mrs. Danforth was called upon to speak of her work in the society. She gave a very graphic account of it, she being the recipient of all the clothes, goods, etc., sent to the society for distribution. These she forwarded to the west and south. Then came the close of Mrs. Danforth's report, Miss Grace Dyer sang "Calvary." Later a trio was sung by Miss Degan, Miss Spence and Miss Dyer. The Putnam of Boston then spoke. She established the Methodist Bethany Home at the North End for the destitute and fallen, going about herself to rescue and bring to this home many who sorely need help. Her account of her work was very vivid and many of her anecdotes, heartrending. Mrs. May was next introduced. She is an Italian by birth and the wife of the missionary to the thousands of Italians in the North End. Her work, which was begun in Italy, is now being carried on here, and she certainly is doing a good work in Boston. At the close of her address, luncheon was served in the dining room of the church to the speakers and guests. At two o'clock the exercises were continued. Rev. G. L. Haven speaking on immigration in Providence, R. I., for commencement at Brown University.

—Frank, Leland, who has but just recovered from a sprained ankle caused by a fall from his bicycle, sprained it again Memorial Day in the ball game, and will be laid up for the greater part of the summer.

—Letters remaining at the postoffice: E. E. Chapman, Miss Lizzie Hartwell, Geo. McCormick, Miss Mary A. McDonald, Mrs. Mary Mills, Mrs. S. D. Munroe, Mr. A. E. Rogers, Mr. Thomas Smith, Mrs. Mary Vignoli.

—On Saturday, May 25, occurred the piano recital given by the pupils of Miss Fanny Mears. Those who attended were pleased by the delicacy of expression and intelligence of interpretation shown by the pupils, and also by the character of the selections.

—The date of the rose and strawberry festival, given by the Horticultural Society, has been changed from June 29 to June 13. In the afternoon there will be an exhibition of fruit and flowers, and from 7 o'clock to 12 a promenade concert will be given and refreshments served.

—The Class of '89, with part of the faculty of the College of Liberal Arts of Boston University, enjoyed the afternoon of Thursday at the house and on the large lawn of Charles S. Davis on Pleasant street. Mr. Davis' daughter, Miss Ida S. is of the class and graduates this week.

—Hon. Sylvanus A. Denio, who has just moved here for the summer, has contracted with Hutchings, the organ builder, to construct and place in the Second church, Copley square, Boston, the finest organ he can make. Mr. and Mrs. Denio erect this organ as a beautiful memorial to their only child, the late Mrs. Sawyer.

—Considerable complaint is heard from our citizens about the poor apology for a side walk in places between here and Newton corner. Several of our citizens pass over this road several times a week and attention by the highway department would be greatly appreciated by them and others.

—Rev. H. L. Wheeler has served his connection with the Unitarian society, having anew presented his resignation at the parish meeting last Friday evening and insisted on its taking effect at once. For this reason, although his friends are very sorry to part with him, they voted to accept it. Mr. Wheeler officiated at a wedding in Greenfield on Wednesday, and Sunday he will preach at Keene, N. H.

—On Thursday of last week, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Mason and Miss Mabel Mason gave a progressive tennis party on the beautiful lawn in front of Mr. Mason's residence on Ward street. About twenty guests were present and the playing on the five courts was pronounced by all to be very good. Mr. Frank Fennessy won the first prize for gentlemen and Miss Lulu Fitz the prize for ladies best playing. Following the playing, supper was served.

—Mr. Alston Burr is one of the graduates at Harvard this year. He will be one of the hosts at "The Gym" spread, which takes place directly after the exercises in Sanders Theatre, and among the others who entertain with him are Ralph Emerson, a grandson of Ralph Waldo Emerson, and son of W. H. Forbes, of Bell Telephone fame; Edward Cabot Storror, Oliver Prescott, Jr., Joseph H. Sears, John Tilden Davis, Jr., Thomas Schuyler Hathaway, Perry Davis, Trafford, Charles Delavan Wetmore, and Bernard Coffin Weld.

—The committee of Newton ladies who collected contributions of clothing for the Johnstown sufferers were in attendance in Armory Hall between the hours of 9 a. m. and 6 p. m., Monday, and received generous donations of clothing and bedding which was got in readiness for shipment.

The articles were packed in fourteen large boxes and the same were immediately forwarded to their destination. The committee of ladies deserve the thanks of the community for their prompt action in this matter and the generous response of the citizens generally is an evidence of the spirit in this community which seeks to render aid to those who have suffered from disaster.

—The marriage of Mrs. Carrie E. Stickey of Somerville to Mr. Edgar G. Scripture of Newton took place at noon Wednesday at Winter Hill, where the bride has made her home for several years past. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers, and an orchestra performed some choice selections of music before and during the ceremony. The marriage was solemnized by the Rev. Dr. Shinn according to the usages of the Episcopal church. There were about thirty members of the family and immediate friends present. Upon their return from their wedding journey the newly married couple are to live at the Victoria in Boston.

—The June festival of the Eliot Sunday school took place Thursday evening at the church, and over 500 children and young people were present. Supper was served to the large company present and Cole's orchestra furnished very enjoyable music. After the supper the Peak Sisters repeated the entertainment they gave in Eliot hall some time ago, to the great entertainment of the large company present. The Peak sisters were Mr. by Miss Carrie Eddy, and were represented by Misses Marion Franklin, Carrie Buzwell, Mabel Gaffield, Florence and Jessie Ball, Ethel Gilman, Rebecca Anderson, Bessie Loveland, Leslie Field, Mary Pope and Mamie Childs. The entertainment was very quaint and pretty, and consisted mainly of singing. Carl Ellison sang a solo and Paul Brackett gave a violin solo, both very nicely done.

—Last Sunday was children's day at the Methodist church, and in the morning Rev. Mr. McKenzie gave a very interesting address on our duty to children. Rev. A. B. Earle was present and made the opening prayer. In the evening the church was beautifully decorated with flowers and plants, two leucis in flowers being placed either side of the pulpit and reaching to the roof. Potted plants were arranged between them with a rainbow of flowers in the background. The effect was very pretty. The exercises consisted of speaking by the children, with singing by the school and by the church quartet. One very pretty exercise was the singing of responses by the little Misses McKenzie and Stevenson, and another was the building of the sentence "Suffer little children to come unto me," deep piety, brilliant talents and popular address, whom we hoped to have long with us, has vacated his accustomed place in our prayer-room and in our public congregation, and with a profound feeling of bereavement, the official board of the Newton Methodist Episcopal Church desire to put on record their expression of sorrow in the sudden departure of Rev. B. K. Peirce, D. D., from us to the church above. He lived a life of devotion to every interest of the church of his choice, and in reviewing our acquaintance with him we are confident that to him "sudden death was sudden glory." Therefore,

Resolved, 1. That we rejoice that we had the happy privilege of knowing Dr. Peirce, of sharing in his godly counsel and influence and of listening to his cheering expositions of the Word of God by which he being dead yet speaketh.

2. That while we deeply sympathize with the afflicted family of our ascended brother in their temporal loss, we also sit with them believingly at the Master's feet and hear him say, "Well done, thou good and faithful servant, enter thou into the joy of thy Lord," and feel assured that for such "to die is gain."

CITY GOVERNMENT.

THE COMMON COUNCIL HOLD A SHORT MEETING.

The common council held a short meeting, Monday evening, and disposed of concurrent business and the jury list. President Bond presided, and other members present were Councilmen Moody, Wiswall, Fenno, Hale, Roffe, Randlett, Hyde, Richardson, Rice, Forknall, Hall, and Hamblin.

After business from the board of aldermen had been disposed of in concurrence, the jury list was taken up and the usual number of substitutions made. E. O. Childs of Ward 1 was substituted for L. J. Calley and L. E. Coffin for F. L. Holden.

The Ward Two and Ward Three lists were accepted entire. In Ward 4, Wm. H. Cooley was substituted for Reuben R. Baker, H. A. Hazen for T. W. Fisher, H. C. Churchill for J. M. Gordon, Ralph Davenport for Chas. H. Hall, and Edward Almy for Geo. S. Houghton.

The Ward 5 list was unchanged, but Geo. H. Ellis of Ward 6 was substituted for P. T. Barton, and Wm. F. Woodman for D. Frank Young.

In Ward 7, Howard B. Allen was substituted for Arthur S. Doane, Warren Setson for John T. Wells, and S. K. Harwood for Frank W. Gaffield.

The list was then adopted. Street lamps were asked for on Washington street, and sidewalks on Washington street, Brighton Hill, in front of Geo. H. Hastings's property.

The board then adjourned.

Our Cottage Hospital.

The Newton Cottage Hospital is looked upon as a model for other cities to follow, and the Boston Sunday Herald gave a very well written article last Sunday on "The Cottage Hospital, its origin, what it is and what it is doing." After describing the work of such hospitals, their special adaptation to small cities, and the manner in which they were started in England, the article goes on to describe the Newton Cottage Hospital as a model of its class. The Herald says: "The Newton Cottage Hospital is one of the oldest and also one of the most successful of the cottage hospitals of this country. In so many respects did it depart from established usage that it may be considered an innovation, and the benefit of its experience has been sought by many about to establish similar institutions. It is an example of what may be accomplished without a large endowment, for it has not been blessed with a great fund upon which to depend."

Then follows a description of the hospital, with which all Newton readers are familiar. Of the needs of the hospital the Herald says: "The hospital is not as yet entirely prepared for its work. The wards now built are well equipped, but more are needed. The most pressing need is a ward for contagious diseases. The hospital has the land, and would assume the control of such a ward were the city of Newton to build one. There should also be a ward for private cases, the accommodations for this class now being inadequate. The pupil nurses should have a dwelling house apart from the wards, where each nurse could have her own room. The work of the nurses is exacting and fatiguing, and they need comfortable bedchambers and change of scene after the day's duties are over. It is hoped that some philanthropic person will build a nurses' cottage, for the money would be well spent. A simple dwelling with chambers and a general sitting room, would answer every purpose, and could be erected at a small cost. At present there are six pupil nurses and a matron and head nurse. It is expected that the number of nurses will be increased to eight as soon as the new dormitory is ready. With a separate dwelling, more could be accommodated, conferring an additional benefit upon the community. As now arranged, there is no place in which to receive poor women about to become mothers. Such women cannot be taken into the general ward of a hospital. Yet the appeals made are sometimes piteous and heartrending, and poor women have, on several occasions, been taken in, for humanity forbade closing the door upon them."

Credit is given to the matron, Miss Palmer, for her excellent management, to whom so much of the success of the hospital is due, and the interest taken by the city physicians of both schools, who serve without pay, is alluded to.

The ways in which the hospital can be aided are by contributing $2 per year to the Ladies' Aid Association; by donations of fruit, flowers, the proceeds of the clothing, bandages and old linen; giving $300 annually for a free bed, or $500 for a permanent bed. Visitors will be welcome at the hospital on Wednesdays and Saturdays, between 2 and 4 p. m. and any one will feel well repaid for the trouble experienced in reaching the place. It is but a short distance from the Woodland station of the Newton Circuit road, and the trains run at frequent intervals.

Death of Lieut. T. W. Fisher.

Lieutenant Theodore W. Fisher died on Monday morning at half-past five at his residence on Seminary avenue, Auburndale. In his death the village and the Congregational church suffer a real loss, a loss which would have been greater had not the disease which he contracted in the war and which ultimately caused his death checked the public and the social spirit which were active within him. His life was given for his country as truly as if it had gone out in either of the four battles in which he was engaged, but it was his lot to suffer for twenty-five years after his health was ruined by the horrors of that Mississippi campaign which in two months reduced his regiment, the Thirty Sixth Massachusetts Volunteers, from 700 men to only 68 who were able to march. Lieutenant Fisher enlisted at the age of 24, Aug. 10, 1862, with two brothers, in the town of Northfield and they all survived the war. He entered the service as first sergeant in Co. H, and was engaged in the battles of Fredericksburg, Va., and Vicksburg, Jackson and Jamestown, Miss., in the hot campaign and fierce summer heats which marked the operations about Vicksburg up to its surrender to Grant in July, 1863. Of the surroundings of the regiment, the historian of the Thirty-Sixth says: "In many places the soil was so dry and parched with the heat that it seemed to have cracked open like a blistered skin beneath the tropical rays of the sun.

The wind blew hot from every point of the compass, bringing clouds of dust along with it. Gnats and flies made night hideous and drove sleep from the weary. Venomous snakes and other reptiles infested the woods and thickets. Leaves soon became no novelty, and even the resort of keeping them out of one's boots by wearing the boots day and night would not prevent their crawling down one's back occasionally, causing a sensation like an animated leech.

The rebels, as they retreated, poisoned the wells or killed animals in the ponds and streams, their putrid carcasses rendering the waters unfit for use. The rapid advance of the army made it impossible for the supply trains to keep up and for days the rations consisted of unripe corn roasted in the husks. During this campaign of three weeks the regiment slept with the sky for a canopy, exposed to the deadly night air and frequent tempests. Nights when no humane man would drive a dog out of doors found this entire army in the open field."

Mr. Fisher was one of the many who broke down. After a long time in hospital he was transferred to the veteran reserve corps on March 2, 1864, and the next change was his being commissioned as first lieutenant in the Sixty-Second regiment, April 25, 1865. On May 5, 1865, he was honorably mustered out at the end of his term of service. He has been a resident of Auburndale since 1882 and has been to his business in Boston up to the last hour his failing strength would permit. He leaves a widow who is a daughter of the late Judge Hawley of Brandon, Vt. The funeral occurred on Wednesday, and Charles Ward Post 62 rendered military honors at the grave, which is in one of the loveliest spots in Newton cemetery.

What is a Building and Loan Association?

The persons composing a Building and Loan Association agree to pay into their treasury a certain sum, at fixed periods, on each share that they own, until their shares through such payments and the accumulated profits reach their par value, or, as it is technically termed, "mature." The stated payments (called "dues"), their frequency, and the par value of the stock vary. The general rule is that $1 shall be paid on every share once a month until a par of $200 is reached. When the shares "mature" the assets in the treasury are divided among the shareholders. Just as fast as the money is paid in it is offered in the shape of loans to the members—and to the members only—the security taken being a mortgage on real estate and an assignment to the association of the borrower's stock. The amount which a member is entitled to borrow equals the par value of his or her shares. Thus, in an association where the par value is $200, a member who wants $1,000 must own five shares. As every member has an equal right to become a borrower, the disposition of the loans is made by putting the money up at auction, from time to time, and awarding the loan to that member who will give the highest premium above the regular interest rate. The Building and Loan Association laws provide that the acceptance of these premiums shall not constitute usury. In order that the dues and interest shall be paid regularly, the by-laws provide that they shall be received only by the secretary, and by him only at the stated meetings; and there is a small fine for a non-payment, which is increased from meeting to meeting, a delinquency for a certain period causing the forfeiture of the stock, or giving ground for the foreclosure of a mortgage.

The interest is paid monthly, and the interest money, with the dues and any other receipts, goes into the treasury, to be loaned at once. It is apparent, therefore, that a Building and Loan Association whose money is in demand, not only receives interest constantly on the dues paid in by all the members, but that it compounds this interest monthly. Herein lies the chief secret of the profitability of this system of investment.

HOW TO BUY A HOME.

It is quite as easy to show by figures the economy of buying one's house with the assistance of a Building and Loan Association as compared with paying rent. The following statement is only given as a form of comparison; every prospective borrower should change the figures to suit his own locality.

C and D occupy houses worth $3,000 each (lot, $600, and building, $2,400). C is a tenant, paying $25 per month. D, with $600 in cash, has borrowed $2,400 on twelve shares of a Building and Loan Association, and built his house. Supposing that D's shares mature in twelve years, their accounts at the end of that period will stand thus:

Chas paid out $3,600 in rent, and has nothing to show for it.
D has paid out:
Monthly dues	$1,728
Interest	1,728
Premium, five per cent	120
Search	20
Taxes	200
Insurance	100
Interest on value of lot	432
Total	$4,418

The neighborhood must be a very inactive one where the increased value of the property will not more than offset the cost of repairs. We find, then, that D owns his premises by paying out only $818 more than C, who, at the end of the period named, has nothing to show for his money.

WHAT LOANS ARE MADE FOR.

Loans are made to members either to purchase houses already erected, to build houses, or to remove existing encumbrances. If a member borrows to build a new house, the money is not paid over to him in bulk, but is paid over to the contractor, on the audit of the owner and the association's building committee, as the work proceeds.

One of the great advantages of these associations as assistants of persons of small means is, that they can safely lend very close to the appraised value. From "Building and Loan Associations," by W. A. LINS, in June Scribner's.

The Nationalist Epidemic.

There are of course not a great many sensible persons who are seriously led in to the foolish labyrinth of exploded fallacies which the "Nationalists" profess to believe. Persons of ardent and earnestness who see the evils of the present system and have not minds sufficiently well trained to appreciate the meaning or the logical conclusion of the principles advanced by such lunatics as "Looking backward" follow with perfect honesty after the shadow of reform which it seems to promise, and think that they do God, or at least man, good service.

From being merely a dull and foolish book, and it is emphatically both, this volume bids fair to be made by the popular discontent and ignorance a dangerous one. That it is a gospel of pure socialism, that its fulfillment, were it unhappily possible, would involve the throwing to the winds of all that mankind has fought for since the dawn of civilization, that its propositions are outworn and exploded dogmas without a single ray of originality to vivify them, seems in the least to affect those who in their eagerness to escape from obvious evils have seized upon this as a convenient text about which to rally. It is melancholy to see how much genuine and unselfish enthusiasm is here not only wasting itself but doing positive harm in the spreading of dangerous and delusive exploded fallacies.—(Boston Courier.

The Pineapple Industry.

Writing from Eden, Fla., Dr. George Willis alludes to the pineapple growing in that section. It is comparatively new industry, he states. Only about seven years ago was the first apple raised there, but now over 200 acres are under cultivation on Indian River. Every farmer is setting out slips and tops. A fair product is 10,000 pineapples on an acre, and the plant will bear successfully three or four apples, one each summer, for about four years. They are propagated by the slips that come up around the root of the stalk. After being set out they require but little care until gathering season commences, when they are packed in barrel crates and sent to Northern markets. The varieties are the black prince, sugar loaf, blood pine, the Egyptian queen (which is very choice) and the porcupine, which sometimes grows very large, weighing from 4 to 10 pounds. The best way to prepare a pineapple for eating, adds Dr. Willis, is to cut off slices up and down across the grain of the fruit.

"You'll never die of consumption, John," said a wife to husband when he came home at a late hour, a little the worse for wear.

"I won't die of consumption. What makes you think so?"

"Because your lungs are sound."

"How do you know?"

"How do I know? Because your breath is so strong."—(Boston Courier.

Assessors' Notice

The inhabitants of the City of Newton, and all others who are liable to pay taxes therein, are hereby required to bring in to the Assessors of said Newton, on any day from

May First to the fifteenth day of June next, true lists of all their Polls (males, 20 years old and upward), and schedules and estimates of their personal estates, not exempted from taxation.

ASSESSMENT OF WOMEN. CHAP. 196, ACTS OF 1889.

The Assessors or Assistant Assessors shall, in the month of May or June in each year, visit each dwelling-house or building and make true lists of all women twenty years of age and upward, who shall in writing over their own signatures, request the Assessors to assess them for a "poll tax" and it shall be the duty of the Assessors to inquire into each such dwelling-house or building for such written requests for assessment, which must give the name in full—age, occupation and residence May 1st 1888. All women desiring to be assessed for a poll tax should have their written request for such assessment in the form required by the Act of 1889, ready for delivery to the Assessors when they shall visit the house where they dwell. Each request should be upon a separate sheet signed by the applicant with her name in full. No application for the assessment of a woman for a poll tax will be received by mail or in any other manner than the manner provided by said Chapter 196, except by filing in the office of the Assessors the list provided by Section 12, of Chapter 298, of Acts of 1884, as amended by Chapter 200 of Acts of 1888.

Persons holding estates in trust, whether for minors or otherwise, are particularly requested to furnish the Assessors with statements in relation of all receipts and disbursements of the estate, and to warrant to give notice of such change; and in default of such notice will be held to pay the tax assessed, although such estate has been wholly distributed and paid over.

Returns of Property Held for Literary, Benevolent, Charitable or Scientific Purposes.

In accordance with the requirements of Chapter 217, of the Acts of 1882—the persons and corporations are hereby required to bring in to the Assessors of Newton on any day from May first to the fifteenth day of June next, in relation to the personal estate held by such persons and corporations respectively for literary, benevolent, charitable or scientific purposes on the first day of May, 1889, together with statements of the receipts and disbursements and expenditures by such person or corporation for said purpose during the year next preceding said first day of May; such lists and statements, when received, may be required by the tax commissioner.

MORTGAGED REAL ESTATE. CHAP. 175, ACTS OF 1882, SEC. 1.

Any mortgagee or mortgagee of Real Estate may bring in to the Assessors of the town or city where such Real Estate lies, at the time specified for bringing in the list as provided in Section 12, of Chapter eleven of the Public Statutes, a statement, under oath, of the amount due on each separate lot or parcel of such Real Estate, and the name and residence of every holder of an interest therein as a mortgagee or mortgagor. When such property is situated in two or more places, or when a recorded mortgage includes for one sum two or more estates or parts of estates, an estimate of the amount of the mortgagee's interest in each estate or part of an estate shall be given in such statement. The Assessors shall, from such statements or otherwise, ascertain the proportionate parts of such estates that are the interests of mortgagees and mortgagors, respectively, and shall assess the same. Whenever, in any case of mortgaged Real Estate, a statement is not brought in as herein provided, no tax for the then current year on such Real Estate shall be invalidated for the reason that a mortgagee's interest therein has not been assessed to him.

SHIPPING. Shipping and business income are not taxable to a firm, but each resident partner must include these items in his individual return. Owners and agents of ships and vessels engaged in the foreign carrying trade, are referred to Sections 8 and 9, of Chapter 11 of the Public Statutes, for the form of

THE MONKEY AND THE FISHERMAN.

V.

A monkey was sitting on top of a schoolhouse, when, seeing some fishermen laying their nets in a river, he watched what they were doing. The men had no sooner set their nets, and retired a short distance to their dinner, than the monkey came down from the schoolhouse thinking that he would try his hand at the same sport. But in attempting to lay the nets he got so entangled in them, that being well liked, he was forced to exclaim: "This serves me right; for what business had I who know nothing of fishing, to meddle with such tackle as this?"

Is the Tariff a Tax?

The Newton Protectionist in the Journal, April 12: "A little previous study of both sides of the question (Tariff) would have told them, (the Newton club) that it was not wise to set up as their first champion the once celebrated Bowerly parrot with his cry of 'a tariff is a tax.'"

May 3. "He (the Newton Tariff Reformer) should recognize how parrot-like and therefore equally foolish it is to exclaim without explanation, 'a tariff is a tax.'"

May 17. "The Tariff Reformers whose motto is the GRAPHIC, still predicate their sermons upon the text—'the tariff is a tax.' I charge them therefore with insincerity if they yet maintain that they are not yet free-traders."

June 7. "The Tariff Reformers, with wine and tobacco are heavily taxed as with us, but cocoa, chocolate, coffee, chicory, tea, currants, figs, plums, prunes and raisins—all articles of use and almost of necessity, are also taxed."

Truth crushed to earth will rise again. We knew very well that as soon as our little equation, was carefully studied, its simple truth would prevail over party prejudice. As soon as we have received the membership fee of $1, we shall be glad to add to the roll the name of our first convert.

TARIFF=TAX,

Protected England.

"This is the silliest stuff that ever I heard."

The argument about England's fiscal policy in the Protection column of last week's Journal is a trifle bewildering. Listen!

"Our tariff reformers say (the English policy) is free-trade and that is the fact. England afforded them their stock argument to prove that a tariff has nothing to do with wages, or at least, that wages in Free Trade England were higher than in other countries under protection."

Right, to the letter. But, go on. "It is almost cruel to deprive our friends of this, their strong tower; but the truth must be told, even though that tower should tumble about their devoted heads. England is one of the most heavily protected countries in the world."

Many a true word is spoken in jest. The strong tower is indeed crumbling under this vigorous assault, but upon the devoted heads of whom? If England is a heavily protected country what has become of the stock arguments of Republican orators—pauper wages in Free Trade England and high wages in Protected America? The writer can't know the ruins have fallen upon him, and he hastens to extricate himself:

"I wish here to emphasize the fact that England raises her enormous revenue on the principle of the Mills Bill; that is, she has no regard to the principles of protection."

England, one of the most heavily protected countries in the world, has no regard to the principles of protection! What does that mean? Perhaps the argument is to be continued thus: English wages are higher than French or German wages because England is "one of the most heavily protected countries in the world"; but English wages are lower than American wages because England "has no regard to the principles of protection." Let us see how England is heavily protected. First, there are the customs on twenty articles. (The tariff of 1883 for the United States covers some thirty and a half more.) Then there are "excise duties," and "licenses," and "passenger duties"; all of which are soberly given as examples of protection!

"Take stamp duties, which in the last year yielded $57,570,000. This shows the extent to which the principle of protection is applied. I might go on through the house tax, the land tax, the property and income tax, but I refrain. My object has been in this paper to show that England, the free trade country par excellence of our reformers, is in reality one of the most heavily taxed countries in the world."

We learn further that there are patent laws in England, and subsidies; that a man marrying his deceased wife's sister (for protection) pays but 3 percent on property she may leave him while if he dies and leaves her property she must pay 10 percent. And now for the charge against this "Mecca" of the Tariff Reformers:

"I shall be sustained in my charge against England, that she poses as a free trade nation, while her policy is protection, though often with the principle falsely applied."

And all through the article runs the most astounding assumption that "taxes are protection" and "protection is taxes." Instance upon instance of "taxes" is cited to prove that England's policy is "protection." Our modest little motto, "A Tariff is a Tax," would indeed become a veritable war cry in the form, "Protection is Taxation." Sentence after sentence, indeed the whole article, is utterly meaningless without this assumption—and, we fear, utterly meaningless with it.

What We Want.

It has been so often charged that the Tariff Reformers wish to destroy at once all custom taxation, or at least all protective duties, that it is, perhaps, worth a word of denial. The denial will serve as a reply to the intimation made in a letter in the Journal last week; the intimation that we desire to do away with customs and substitute excises, passenger duties, stamp taxes, and percentages on legacies. We shall use the words of the leader of Free Trade thought in America, David A. Wells:

"I have had about as much practical experience in the levying and collecting of taxes as any man, and I know the present system to be such a complicated and gigantic machine that any man who lays his hand upon it without wisdom and discretion is sure to smash his own or somebody's else fingers. Therefore, while the more I have studied the subject of national taxation, and the more I have become in the conviction of the necessity of reform, the more conservative I have become in respect to action. A d I have no doubt that if I were given autocratic power to revise the tariff I should be soon accused of having abandoned liberal principles. The Mills Bill contained one single item, and that free wool. And if after one year or twenty months the woolen mills of this country, in consequence of that act, were not in a more prosperous condition than they ever had been, if there was not a general consensus of opinion among the whole people that the act had been beneficial, then I would never open my lips upon the subject of tariff reform as long as I live. And if the people are too cowardly to try a single experiment, let them wait until disaster forces them to take action."

We are going to try the experimental before long and free wool will be followed by free lumber, free iron ore, free salt and free flax.

A TARIFF IS A TAX.

AFTER JOHN W. CANDLER.

SOME QUESTIONS THAT HAVE BEEN ADDRESSED TO HIM.

The following letter has been sent to Congressman Candler, and is published at the request of several subscribers:

Hyrne Park, Mass., June 8, 1889.

Hon. John W. Candler:

Sir—My name was appended to a list of inquiries about the tariff, sent you by our Question Club. It was sent, I am told, with lists from other clubs. The questions submitted, and to which we respectfully asked answer, have special reference to the tariff. Our signers comprised the following: A machinist, a worsted weaver, two other mill men, and a book-keeper. The latter is now employed on a labor paper, the Knights of Labor Advocate, published in Boston.

All the signers on our list are residents of your district. May we still hope for a reply? Let me say that we are not all of one opinion regarding the tariff question. Mr. Andrew answered the same questions promptly, and the signers who are of his belief are in high feather.

The following comprises the pith of our questions: Under what conditions is the government justified in adopting measures that will reduce the quantity of estates obtainable for a day's work? Does the tariff tend to increase or diminish the quantity of estates and clothing that will come to the laborer in exchange for his work?

Will you also please answer whether you are still of the same mind that you were on the 20th of April, 1889, when you offered the resolutions at a great meeting held in Chickering Hall to promote the reduction of taxation and the reform of the tariff? You then said that "such aid and aid, in which Boston would naturally expand, where the proper domain lies that is open for our enterprise, are strong political lines, in the shape of taxes on raw materials, which almost entirely cut us off from an immense extent of territory possessing in the greatest abundance what we most require—food, coal, lumber and iron."

These are just the things we want now more than we did then. You then said: "All of them are in a measure cut off from us by the greatest lump of modern times, the tariff of the United States." That tariff was no worse, but was almost the same as the present tariff. Do you still think the present tariff is the greatest lump of the time? If you do, please say so. If you have changed your opinions, please give us the reason for the change.

If you wish to see any of us and have a talk over the matter, send word to the secretary of the United Question Clubs of Massachusetts, Box 3392, Boston. One thing more: we mean to have an answer to these questions from the men that we are going to vote for next time, and if you don't choose to give us an answer, we shall take it that you can't give us an answer such as you want to. Many of us were Republicans when you were a Democrat, and for good reasons; and now we may go with the Democrats or with the Mugwumps, or anybody to beat a Republican who stands on the last republican platform.

JOHN F. DOWN.

A Difficult Question.

The Boston Home Journal says: Once more the cry is heard on all sides, "What shall we do with our young people?" In two weeks more they will begin to graduate them from the public schools by the thousand, and out of that number there is every year a larger majority who wish to earn their independence. What to do to enable them to do this is the question which anxious parents ask themselves. It becomes annually a more embarrassing nature owing to the fact that the present course of study in the public school does not seem to fit young people to earn their living with their hands, or to encourage any taste in that direction. The opportunities open to such as those whose schooling is finished in the grammar or even the high schools narrows the selection down to a very few things, the majority expecting clerkships of some sort. With the conscientious teachers who study the situation with interest, it is becoming every year more and more certain that the present course of the public school studies is not the best in the world from a practical point of view. There is much in it that is useless to the sort of boys and girls who comprise a heavy percentage of its attendance, and which are there at the expense of other studies which might be more thoroughly taught, and made of some use. The difficulty of the question in its intention of dealing with so many different classes is by no means to be underrated, nor can its remedy be suggested. It is becoming one of those points in which the difficulty is recognized and the remedy out of sight.

Our Mothers, Wives and Sisters.

Do we love them all? If we do we ought not to allow them to drink poor and adulterated Tea any more than we would allow them to eat poor or poisoned food. They are often tempted to buy poor tea for the sake of getting some present with it. Let us buy the present for them and enable them to buy the best and purest tea they can get which is the O. & O. Tea.

The Elliot Church.

The Congregationalist last week had a picture of Elliot church, the same which appeared in the GRAPHIC the week previous, and a short description. It says: "Should John Elliot return in the flesh to-day to the charming suburban city of Newton, he would find, not far from the very scene of his apostolic labors, as handsome a church structure as exists in New England, and instead of a few painted Indians gathered around him in the open air, he would have the privilege of speaking to a congregation which, as respects wealth and culture, and devotion to the interests of Christ's kingdom, represents the best things in our modern Christianity. No doubt, as soon as the brave old pastor-missionary had rubbed the surprise from his eyes, he would adapt himself to the situation, and join as heartily as any one in the congratulations heaped last week upon the Elliot church people as they took possession of this noble house of the Lord. For it is indeed a structure which will vie in beauty, grandeur and effect, almost with cathedrals across the sea; and while it lacks their historic prestige, it is in many ways far better adapted to the purposes of a wide-awake, aggressive church of this nineteenth century. Excepting the Old South and the Central churches in Boston, we doubt if there be another Congregational church edifice in New England upon which, for the building simply, so much money has been expended. Certainly none has yielded more satisfactory returns for the outlay."

Editorially the same paper has the following: "Not alone because it now occupies a house of worship conspicuous in its beauty, even in these days of handsome edifices, is the Elliot church in Newton to be congratulated by the wide sisterhood of churches to which it is related. To dedicate so noble a structure free of debt, and to build it not from the gifts of wealthy business men only, but from the smaller though no less concentrated savings of the large body of membership, is certainly cause for thanksgiving. Most of all the use to which it is proposed to put the graceful temple bestows the crowning glory upon the consummation of the architect's thought. It is to be, as Dr. Calkins so strenuously insisted in his sermon last Thursday, a place where rich and poor meet together in the name of their common Master. It is that which gives dignity to any house of the Lord, be it a plain board structure on the prairies, or a cathedral."

ROTATION IN OFFICE.

The pernicious results of the spoils system are attracting more public attention than ever before, although probably this administration is no worse than many which have preceded it. The public conscience has become more sensitive, however, and practices that a dozen years ago would have awakened no comment, are now looked upon with disfavor. Bishop Potter's vigorous sermon gave emphasis to the sentiment of the common people, those who do not want office for themselves or their friends, and its effect has not been weakened by the childish attempts to prove that Washington and the other Revolutionary fathers were no better than they should be.

This subject is well treated by Mr. Frederick W. Whitridge in the Political Science Quarterly, who writes on the evils of "Rotation in Office" and argues that most of the evils of the spoils system are due to the four years tenure of office law, passed in 1820. As might have been inferred the law was passed at the instigation of one of the shrewdest wire pullers of that day, Wm. H. Crawford, secretary of the treasury, who thought that such a state of things might help him to succeed President Monroe. The act was certainly contrary to the theories and practice of the framers of the government, as during the first forty years of the nation, under Washington, Adams, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe and John Quincy Adams, there were only 82 removals, all of which were at least ostensibly for cause.

Jefferson regarded the law with great disfavor, and made the following startling prediction in regard to it:

"It says the constitutional and salutary functions of the President, and introduces a principle of intrigue and corruption which will soon leave the mass, not only of senators, but of citizens. It is more baneful than the attempt which failed in the beginning of the government to make all officers irremovable but with the consent of the Senate. This places every four years all appointments under their power, and even obliges them to act on every one nomination. It will keep in constant excitement all the hungry cormorants for office; render them, as well as those in place, sycophants to their senators; engage these in eternal intrigues to turn out one and put in another, in cabals to swap work; and make of them, what all executive directories become, mere sinks of corruption and faction."

Judging from the spectacle of senators from great states spending their time in lobbying for offices for their political friends, and dividing up the patronage between them, Jefferson was not so far out of the way. Even congressmen have been drawn into the "principle of intrigue" and we find them boasting of their success in obtaining offices for their constituents, and quarrelling over the division of patronage.

In 1835, the evil effects of the law were so evident that there was an earnest effort among the better class of senators to have it repealed, and a committee of which Calhoun was chairman and Webster and Benton members, recommended its repeal for the following reasons:

Faithful performance of duty no longer insures a renewal of appointment. The consequence is inevitable: a feeling of dependence on the executive on the part of the incumbent, increasing as his term approaches its end, with a great increase in the number of those who desire his place, followed by an active competition between the occupant and those who seek his place, followed by all those acts of compliance and subservience, with a corresponding increase of the number of those influenced by the executive will.

The movement was defeated, however, the spoils system even then being too strongly entrenched, and such men as Buchanan and Silas Wright voted against the repeal. On the one side were such men as Jefferson, John Quincy Adams, Madison, Calhoun, Webster and Benton, and on the other were "statesmen" such as Buchanan, and the latter carried the day, so that the law has remained to make the scramble for spoils once in every four years a public scandal.

Have we no Calhouns and Websters and Bentons in the Senate now, who will work for the reform of the civil service, by securing the repeal of such an odious law, and so prepare the way for the application of business principles in regard to the government offices, or are all the Senators mere Buchanans. The men who favored the law and the men who were opposed to it might serve as a practical illustration to those who are trying to bring Washington and the statesmen of his day down to the level of our politics. Rev. M. J. Savage is confident that the world is growing better, but he is having very difficult work to prove that the same is true of our political leaders. It would be manifestly ridiculous to place Gorman on an equality with Calhoun or Quay with Webster, but such men as these are the political leaders of the Senate to-day.

There is a good deal of gossip over the next candidate for Governor, and any quantity of work is being done "on the quiet." While Mr. Brackett and Mr. Crapo are frequently mentioned, there is evidently a good deal of opposition to both. The Prohibition Republicans are said not to favor either and are mentioning Col. Haskell of this city, Prof. Capen and Dr. Loring, while some enthusiasm is noticed over Congressman Cogswell. A new movement has been started tentatively in favor of Congressman Lodge of Nahant, and he is represented as being very coy, while his friends urge that the application of proper pressure will force him to consent. It is claimed that there is a whole hoghead of enthusiasm ready to burst forth at the mention of his name, and that he is the only man who can beat Russell. Friends of Mr. Beard are naturally very much interested in the movement and they will doubtless make it interesting for the Nahant congressman. It is also said that Governor Ames is ready to sacrifice himself for a fourth term if there is any difficulty about a choice, and a number of other gentlemen are mentioned, who would be willing to make sacrifices. It is rather early yet for any definite movement, but the summer promises to have plenty of excitement over the contest. Mr. Brackett and Mr. Crapo are the leading candidates at present, and either of them would be satisfactory. Mr. Brackett has made a very satisfactory lieutenant governor, and has well earned the promotion, while Mr. Crapo would restore the governorship to the old standard of ability and be a worthy successor of such men as Robinson and Andrews.

HON. JOHN W. CANDLER, congressman from this district, is asked what must be some embarrassing questions, in a letter which is given in another column. Mr. Candler will doubtless be reminded of the old saying about the questions which a certain style of man can ask, and the inability of a wise man to reply thereto. The questions are certainly leading ones, as they have to deal with alleged quotations from Mr. Candler's former speeches, wherein he is reported to have said that the tariff was the greatest humbug of modern times. We doubt if Mr. Candler ever said this, and a denial or explanation from him is certainly in order. No one but an out and out free trader would hold such an opinion, much less give utterance to it at a public meeting. Unfortunately, Mr. Candler's views on the tariff question are not known with certainty, as during the campaign his speeches related mainly to Southern Outrages, over which he was very indignant, and the tariff was only referred to incidentally. For the sake of the Republicans who voted for him he ought to answer this letter and define his present belief in regard to the tariff. With the narrow Republican majority in the House, Mr. Candler's vote becomes of great importance.

The fact that Mr. Oberly, the trust worthy commissioner of Indian affairs, was forced to resign his office, has greatly disappointed many in Newton, who had petitioned for his reappointment, as he had shown himself to be a very satisfactory official, and had endeavored to take the Indian bureau out of politics, and free it from the scandals which for so many years have been a disgrace to the nation. Every good citizen who had looked into our Indian policy at all, agreed upon the necessity for a radical reform in our Indian policy, and the freeing of the whole system from the taint of the spoils system, which meant the appointment of agents merely for their political services, without regard to their fitness or character. Gen. Thomas J. Morgan, of Rhode Island, has been appointed, and he is a veteran soldier with an excellent record, an educator and an ardent Republican. It is to be hoped that he will carry on the work begun by Mr. Oberly. Although his appointment is the result of the spoils system, it may be that he will oppose any further extension of the system in his department, and select men for the subordinate offices for some other reason than their political services. If he does this, he will go a great way towards convincing the people that he is the right man for the position.

The Gamewell Company of this city and the Municipal Company of Boston, make an exhibition of their police signal systems, Saturday evening at City Hall. It seems like carrying coals to New Castle for the Gamewell Company to be required to make an exhibition here, where all of its best work has been manufactured for fifteen years or more, and this system is in use in over 300 cities and towns, while the other system is made by a Boston Company and is only in use in Boston and Somerville. The police telegraph system of the Gamewell company is in operation in such cities as Washington, Philadelphia, Chicago, Milwaukee, Detroit, Buffalo, Rochester, New Haven, Hartford and many others. It is hardly to be supposed that these cities would use it if it was not perfectly satisfactory. What is good enough for them ought to be good enough for Newton, especially as the Gamewell company is a home concern.

The obituary notices of the legislature of 1889 could not have been very pleasant reading for the members, and so far they have all been unfavorable. The great trouble was the lack of strong leaders, and one party seemed to be as badly off as the other. The record made will have a bad effect upon the Republican party this fall, unless more than usual care is taken in the nominating conventions. Poor or even indifferently good nominations mean certain defeat, and the men who have been managing politics the past few years, and who have said so much about "young men to the front" should go to the rear and allow men who are strong, morally, politically and intellectually, to lead the party in the fall campaign. We have had enough of self-seeking politicians and the people are demanding a change. They want men who are fit to lead, and who have something else besides their desire for office to recommend them. There is a healthy public sentiment in Massachusetts, as is evidenced by the utterances of all the Republican papers, and if success is desired this sentiment must be respected in making the nominations.

If it rains daily because there is so much water in the ground to evaporate, and there is so much water in the ground because it rains, how are we ever going to have pleasant weather?

Newtonville Postoffice.

The Newtonville postoffice has been greatly improved within the past few days and is now one of the most convenient and well arranged government offices in the city. Work on the alterations was commenced at noon, Monday, and progressed rapidly, it being in readiness for business Thursday morning. The outfit was furnished by John McLane of Milford, N. H., who fitted up the postoffice at Newton, recently. The improvements were brought about through the persistent endeavors of Postmaster Turner, who has proved himself to be an excellent public official, energetic in securing needed accommodations and necessary conveniences for the patrons of the office. He commenced the agitation for the new fixtures in July, 1888. In April of the present year the government decided to accept the proposition of ex-Governor Claflin, relative to a postoffice location and the office which had been occupied for several years, situated in Central Block, was leased for a term of five years, the lease dating from Jan. 1, 1889. In accordance with the terms of the lease the owner of the building was obligated to make the necessary repairs and alterations, supplying all the new fixtures required. The delivery case is Y-shaped and is constructed of ash, the delivery window opening from a point in the exact centre. The new fixtures include 102 lock boxes and drawers, a dumping table, paper and letter rack, mailing table and case and two cabinet desks arranged for stamps and office supplies. In the arrangements and furnishings, convenience and comfort have been studied and the result is a thoroughly equipped and well arranged postoffice, meeting in every way the requirements of the community.

A Terrible Death.

Thomas Earle, twenty-three years of age, a teamster employed by John Joyce, contractor, was buried under a sand slide at Newtonville yesterday, and died from suffocation. Earle left Newton yesterday morning at 7 o'clock with his horse and cart, and went to the Pulisfer sand pit off Cabot street, in this ward, after a load of gravel. He failed to return after a reasonable length of time had elapsed and at noon he had not been heard from. Several of Joyce's men then went to the pit in search of the missing man. Upon arriving at the place the horse was found buried up to his shoulders in a pile of gravel, and the cart had been completely covered by the gravel from the steep embankment, which had given way. The horse was released and a large force of men dug persistently for several hours and finally succeeded in recovering the body of the man. The house of the Medical Examiner Mead was notified and viewed the remains, the body being subsequently taken to the home of the deceased, where it lay in state. The house of the deceased was situated on the corner of Cabot street and the street had been closed up to an altitude of about 40 feet in an almost perpendicular line. When the bank gave way an immense quantity of gravel fell into the open space below. As soon as word was received of the accident at police headquarters, several patrolmen, City Marshal Richardson and Capt. Davis repaired to the scene and rendered the usual official assistance.

—Mr. Albert S. Glover read a paper on water works records before the annual meeting of the N. E. Water Works association at Fall River, Thursday. He was also elected junior editor of the association.

—Samuel Barnard has negotiated a lease of Theo. A. Fleck's house to Richard Rowe of Boston for the summer, and of Mrs. Stewart's house on Hillside avenue to Geo. W. Newhall, cashier of the Hamilton bank, Boston, for 5 years.

—Invitations have been issued by the school committee to all the teachers in the public schools, for a social meeting to be held June 19th, in the parlors of the Unitarian church, West Newton. This is the first meeting of this nature that has been held in Newton for 20 years and is anticipated by the parties interested, with much eagerness.

THE PRESCRIPTION.

"It's no use to talk about my being your wife, Charley. Your father never will consent, and mother will never let me see you—if she can help it—without his consent. No, you mustn't come a step further!" And pretty Rose Carter drew her arm out of Charles Hurlbert's very decidedly, when they reached the end of the village common. "You know it almost breaks my heart to say it, Charley, but I don't think I can ever meet you again. Mother will be sure to find it out, and it would vex her so. And she has had enough trouble without my giving her any—poor mamma!"

Handsomer Charley Hurlbert shrugged his shoulders impatiently.

"Your mother comes before me, of course! It is no matter how I feel. You say coolly that you can never meet me again; that means, I suppose, that we are never to see each other again."

"Why, no, Charley, if you will only have patience to wait! Everything may come out right."

"Wait! You have been telling me to wait for the last two years, and things are no nearer coming out right than they ever were."

"I can't think why your father should dislike my mother so. I think mother knows, but she will never tell me. Miss Esther Wagg says they are lovers once, and had a quarrel that your father can never forget. But one can't believe all Miss Esther's gossip."

"I don't think it is anything more than a notion he has got into his head. He's a crotchety, set old fellow, but he's got a good heart, Rose, if one can only get at it. If you were only my wife, he would be sure to come round and think the world of you. If you only would marry me, Rose! At the worst—if he wouldn't come round—he could only disinheret me, and I have a pair of good strong arms, and some passable brains to fight my way—our way—through the world." The moonlight showed him her face, and he fancied that there was a little shadow of hesitation on it. But she shook her head firmly after a moment.

"Now, Rose, darling, don't tell me again to wait—"

The rest of the sentence was never spoken, for a heavy hand was laid on the young man's shoulder and an angry voice mimicked his tender tones.

"Rose darling! I'll teach you to 'dangle' her, young man!"

And there was Dr. Hurlbert's face, red with anger, looking over Charley's shoulder. Rose, at the first glimpse of it, turned and ran, like a little coward as she was.

"Haven't I forbidden your seeing that young woman? What do you mean by sneaking round here with her, like a thief in the night?" pursued the doctor, furiously.

"It's not my fault that I do not walk with her openly; it is not my fault that she is not my wife. It is only because she will not consent to be so," answered Charley, stoutly.

"Won't consent to be your wife, eh? It doesn't seem to me that she treats you exactly like a rejected lover!" sneered the doctor.

"She would marry me, if she were allowed to choose," answered Charley, trying hard to keep his temper. "Her mother will not consent."

"Humph! not consent? That's pretty well!" growled the doctor. "So she thinks my son ain't good enough for her daughter?"

"She does not object to me. If you would give your consent to our marriage, she would give hers."

"Ah, that's it! Well, my consent you'll never have, young man, you may rely upon that. And if ever I hear of you're being seen with that young woman again, I'll turn you out of doors, sir. Remember that. I am not one to make idle threats."

Charley was about to reply, but they had reached the house by this time, and the doctor went into the office, and shut the door behind him with a bang. So there was nothing for poor Charley to do but to take his way disconsolately up stairs to bed.

In the meantime the doctor seized the poker and stirred up the dying fire in the grate savagely.

"Won't consent, eh? That's like Rose Shepherd! She always was a proud piece. Let me catch that boy with her daughter again!" And he walked rapidly up and down the room, brandishing the poker, and with a scowl still on his face, looking not unlike a midnight assassin, in spite of the venerable aspect which his gray hairs gave him.

But he cooled down very soon, sufficiently to carry the poker back to its place, and begin a search for dressing-gown and slippers, a search which proved long, and served to turn his anger from Charley to another.

"Of all the miserable housekeepers ever I had, this Barnes woman is the worst!" he grumbled, jingling his keys at last into the dilapidated, comfortable-looking dressing-gown, and slippers trodden down at the heel. "Not a drop of warm water, or anything to eat in the house, I'll warrant!" And he strode into the dining-room, which indeed was cold and void of cheer.

He went into the pantry and munched a hard, very dark-colored doughnut savagely.

"I'll turn her away to-morrow, she and her husband, too, only that the next would be sure to be worse. They are all of a piece. There is nothing worse to have in the house than a housekeeper—unless it's a wife. And I don't know—"

Dr. Hurlbert still stood in the pantry, solemnly deliberating after the last morsel of doughnut had disappeared. It was so long since he had had a wife that he could not decide whether one was worse than a housekeeper or not. It was a question that he had been revolving in his mind for years, without coming to any definite conclusion.

"Better bear the ills we have, than fly to others that we know not of," the poet says. But then, a man can't bear this state of things long; he might as well live in a cave in the woods! No order, no comfort, none of the decencies of life. Some time or other I shall have to marry, and I might as well make up my mind to it at once. And there's the widow Zipha Thomas. (Strange that boy can be such a fool as to run after that little jade of a Rose Carter!) The widow Thomas is a good housekeeper, I have no doubt; house always looks as neat as wax. Then there's that wood lot of hers that joins mine; not that I'm looking out for property with a wife, but that lot would come very handy; and the widow is a fine woman; a little quick tempered, I'm afraid. I never did like those snapping black eyes; that girl, Rose Carter, is just her mother over again, with her blue eyes and wheedling ways—confounded little jilt—and that boy is fool enough to be taken in by her. I should like to see anybody take me in! No, I thank you! once is enough. I said to Miss Esther Wagg, the other day: "The widow Zipha Thomas is a fine woman, a capital manager, isn't she?"

"Manager! you may be sure of that. She managed poor Reuben Thomas into his grave," said Miss Esther.

"But then, it's of no consequence what these spiteful old maids say. Most likely she has an eye on the situation for herself!"

And the doctor drew himself up, in the proud assurance that the widow did take a good helpmeet, he should leave every marriageable lady of his acquaintance inconceivable.

"I'll drive round and see the Widow Thomas next week. I don't think it likely that she can manage me."

And having made up his mind, Doctor Hurlbert betook himself to his chamber. But his face was not that of a man who is quite satisfied with his decision; and he stood for a long time at the window, and looked down to the foot of the hill, where the Widow Carter's was plainly visible in the moonlight.

"So, no, once is enough for a man to be made a fool of. And the silly boy shall never marry her daughter, if I can help it!" he said at last, turning away with a decided shake of the head. From which signs an observer would have supposed Miss Esther Wagg to be right, and the Widow Carter an old sweetheart who had "made a fool of him."

Rose Carter, with pale cheeks and downcast eyes, sat demurely sewing beside her mother the next morning when her uncle, old Squire Carter, came in. The pale cheeks had been observed by the doctor, but he said nothing about it.

"Bless me! what has become of the red cheeks? Why, they are as white as snowballs! Too much sewing and moping and not enough air and exercise—or has its sweetheart deserted it? It is a pity, for the sweetest heart I have ever known, and the Widow Carter an old sweetheart who had "made a fool of him."

"The child looks really ill, and something must be done," he said to Mrs. Carter, as he went away. "She hasn't looked like herself for months."

And the squire, haunted by Rose's pale face, betook himself directly to Doctor Hurlbert's office.

"I want you to go and see my niece, little Rose Carter, or prescribe something for her. She says nothing all her, but she looks pale and mopey. I suppose it is nothing but want of exercise. If these girls would only do as their grandmothers did! But you know what will help her—it's nerves, I suppose," said the squire, who fancied that "nerves" were at the bottom of all feminine ailments.

"Ah, yes! I'll send her a prescription," said the doctor, heartily. And thinking it the heartiness of interested good nature, the squire went on his way rejoicing.

And Doctor Hurlbert, feeling even less amiable than on the previous night, sat down at his desk, and wrote a prescription for Miss Rose Carter.

Just as he had finished it, his man, Barnes, brought him a note. It was from the man who took care of the doctor's farm, on the outskirts of the town, near the Widow Thomas' wood lot.

"The Widow Thomas' man, Jake, wants to know if you will let the black horse, to go down to Sanguis to the quarterly conference meeting to-night. He told him to say particularly that she didn't feel very well, and thought the ride would do her good, if you would be so kind as to let her take Black Bess, which is so gentle."

The doctor's face cleared as he read. "Little Sam Hodgkins is waiting for the answer, if you please, sir," said Barnes.

And the doctor wrote a few words hurriedly, in answer to Samuel Hodgkins, not without grumbling at the man's stupidity in not letting the widow have the horse without applying to him. But no matter! the widow would not have to ask for Black Bess again. "With all my worldly goods I thee endow," he meant to say to her very soon.

Barnes was entrusted with two notes—one to Miss Rose Carter, and the other for little Sam Hodgkins to carry to his father.

In the meantime, Charley had come to a new resolve. He would see Mrs. Carter once more, and try to gain her consent to his marriage with Rose. Without her consent Rose would never be his wife. It was evidently a hopeless task to try to overcome his father's prejudices; but he was determined that they should not be allowed to destroy his happiness, and Rose's too, for life. Mrs. Carter liked him; if it were not for his father's objections, she might be persuaded, too, to give her consent.

And there was no time to be lost, for in two days he was going away to a distant city, to establish himself in business. He had hoped to carry Rose with him, but all his pleadings had been of no avail to induce her to marry him against her father's will. All his hope now lay in his influencing Mrs. Carter, a very stern man, he took his way to the cottage at the foot of the hill. Squire Carter had just left, and Mrs. Carter's mind was filled with the anxiety regarding Rose's health which he had aroused; so perhaps Charley could not have found a better time for trying to win her over to his side.

But though she did hesitate for a moment, his pleading was in vain.

"You know there is no one whom I would rather have for a son than you, Charley," she said. "I know your father. He is a stern man, a very stern man, and he will never relent. He would never forgive you for marrying against his will. I cannot consent to your ruining all your prospects in life. You and Rose are both very young; you may change. The time might come, Charley, when you would regret disobeying your father's wish. You are his only son, and so dear to him; and before this you say he never thwarted your slightest wish. You ought not to disobey him hastily. To be sure, his prejudices seem unreasonable."

"Unreasonable! It is absurd!" interrupted Charley, hotly. "Why, he has never so much as seen you, to my knowledge!"

Mrs. Carter's cheeks flushed slightly. "I lived here when I was a girl, you know. I knew your father then. He has some reason for disliking me which I don't understand."

"It is only prejudice, a notion, I am sure," said Charley. "And he has no right to dictate to me in such a matter."

And he was beginning his eager pleading over again, when Barnes appeared with the note. There was no address on the outside, and Mrs. Carter opened it, while Charley waited in a fever of suspense to know what his father could have to say to Mrs. Carter.

Her face was a picture of amazement as she read, but pleasure alone shone through it as she handed the note to Charley.

It was brief and to the point:—
"Let him have her."
EDWARD H. HURLBERT.

"I always told Rose he had a heart, if one could get at it!" cried Charley, in a transport of delight. "Now, you can make no objection; we have your promise! I am going away the day after to-morrow, you know, and I must take my wife with me."

"The day after to-morrow! My dear boy, you are beside yourself!" exclaimed Mrs. Carter.

"You and Rose have said 'wait' to me so long that you can't have the heart to say it to me now, no more. I shall coax Rose over to my side, and then you can't refuse."

And he did coax them both over to his side, after countless arguments and objections. It was arranged that there should be a very quiet wedding, to which only a few intimate friends were to be invited, the next evening. Then Charley hurried home to express his gratitude to his father, whom he had begun to think he had misjudged.

While the thing was transpiring at the cottage, Samuel Hodgkins had received Dr. Hurlbert's answer to his note, and being surprised and puzzled by it, had transmitted it directly to the Widow Thomas; thus relieving himself of all responsibility in the matter.

So the widow, who was adorning her best cap with a new cherry ribbon, in celebration of the doctor's taking her gentle hint and coming himself to drive her to the quarterly conference meeting, was called from that pleasing occupation to read the following note, a mere scrawl, written evidently in haste and irritation:

"I have just received a letter from your son, Charley, in which he asks me to extract of your doctor's taking her gentle hint and coming himself to drive her to the quarterly conference meeting, was called from that pleasing occupation to read the following note, a mere scrawl, written evidently in haste and irritation:

"I have just received a letter from your son, Charley, in which he asks me to extract of your doctor's taking her gentle hint and coming himself to drive her to the quarterly conference meeting, was called from that pleasing occupation to read the following note, a mere scrawl, written evidently in haste and irritation:

monstrative as usual under the widow's calm, clear eyes. But he expressed his disapproval quite strong enough to show them there had been some mistake.

Charley produced the note, and the doctor saw through the mystery at once—Mrs. Thomas's lunacy and all. That stupid Barnes had changed the note. The Widow Thomas had been advised to stop gadding about evenings, and Mrs. Carter had considered herself permitted to "let him have her daughter." However angry he might be, the doctor saw it was too late to interfere.

"Well, young man, you have chosen your way, and you must walk in it. She's her mother over again, they say—you had better marry her as soon as possible, or she will jilt you as her mother did me."

The Widow Carter looked at him with something like a flash in her eyes.

"How can you say that, when you know that it was you who deserted me?"

"Didn't you write a letter within a month of the day that was to have been our wedding day, telling me coolly that you had discovered that you preferred another?" demanded the doctor.

"Never! I never wrote you such a letter!" said the widow. Charley began to see that an explanation was coming, at which a third party would be de trop, and took his departure. If he did, then, have a faint presentment of what might happen as a result of that explanation at some future day, he was not at all prepared for what did occur that very night.

When he and Rose moved away from before the minister who had made them husband and wife, his father and Mrs. Carter stood before him and the ceremony was repeated for their benefit. They had decided in that brief space of time that that was the best reparation possible for the mistake of almost a lifetime.

And it proved so agreeable an arrangement that Dr. Hurlbert is often heard to say that, although he has always prospered in his practice, he never made so great a success as when he wrote a prescription for Rose Carter.

Electric Car Motors.

In regard to the Beverly and Danvers Street Railway, says the Lynn Item, the instigators of this enterprise are to provide the road-bed and maintain it, and the Union Electric Car Company agree to equip it with two cars and keep it in running order. The income of the railroad is then to be divided equally. After one or two years' time either of the parties in interest have the privilege of buying the remaining half interest in the road. In case the Union Electric Car Co. fail to demonstrate the practicability of their storage-battery system for the entire satisfaction of the railroad management within a reasonable time it is to be retired at once. In this event the Beverly and Danvers Street Railway Company will supplant the discarded contrivance with an electrical system which is no experiment, but an absolute certainty."

Wonderful Nerve.

How often you hear this expression in the sense of meaning "great audacity," and surely no greater instance can be given than the audacity of some Tea Stores in imposing on the people poor and adulterated trash with a present, relying on their ignorance not to discover the imposition.

This will strengthen your system so that you will truly have a "wonderful nerve."

Their Business Booming.

Probably no one thing has caused such a general revival of trade at Arthur Hudson's drug store as their giving away to their customers of so many free trial bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption. Their trade is simply enormous in this valuable article from the fact that it always cures and never disappoints. Coughs, Colds, Asthma, Bronchitis, Croup, and all throat and lung diseases quickly cured. You can test it before buying by getting a trial bottle free, large size $1. Every bottle warranted.

Take Hood's Sarsaparilla
100 Doses
One Dollar

The Chief Reason for the great success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is found in the fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla actually accomplishes what is claimed for it, it is what has given to this medicine a popularity and sale greater than that of any other sarsaparilla or blood purifier before the public.

Hood's Sarsaparilla cures Scrofula, Salt Rheum and all Humors, Dyspepsia, Sick Headache, Biliousness, overcomes that Tired Feeling, creates an Appetite, strengthens the Nervous System, builds up the Whole System.

Hood's Sarsaparilla is sold by all druggists, $1; six for $5. Prepared by C. I. Hood & Co., Apothecaries, Lowell, Mass.

Present Age of the Earth.

The present age of the earth has been placed by Sir William Thomson at 100,000,000 years, while the speculations of others have given much larger figures. There are, however, good grounds for regarding 10,000,000 years as a moderate estimate. Scientists concur in thinking that this is but a small part of the earth's existence, and everything leads to the belief that its total evolution through the immensity of space will exceed a million centuries.—New York Commercial Advertiser.

Miscellaneous.

"Lige" said the president meditatively. "I understand that there was great difficulty in finding Washington descendants for the new centennial." "Yes, sir," responded Lige. "It was, I believe, one of the hardest jobs the committee had on their hands." "Well, Lige, I think Washington should have had sufficient forethought to have prevented all this mystification, don't you?" "Yes, sir, and it would have been easy enough to keep his relations before the public if he wanted to," observed Lige, quietly, as he addressed and sealed an appointment of the president's fourth cousin to a $4,000 salary.—[Puck.]

is beyond question one of the greatest in the world's history. A graphic, accurate and profusely illustrated history of it will be eagerly sought for by the reading public.

We are glad to announce that such a work is being prepared by W. Fletcher Johnson, Esq., and will be sold by canvassers through the well known publishing house of S. S. Scranton & Co., Hartford, Conn.

The universal interest in this subject insures a large sale; any person wanting employment and quick cash returns should apply to the publishers at once.

Epoch.

The transaction from long, lingering and painful sickness, a robust health marks an epoch in the life of the individual. Such a remarkable event is treasured in the memory and the agency whereby the good health has been attained is gratefully blessed. Hence it is that so much is heard in praise of Electric Bitters. So many feel they owe their restoration to health to the use of the Great Alterative and Tonic. If you are troubled with any disease of Kidneys, Liver or Stomach, of long or short standing, you will surely find relief by use of Electric Bitters. Sold at 50c. and $1 per bottle at Arthur Hudson's drug store.

A Great Battle

Is continually going on in the human system. The demon of impure blood strives to gain victory over the constitution to ruin health, to drag victims to the grave. A good reliable medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla is the weapon with which to defend one's self, drive the desperate enemy from the field, and restore peace and bodily health for many years. Try this reliable medicine.

Furor to Leave Home.

Over 60 people were forced to leave their homes yesterday to criss for packages of Hood's Sarsaparilla. It is the weapon with which to defend one's self, drive the desperate enemy from the field, and restore peace and bodily health for many years. Try this reliable medicine.

HE WAS NEAR THE BRINK.

The Graphic Account of a Most Wonderful Occurrence which Took Place in Kingston, N. Y.

(Special Correspondence Boston Paper.)

An event has taken place in this city so remarkable in its nature, that I venture to describe it in full. The principal in the affair is Mr. Jerome Smith, son of Cornelius B. Smith, of the State Insurance Department at Albany, who is well known, stands very high, and is in every way reliable. I have had a long and most interesting interview with him, which I transcribe and send you in his own words, trusting it may prove valuable to your readers.

"During last year," he said, "I could not understand what was the trouble with me. I had always felt strong and hearty, but I gradually became aware that something was determining me. I first began to feel drowsy, and then in a day or two I was unable to get up in the morning. I was sometimes hungry and sometimes I hated food, while my sleep was unrefreshing. I was sometimes very nervous, but I thought I might pass it by after a while. I did not. I don't see how I could have been so blind, but I suppose I was like most people who are troubled in the same way, and thought it nothing dangerous. After awhile I noticed a peculiar color and odor about the fluids I was passing; that they were dark at times and very light at others. Finally I began to gain flesh, but I knew that it was unnatural and that I was losing my health. I consulted several physicians, who were very kind in their attentions, but did not help me in the least. My father then sent me to New York, and we consulted the eminent Dr. Keyes, who treated me for several weeks. At that time my condition was such that I was bloated from head to foot, it was almost impossible to breathe, and I could not sleep. In several places of the body, and in my head, I felt a great pressure from within. The agony I endured was indescribable. Then the doctor told me my case was hopeless, that I had Bright's disease in its worst form, and that I had only a few days to live."

Fortunately a friend who accompanied me and would not see me die without a struggle. He did not urge, he insisted on my making one effort, and he told me I noticed an improvement at once. In four days the swelling greatly decreased and the pain wholly ceased. I continued to improve and am a well man to-day, and owe my life to the marvelous effects of that wonderful preparation—Hunt's Remedy. I believe this is the greatest medicine that was ever discovered by man, and I only wish the whole world might know what it has done for me."

"I know there are thousands of people troubled as I was and in just as great danger, but they do not realize it. Bright's disease is the most deceptive, the most terrible malady the world has ever known. It has no settled symptoms, but assumes every imaginable form. I had no idea that it was Bright's disease that was undermining me until I began to bloat, and now that I am well and enjoying life, I feel like telling everybody about my miraculous cure. It is a wonder this town is not aroused over my recovery."

"Such is the account of probably as narrow an escape from death as was ever known. The first symptoms which Mr. Smith felt were such as many others feel but do not consider worth noticing. It is plain, however, that the early indications of a dangerous disease cannot be trifled with, but must be met promptly, and by such a remedy as has been proven to be indeed a friend in time of need.

And consists of Tapestry Brussels, Body Brussels, Royal Velvets, Heavy All Wools, Elegant Ingrains, Fine Moquettes, Wiltons, Axminsters, Hemps, Napiers, Kidderminsters, Oil Cloths, Linoleums (both domestic and imported), and

CHINESE AND JAPANESE MATTINGS,

While the other comprises our entire stock of CHAMBER FURNITURE,

And consists of CHAMBER SETS OF MAHOGANY, finished both light and dark. OAK CHAMBER SETS, finished natural, antique or both. WALNUT CHAMBER SETS, with Italian or Tennessee Marble tops. PINE CHERRY AND BIRCH CHAMBER SETS, finished in light or dark Mahogany, natural Cherry or the new Cremona finish. ASH CHAMBER SETS, natural or antique finish, and PINE CHAMBER SETS, in Mahogany finish, with decorations, or painted light or dark, or enameled.

WE DO NOT HESITATE

To assert that in no other establishment in New England will you be able to make your selections from such a magnificent stock of goods. No other establishment caters to the wants of the purchasing public so thoroughly and completely as we do.

No Other Establishment in our line of business Can Compete With Us,

WE SELL FOR EITHER CASH OR ON INSTALMENTS,

AND ANY ARTICLE WHICH YOU BUY OF US WE WILL DELIVER FREE to any city or town in New England where there is a railroad freight station.

IN REGARD TO OUR

CARPET SALE

WE WILL SAY THIS: The manufacturers of carpets, owing to the dull buying of their goods by the retailers, find themselves overstocked, and as a matter of fact, are anxious to dispose of a part of their surplus at once. We have taken advantage of this condition of the market, and have made some mammoth purchases in this line, and on entering our store you will see hundreds and hundreds of rolls, stacked four and five deep, all in the original sacks, just as they came from the mill. And now that the goods have all arrived, and are ready for immediate delivery.

WE ARE PREPARED

To offer them to the public of New England at prices lower than ever before quoted on the same grades of goods.

YOU CANNOT

Do yourselves or us a greater favor than to come to our establishment, look at our stock, and then compare it with the small, insignificant displays which are offered in the majority of houses in our line of business in this city.

WE MAKE NO VAIN BOASTS nor MIS-LEADING STATEMENTS, neither do we come out in the papers with falsebores so glaring that they insult the intelligence of the people who read them. WHAT WE HAVE DONE is a matter of record, and a record of which we are proud. WHAT WE CAN DO, we want you to come and see for yourselves.

WE HAVE CARPETED OUR SIDEWALK WITH

Royal Wilton Velvet,

The same grade that we are selling at such low figures, and shall let it until Wednesday night. If you already had three days' wear, and we propose to give it three days more.

THOUSANDS WALK ON THAT CARPET daily, and when we take it up it will have been subjected to such an ordeal as no other carpet has ever passed through. You must know that we are perfectly content of what our goods will stand when we do this.

LOOK FOR THAT CARPET

As you pass by, and then come in and see our prices and get our prices.

We have hundreds of rolls of

STRAW MATTING

And at the prices we are selling the stock is waning rapidly.

—Mr. William Dixon, who has been here a year or more, has returned to his home in Ontario.

—Mr. John J. Noble and family are at their cottage at Marion, Mass., for the summer.

—Rev. Horace L. Wheeler has returned from Keene, N. H., where he preached last Sunday.

—Mrs. Norman C. George has returned to her home in Canada with her mother for the summer.

—Mrs. M. A. Edmunds of Centre street is visiting her friend, Miss Borden, at Fall River, Mass.

—Alderman Harbach has been elected a member of the New England Water Works Association.

—Mrs. Lawrence Mayo of Homer street went to Canton, Mass., on Saturday last, to visit friends.

—Mrs. Sophia Ulmer of Portland, Me., has been visiting her uncle, Mr. Ulmer of Bowen street.

—Deacon Newell and family have taken a cottage at North Scituate for the summer and are now there.

—Mr. Lester Brayton's family of Beacon street have gone to their summer home at Ocean Grove, N. J.

—A Boston photographer has taken a number of familiar faces and teams about town the past week.

—Miss Harbach of Ward street is in Hamilton, N. Y., on a visit to her sister, Mrs. Prof. Andrews.

—Owing to some trouble in splicing the cable, communication with Newton was cut off all day Sunday.

—Miss Ida Davis of Pelham street will be found at the Seaside house, Kennebunk, Me., during the summer.

—Mr. J. Frank Makee will remove to the house formerly occupied by Mr. Walter Thorpe on Pelham street.

—The orange tea and apron sale last Wednesday evening at the Congregational church was well attended.

—Arthur Muldoon is laying the foundation for another dwelling house on Chase street, for Mr. Melvin Bray.

—Mr. and Mrs. Wm. P. Soule arrived from Portland, Me., on Sunday. They will reside on Murray street, Newtonville.

—Mrs. Chas. L. Bird of Newton Upper Falls has taken the house on Warren street formerly occupied by Mr. A. C. Ferry.

—The Rev. A. P. Peabody, D. D., will preach at the Unitarian church on Sunday morning next. Services begin at 10:30.

—Mr. C. M. Newton and family left their residence on Beacon street last Wednesday, to spend the summer at Falmouth Heights, Mass.

—Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Chester and Miss Minnie Chester are expected home to-day from Vassar college, Poughkeepsie, N. Y.

—A company from Boston gives an entertainment in the evening at the town hall, for the benefit of the Johnstown sufferers.

—Mr. J. R. Bayley of Boston, who occupied the house of Prof. Brown on Institution avenue last season, is to occupy the same this summer.

—It is said that Catholic services will be held in association with the town hall, to accommodate those who now have to go to Newtonville for church.

—Dr. and Mrs. E. J. Dunning, who have been spending the winter with their daughter, Mrs. Howard C. Wilson of Elgin street, have gone to Elmira, N. Y., for the summer.

—Some of Newton Centre's best tennis players are booked for the tournament at the Newton Boat club fete on the 17th. Messrs. Peters, Fennessy, Wilder and Hovey are all to play.

—Allen Daniels, a son of Mr. Philip F. Daniels of Ripley street, fell from a pile of boards near Chase street on Tuesday, and fractured his arm in three places. Dr. Sylvester is in attendance.

—Rev. O. W. Gates of Boston will return to his residence on Parker street the first of July. Mr. Knox, who has occupied his house during the winter, will remove to Mr. Silver's on Station street.

—The topic of next Sunday evening's lecture at the Methodist church will be, "The Claims of Civic Life upon Young People." Services open with praise meeting, to commence at 7 o'clock.

—The addition of stringed instruments to the music at the Congregational church last Sunday was a pleasant surprise to the audience. The effect was excellent and it is hoped the addition may be permanent.

—The collection taken last Sunday at the Methodist church for the flood sufferers, amounted to ninety-one dollars. In addition to this amount, some large contributions had been made previously by members of this church.

—The side hill bordering on Cypress street and belonging to the Institution, has had many old and many more young trees cut down this week. The idea seems to be to have it graded and improved, through the woods were very pretty before.

—On Sunday, Mrs. M. J. Bennett of Crescent avenue, widow of the late Charles W. Bennett, died of malignant diphtheria. Mrs. Bennett was a daughter of Mrs. Poirer who resided with her. She left one daughter, Miss Elsie Bennett, who is away at school.

—An attempt was made early Tuesday morning to enter Robert Hawthorn's house, Pelham street. The wire covering of the screen door was cut and the bolt wrenched off, but the inside door evidently baffled the intruders, who were probably beginners in the art.

—Mr. Capron of Beacon street was surprised this week to find a hundred feet long building, being erected on his front lawn, over the aqueduct. As a long piece of work had to be done to the aqueduct the authorities ordered this unsightly building erected without consultation with Mr. Capron.

—An orange tea and apron sale was held on Wednesday evening in the Congregational vestry. It called out a fair attendance. Everything was decorated with orange in one shape or another, and the young ladies think the entertainment was a success financially.

—Mr. and Mrs. George G. Frost and two children of Pleasant street were thrown from a carriage in Brighton on Sunday. The horse took fright at an electric car and threw the carriage against the curbstone and demolished it. The occupants, although badly shaken and bruised, were not seriously injured.

—The members of the committee appointed by the Improvement society, to have charge of the Fourth of July celebration, are circulating subscription papers to raise money for this object. It is hoped that all will respond when called upon, as the co-operation of everyone is necessary to make the celebration a success.

—Subscription papers for raising funds for the celebration of the 4th of July are now in the hands of the following persons: John J. Noble, H. S. Williams, Geo. F. Richardson, W. F. Hahn, A. Sherman, W. O. Knapp, Gardiner Bros. and L. R. Stevens. About $400 is wanted to cover the plans now laid out.

—Mr. Benjamin W. Kingsbury, an old and respected resident of this village, died Thursday, at the age of eighty years and eleven months. The funeral services will be held from his late residence on Saturday at 4 p. m. Mr. Kingsbury was prominent in days when Newton was a town and served as selectman in 1848, '49 and '58.

—Children's day at the M. E. church was interestingly observed last Sunday afternoon. An interesting address to the children by Rev. Lemuel C. Barnes of the Baptist church was attentively listened to, and the children of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. E. Clark of the Highlands, Mr. and Mrs. Alvin Flanders of Norwood avenue, and three little ones of Mr. and Mrs. George Smith of Station street were baptized.

—B. P. Shillaber is at his daughter's, Mrs. Clement, on Warren street, for a few weeks. He will make up three-fourths of a century of years on the 12th of July next. He may grow old sometime, but now his lively interest in the important questions of the day, and his bright illustrative stories are so well and gaily told that for old age in appearance he evidently will be obliged to wait awhile longer.

—On Monday afternoon an auction sale of land was held by Hon. Jas. F. C. Hyde. The point of land between Parker and Cypress streets, owned by Mr. Ezra C. Dudley, was first put up. The regular price asked for the land was $25 cents, but it only brought 24 at the auction and was knocked down to Mr. D. R. Stevens, who bought it as a speculation. The location is a very good one and the lots are on high land. The two other lots, the other side of Mr. J. A. Daniels' were not sold, as the bids were too low.

—Miss Grace E. Dyer of Crescent avenue gave a pleasant entertainment to a few Conservatory friends and others on Wednesday afternoon and evening. An impromptu tennis game was played until somewhat interfered with by a shower when all adjourned to the parlors and a few hours later sat down to a well provided lunch. Among the invited guests were Miss Hayward and Miss Turner of the N. E. Conservatory of Music, the Misses Boyce of Hull, Mr. Wallace B. Goodrich and Mr. J. Baker of Newton, Mr. Geo. Flanders and Mr. A. E. Fowle of Newton Centre. The evening was spent in social converse, instrumental music and song.

—Dahlgren post of South Boston will visit Newton Centre June 17, where it will be hospitably entertained with Charles Ward post on the grounds of Fast Commander Nelson's estate on Homer street. A program of out-of-door sports has been arranged and the veterans will amuse themselves in a struggle with a greased pig, a foot ball contest and possibly a game of base ball. A camp fire will be lighted, refreshments will be served and the occasion promises to be a red letter day for the local veterans. Dahlgren post will be accompanied by its life, drum and bugle corps and good music may be anticipated in connection with the numerous pleasurable events of the day.

—Within a very few years the part of Newton Centre lying between Parker street and Institution Hill, was a large piece of woodland, having a large growth of chestnut and oak trees. Today two new streets, Ridge and Glenwood avenues, have been thoroughly constructed through this section, bringing into the market some very desirable building sites. The land is in one of the most elevated parts of Newton Centre, and in the semi-rural condition has attracted many new families to the town. Within about three years, thirteen new houses have been built in this section. Two are now in process of building on Glenwood avenue, one by Mr. Everett and the other by Mr. Read. Both have very sunny locations and a fine outlook, the rear overlooking Parker street. Mr. Read's house is for sale Aug. 1, and it offers a very pleasant home for some one. Glenwood avenue runs from Ridge avenue, south, turning and entering Parker street. The families in this section have united in naming it "Glenwood," it being situated on a large tract of forest trees, and those enjoying nature in its simplest form will here find a pleasant spot for a home.

—The Rose and strawberry exhibit held by the Newton Horticultural society yesterday afternoon, was quite a success. The afternoon the hall was filled with beautiful and rare flowers, strawberries and vegetables. The exhibit could not be called a large one, but the different varieties of vegetables and flowers were very well represented. Mr. Lewis H. Farlow of Newton, who is secretary of the society, was very active in making the hall attractive and the exhibit a success. About fifty prizes were awarded; among the prize winners were Mr. Leeson, for roses, Mr. Wm. Strong of Waban, Mr. Ross of Newtonville, for flowers, Mr. L. H. Farlow for flowers of different kind, Mrs. Goodrich of Newton, Mr. James E. C. Hyde, three prizes for strawberries, and Mr. Slade of Chestnut Hill. Miss Rachel Rand took a prize for a basket of flowers. During the evening the hall was cleared for dancing, and a hedge, it might almost be called, of roses, peonies, laurels, etc., covered the front of the long platform. At eight o'clock a promenade concert began to the music of Cole's orchestra. The hall was well filled with the young people of this place and Newton and Brookline, and dancing continued until 12 o'clock. The ice cream and cake were served in the adjoining hall.

NEWTON HIGHLANDS.

—Mayor Cobb has returned from his winter at Pensacola.

—Mr. Young lies dangerously ill at his home on Bowdoin street.

—The next meeting of the Chataqua club will be with Mrs. Richards.

—St. Paul's Society will hold a picnic at Sawin's grove on Monday, June 17th.

—Mr. S. W. Jones and family have returned from a visit of two weeks at Montpelier.

—Mr. N. W. Harriman, the evangelist, is now conducting a series of meetings at Hollis, N. S.

—The congregation of the Congregational church sent an express load of clothing to the Johnstown sufferers on Monday.

—Mr. J. C. Newcomb has moved into the tenement lately completed over Mr. Blair's plumbing shop on Walnut street.

—The little son of Mr. G. C. Emery, lately removed from here, who was so badly burned while playing with matches, is doing well.

—It was Children's day at the Congregational church last Sunday. A very interesting service for the children was held in the evening.

—House painting seems to prevail on Hartford street. This week the house occupied by Mr. George Beal has been painted by Mr. Randall.

—The Monday club held a lawn party at Mrs. C. H. Brown's, Walnut street, on Monday, June 17, 1889. If stormy, it will be deferred till Wednesday.

—The friends of Miss Mary Chapin will regret to learn of the illness from diphtheria of her little niece for whom she has cared so tenderly since her mother's death.

—Miss Lizzie Estabrook sailed from New York on Wednesday. She took passage in the elegant Luman, steamship of Paris. She is to spend the summer in European travel.

—A tennis club has been formed at the Highlands, consisting of 24 members, with Mr. Arthur Tarbell for president, Miss Edgar for vice-president, and Mr. Frank E. Hyde as secretary.

—Rev. E. P. Hooker, D. D., president of Rollin's College, Winter Park, Fla., with his family, arrived here on Wednesday, and will occupy the Brookley cottage on Columbus street, during the summer months.

—Letters at Newton Highlands post-office, June 13, 1889: J. Barton, Mary Campbell, C. F. Clement, James Connor, Miss Horgan, Joe A. Lynch, Mrs. Minnie McDonough, Mr. Seudder (2), J. W. Seudder, Charles White.

—Miss Mira C. Jones from Minneapolis, where she has been teaching for many years, is spending a few days of her vacation with her sister, Mrs. E. N. Nash. Miss Jones is a native of Maine and will make a visit to that state before returning west.

—Mr. L. P. Leonard and Mr. E. B. Simpson were elected vestrymen of St. Paul's, to fill the vacancies occasioned by the resignation of Mr. C. C. Barton and Mr. E. F. Payne of Newton Centre, who have joined the new Episcopal society lately organized there.

—A large number of the friends and relatives of Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Hayward assembled at their residence on Centre street on Tuesday evening, to celebrate with them the tenth anniversary of their marriage. The house was elegantly adorned with cut flowers and with potted plants. A very notable feature of the presents seemed to be the absence of tin ware, rare and elegant bric-a-brac and other articles of vertu taking the place. The company were entertained by instrumental music by Miss M. L. Stone, singing by Miss Lillian Manson, and by an original poem appropriate to the occasion written and read by Rev. Mr. Philbrick. Friends were present from Cambridge, Somerville, Brookline, Portland, as well as from Newton Highlands. Altogether it was a very enjoyable affair and one long to be remembered. Only the immediate relatives were invited, but the Swallow club, of which Mr. and Mrs. Hayward are members, thinking this was a good time to show their friendship, invited some of their friends, and helped to make the affair a very enjoyable one. They took a very handsome gift of silver ware.

NEWTON UPPER FALLS.

—Mr. Amos Hale's house on Oak street is fast approaching completion.

—Mrs. Otis W. Everett of Worcester, with her little son, is visiting at Mr. N. W. Everett's.

—Echo Bridge Council, Royal Arcanum, have voted $25 for the relief of their distressed brethren of Johnstown.

—The city have about completed the improvements on Winter street, much to the satisfaction of the village people.

—The following original poem was read by Alderman Pettee, at the entertainment at Prospect hall, on Tuesday evening, in aid of the Johnstown sufferers.

—There were no bidders who cared to advance upon the price set by the owner at the land auction of Mr. E. C. Dudley, last Saturday, and there was no sale.

—Miss Hayward, one of our teachers, is very sick at her home on High street. She will be unable to go back to her school this year, and her position is being filled by Miss Stearns of Nonantum.

—Last Sunday was Children's day at the Methodist church, and was observed by preaching to children in the morning by the pastor and in the evening by a concert by the Sunday-school on "Six Steps to the Throne."

—A generous-hearted gentleman, a resident of Newton, but not of Ward 5, has handed to Alderman Pettee a sum of money to be added to the contribution of the Johnstown sufferers, realized from Tuesday evening's entertainment.

—After a long and painful illness, Mrs. William E. Clarke died at her home on Oak street on Wednesday evening. She was a lady of remarkable vitality, as her advanced years, which extend beyond four score, will testify. A lady of excellent character, and of generous, neighborly and friendly disposition, her assignments were such as to be most highly prized by the fortunate recipients. Although her advanced years and general poor health for some time past, made it impossible for her to mingle with the village people to any great extent, she will be greatly missed by a large circle of friends, who will always remember her with love and admiration. The funeral will be held at her late residence on Saturday of this week, the remains being taken to Newton cemetery for interment.

—There was a very fine entertainment Tuesday evening at Prospect Hall, in aid of the Johnstown sufferers, given under the direction of Mr. Rogers Linton, who deserves considerable credit for the able manner in which he discharged his duties. The program was given by home talent entirely, which is always a pleasing feature, and they all acquitted themselves nobly, and richly deserved the applause which was so generously accorded them, as they severally performed their assigned parts. The hall was well filled, and $50 was realized, which was placed in the hands of Alderman Pettee, who forwarded the amount to the proper authorities at Johnstown, to be used as intended by the donors.

ORIGINAL POEM.

WRITTEN BY GEO. PETTEE, NEWTON UPPER FALLS, ON THE JOHNSTOWN DISASTER.

The midday hour of rest was o'er;
The bustling folks as doth appear
Chased from their homes as off he bore,
With no mistrust of evil near.

They went along their cheerful way
From house to shop, or to the mine,
On that historic Friday day
The same as any former time.

Like a band of friendly brothers,
Occupying the lower ground,
They busied their busy hands,
Were engaged in their own town.

Their loved ones, busy, were at home,
In confidence that all was right;
Unconscious of the awful doom
That hung about their loved ones' sight.

For two brief hours had hardly passed
When a shrill, startling, loud outcry Came sounding like a death-knell blast:
"The dam has burst, to the hillside fly!"

They saw a most appalling sight;
Height, depth or breadth we cannot state;
But wild and black, as darkest night,
The waters surged at fearful rate.

'Twas sudden as the lightning's flash,
When the sturdy oak is in its prime;
More awful than the thunder crash,
Echoing through the vaults of heaven.

The train could hardly grasp the fact,
Before its power of life was gone;
The torrent in its mighty act
Went swooping every thing along.

From their foundations buildings whirled—
As children throw their toys about;
And on the mighty flood were hurled
Along its desolating rout.

But direful and sad to state,
Thousands of human lives were drowned.

But language is inadequate
This ghastly horror to expound.
Over this scene we would gladly throw
A shield to hide it from our gaze,
For if its anguish we could know
'Twould chill our hearts in many ways.

But the mad waters onward raced
Resistlessly along their way;
Ten thousand souls by death embraced—
The harvest of that dreadful day.

The water plunged, on mischief bent,
Into the helpless vale below,
As on its swirling course it went,
Hurling destruction to and fro.

But ere two hours of time had passed
The lake had forced its water out,
So the receding flood at last Uncovered wreckage all about.

Devouring fire burst forth in rage,
Working among the ruins vast,
Burning bodies of tender age,
Consuming, like a holocaust.

Victims among the timbers fell
During those fearful hours of fear;
But their agony, none can tell,
As the relentless flames drew near.

Of material values gone,
We'll take a moment just to say,
That working diligently
They'll be restored some future day.

But the untimely loss of life
Strikes terror to our trembling hearts,
For, during such unequal strife,
The boasted power of man departs.

But hopefully we trust in God
For all our consolation here,
As sobbing o'er the sheltering sod
We drop our warmest, prayerful tear.

The building, 33 Bedford street, Boston, now occupied by Guy Bros., dealers in crockery, china and glassware, is to be torn down July 1st, and as their entire stock must be sold by that time, an unusual opportunity is offered for genuine bargains.

—Mr. Robert D. Farquhar has been elected secretary of the graduating class at Phillips Exeter Academy which numbers 65, and is the largest class which has graduated for years.

—Some very pleasant rooms will be to let at Hotel Hunnewell from July 1. This is one of the pleasantest summer homes in one of the best localities in Newton.

—Mr. John Davis, formerly with Billings & Clapp of Boston, has been engaged by Dr. Hudson to give the address of welcome at the class day exercises on Tuesday.

—The oratorio of "Emmanuel," which is to be presented at the Cohasset town hall on Sunday evening, the 30th inst., promises to be the musical event of the century on the South Shore. Two hundred and twenty performers will take part.

—The people of Watertown are happy over the first through express to Boston (schedule time 14 minutes) which the Fitchburg management has given them. Some 60 years ago they had a similar pony-wagon when the town of Watertown was the only town having a semi-daily coach connection with the metropolis.

—Mrs. H. B. Cox of Brighton hill was married to Mr. John D. Barrows of Watertown Monday afternoon, at her residence, corner of Washington street and Waverly avenue. It was a quiet home wedding and Rev. Mr. Hornbroke officiated. After a wedding tour Mr. and Mrs. Barrows will reside in Newton.

—Nonantum Hill, Brighton, well known as the nurseries of the Hon. William C. Strong, has been sold to a syndicate composed of Henry M. Whitney, the Hon. Frank Jones, Walter M. Cameron, William B. Burtin, Sidney W.ushing, Jacob W. Paff, and others. The estate comprises 1,300,000 feet of land between Washington and Kendrick streets. It is understood that the syndicate will cut the property up for residences.

—A lawn party was held at the residence of Mr. B. F. Bacon on Wednesday street, Monday afternoon and evening. The Chataqua circle of Elliot church, and friends were the invited guests, and the pleasant party who gathered on the lawn numbered about 20. Lawn tennis, archery and croquet were enjoyed between the showers and tea was served in the house. In the evening the lawn was illuminated.

—The closing exercises of Miss Spear's school occur this afternoon, Friday, at 3.30 in Armory hall. The work accomplished in this admirable institution the past year has been most satisfactory. All the departments are under teachers of undoubted competence, while the joint instruction of Miss Spear and Miss Bamford furnishes all that is needed for a school the most complete of its kind in our city. Further notice of the exercises will be given next week.

—A new class of musical literature is being prepared by a few of the organists and composers in this country for the "Liszt" organ and piano, the effect being quite orchestral when the two instruments are played together. Mr. J. E. Trowbridge has just completed an arrangement of the Sonata Pastorale, Beethoven's 4 movements, Allegro, Andante, Scherzo and Rondo, for these instruments. The composition is to be published in Germany during the summer, and will probably be produced during the next musical season in Boston, at afternoon matinees, with other music of same class, for organ and piano, or organ, piano, violin and cello.

—The meeting of the Y. M. C. A. last Sunday was led by Mr. R. F. Cummings, and was of unusual interest. Next Sunday the meeting will be held on Dr. Hitchcock's grounds, opposite the Methodist church. Mr. S. M. Sayford will have charge. This Thursday night meeting will be continued for the present and will be in charge of Mr. A. C. Bailey.

—Miss Grace B. Weed, daughter of Mr. Alonso S. Weed, publisher of Zion's Herald, and Mr. Thomas Hooper Esq. of New Bedford, were married Monday evening at the residence of the bride's father on Park street. It was a quiet home wedding, the ceremony being witnessed by the family and immediate friends of the bride and groom. Rev. Andrew McKee, pastor of the Centre street Methodist Church, officiated, and the benediction was pronounced by Rev. A. E. Johnson of New Bedford. The ushers were Messrs. Frank Eckfeldt, George M. Weed, Alonso W. Weed, John B. Scott. The couple left Monday evening on their wedding tour. They sail for Europe Wednesday, to be absent for a few months and upon their return will reside in New Bedford. The groom is the principal of the Friend's Academy of that city.

—A Hartford lady, says the Hartford Courant, tells this story concerning her ancestor, a direct descendant of John Eliot, the missionary and scholar. This lady lived in New Haven and had occasion to send to Boston for a number of kegs of nails. She stated that the committee on not producing these necessities. In due time the kegs arrived, but on opening them it was discovered that one was filled with Spanish dollars. The family wrote to the Boston committee and told them that one of the kegs held something more valuable than nails. He replied that he had bought them for nails and his responsibility therewith ended. The kegs were kept among the family treasures for many years untouched and unclaimed until the death of the head of the house, who in her will ordered that they be melted and cast into a communion service for the New Haven church, which was done, and it is still probably in use.

—A special meeting was called for Tuesday evening, but no quorum being present, the meeting was adjourned to Wednesday evening for the hearing relative to the petition to drain the pond on the premises of Mr. E. P. Bond, claimed to be a nuisance.

The board had visited the place and decided that action ought to be taken in the matter. Notices were served on residents of Auburndale avenue, Elm street and Webster Park. The petition was read by Mayor Burr and the hearing opened. Mr. E. P. Bond wished to know what plan for abating the nuisance had been found. Agent French in reply said the plan was to open an old drain running under Oak avenue and into the stream known as Dolan brook, which was a natural water course and would very readily carry off all that was required, although the brook might have to be cleared out. Mr. Brackett asked for the cost of the drainage plan. City Engineer Noves stated that to relieve Mr. Bond and the residents in that vicinity the estimated cost from his survey in 1881 would be about $920, while to relieve the Elm street district at the same time, the cost would be about $375 more, or a total of $1,295 for the two districts.

In answer to a question from Mr. Pettie, Mr. Brackett said there was an open water course which drained this property some twenty five years ago, but with the filling in and building of later years, this had become obstructed and filled up. Nothing more being said, on motion of Mr. Pettie the hearing was closed.

A petition was read from Messrs. G. M. Boynton and Ernest Porter, asking for prompt action of the board in dissipating the nuisance at the corner of Knowles and Station streets, Newton Centre.

The board voted on motion of Mr. Fuller to visit the premises.

The matter of locating a cesspool on the premises of Mr. Simpson on Cabot street was referred to Agent French with full powers.

A petition and application to keep a pig, from Wm. B. Livingston of Walnut street, Newton, was granted.

Notice to leave an uninhabitable tenement house on Washington street at Newton Lower Falls, had been disregarded and the matter was referred to the city solicitor for advisement.

Adjournment to 7.45, June 20th.

Field Day.

All those who wish to accompany the Newton Natural History Society on its excursion to Marblehead Neck, Saturday, June 22nd, should meet the society at the depot, in Boston, as early as 11 a.m., that the number may be known before the tickets are purchased, a reduction being made if the party numbers fifty or more. The round trip tickets are seventy cents—if the number is fifty it will be fifty cents. The trains leave Boston at 11.15. Return from Marblehead at 4.55 or 6 p.m.

All persons wishing to accompany the society on this "Field Day" are invited to do so and report to Dr. J. F. Frisbie at the depot in Boston.

Building Lots at Waban.

There are signs of a real estate boom in the beautiful village of Waban and some 6 or 8 building lots have been disposed of there during the past ten days, through Mr. J. F. C. Hyde's agency. There are few locations around Boston which have so many natural advantages, and the class of people who are building homes there will be a welcome addition to the population of Newton.

The place is being laid out with great care and the building lots advertised in the GRAPHIC are as desirable as any seeker for a home could desire. Now would seem to be the time to buy, while one can have the choice of sites, and a good sized lot can be secured at a reasonable price.

Can You Swim?

Attention is called to the advertisement in another column of the Allen swimming school which opened its fifth annual season this week. To many of the residents of Newton the advantages of this school are well known and appreciated. Already there are many youths in our villages who can point to this place as the witness of their first struggle in mastering "the art" of swimming. Special arrangements may be made by those desiring to visit the pond at hours other than those advertised. At least this delightful spot is worthy a visit and those who call will doubtless feel repaid for so doing.

More Barga us In hosiery, underwear and collars, for children, ladies and men, at A. L. Gordon's, 22 Temple place, Boston. For particulars send advertisement.

SPECIAL MEETING SCHOOL BOARD

NEW MEMBER ELECTED AND SALARIES OF TEACHERS INCREASED.

A special meeting of the school board was held in the high school building, Newtonville, last evening. In the absence of the mayor, President Barton occupied the chair. The special purpose of the meeting was occasioned by the resignation of Mr. Walter C. Frost of Ward 5, and the election of his successor. Mr. Frost's resignation was accepted and Mr. Frank J. Hale was unanimously elected to fill the vacancy. Mr. Hale is now a member of the common council, but he was the choice of the people of his ward and will resign his position as councilman.

The election of Mr. Frost's successor having been disposed of, Mr. Bond moved that the rules be suspended in order to transact the regular business of the board. The motion prevailed.

Mr. Hornbroke read the resignation of Miss S. Louise Shelton of the Bigelow school, which was accepted.

Miss Martha M. Dix was appointed a special assistant teacher in the Bigelow, Pierce and Mason schools, her services to be required one day in each week in the Bigelow, two in the Pierce and one in the Mason school, the compensation to be fixed at the rate of $12 per week.

New text books were recommended by the superintendent and the matter referred to the committee on text books.

Mr. Hornbroke reported for the committee on salaries, recommending that the maximum salary of first assistants be fixed at $700; assistants in 6th and 7th grades, $600; all other assistants, $500. He stated that the committee had found that first assistant teachers in the next grade were compensated at $500, while those in the 6th and 7th grades were only four masters and therefore increased responsibilities. That condition did not now exist, and the salary was larger than that paid in other cities. In order to equalize the salaries of the teachers, a reduction of $50 was deemed advisable in the compensation of first assistants and an increase of $20 in the amount paid to teachers in the sixth and seventh grades. He moved the adoption of the recommendation and the motion was seconded by Mr. Barnard.

Mr. Dickinson opposed the reduction of the salaries of first assistant teachers. He said that the teachers made the schools and that Newton wanted the best talent that could be procured. The reduction of the salaries would work disaster in the schools, and some other way should be devised to save in the expense without attempting to decrease the salaries of teachers.

If the object was, as had been said, to equalize the salaries rather than to economize, it would be better to increase the compensation of the teachers in the lower grades. He then asked for the opinion of the superintendent.

Mr. Emerson stated that he favored the recommendation of the committee and said that the decrease would not prevent the city from securing good teachers as the amount fixed by the committee was equal to that paid in all other cities. It was a plan for the equalization of salaries and a step that would lead to the increase of the salary of every assistant teacher in the city. Again, it was a plan in accordance with the law of supply and demand. Other cities do not pay so large a salary to first assistant teachers and there is no good reason why Newton should.

After the discussion several amendments were offered and lost. It was finally voted to consider the salary items serially. The item of salaries of first assistants was first taken up. Mr. Dickinson offered an amendment fixing the amount at $750, the sum now paid. The amendment was carried and the order then adopted. The other salary items were not changed, the board voting to fix the compensation of assistants in the 6th and 7th grades at $600, and all other assistants at $500.

The following orders were then adopted: Appropriating $12,444.04 for expenses of the current month; authorizing the principal of the high school to employ clerical assistance at an expense not to exceed $5 per week; granting to ladies of Newton Centre the use of the Thompsonville schoolhouse during July and August for purposes of a vacation school; requesting the committee on schoolhouses to consider the expediency of erecting a new schoolhouse at Waban; closing the grammar and primary schools June 27; empowering the committee on industrial education to have teachers and prepare tools, books and equipments for the vacation school at Auburndale; providing the money was appropriated by the city council; requesting the committee on rules and regulations to consider the expediency of extending the time of detention of pupils after school hours.

On motion of Mr. Bond it was voted that section 1, chapter 3, of the rules of the board be suspended and the date of the next regular meeting was then fixed for the first Wednesday in September.

The July Vacation School.

The ladies of the Social Science Club of Newton will open at Nonantum, on or about the second of July, a vacation school for the people of that district. They have raised among themselves funds sufficient to enable them to engage two teachers for the summer months, and through the generosity of Mr. H. W. Wellington, they have a building placed at their disposal. Two or more ladies will also volunteer their aid in the school on each day of its session, in order to make it possible to teach a large number of children in the two hundred and thirty children in the district have expressed, through their parents, a desire for instruction in a trade school, or more properly speaking, industrial school, during the summer months.

The funds which the club now have will, however, only enable them to open a school in feeble craft, for the purpose of giving systematic training to such girls as desire to become seamstresses. They must also exclude many of the girls who have applied.

The club would like to open a department for the boys and give instruction in the use of tools, pie tools. Their funds are limited. This enterprise must appeal to the hearts of many of the people of Newton. There must be those who would like to aid the work, who will relieve many poor mothers from anxiety about their children, and will be one stepping-stone towards the making of useful citizens. Will those who are always generous once more open their hands and give us support and aid in further carrying out our work?

A similar work was done by the club in Thompsonville during the summer of 1888 with great success. That work had been done in the hands of the young people of the Christian Endeavor Society of Newton Centre.

In beginning this new work the club of Newton would welcome the sympathy and active co-operation of other citizens in the work. Contributions of money will be gratefully acknowledged and may be sent to the president of the club, Mrs. J. H. Sawyer, Chestnut Hill.

Athletics vs. Planets.

The Athletics played the Planets of Boston at Newtonville, on the afternoon of the 17th. Owing to the rain of the morning the grounds were not in the best of condition and a light shower delayed the calling of the game half an hour. Good fielding was impossible under these circumstances.

Farrell pitched an excellent game and was well supported by Dunn. The features of the game were the batting of Steacy and a one-handed catch of a liner by Golden in center field.

The score by innings:

Innings	1	2	3	4	5	6	7	8	9
Athletics	0	0	2	10	1	3	0	0	28
Planets	0	0	1	4	1	5	0	4	0-12

Base hits—Athletics 15, Planets, 7. Errors—Athletics 15, Planets 22.

NONANTUM.

—Miss Hattie Robertson left for Canada last Thursday night where she will spend the summer.

—Edward McDonald of Chandler street died at his home Monday morning, after a long and tedious illness. He was interred at Holyhood on Wednesday.

—William Mayo, one of the oldest residents of this village, died at his home on Faxon street last Friday evening. Mr. Mayo came to this village about 30 years ago and was employed for many years at the Dalby mills, and by perseverance and economy he accumulated several thousand dollars. His health becoming poor, he went into business in Boston and lost all, coming back to this village. He leaves one son.

A TARIFF IS A TAX.

HIGHER.

A PROPHECY.

(Translated from H. W. L.)

1. Election Eve was falling fast,
As through a misty past,
A youth with a strange device,
"Higher,"
2. His arms were raised, the bill to hold
Above his head—his hand in gold;
And like a silver dollar rung
The accents of that well-known tongue,
"Higher."
3. In happy homes he saw the light
Of foreign coal gleam warm and bright
Before his eyes a vision shone
And from his lips escaped a groan,
"Higher."
4. "O, have you passed," the old man said,
That awful bill just overhead;
"Those sweeping taxes, deep and wide?"
And loud the trusty voice replied;
"Higher."
5. "O, stay," the maiden said, "Repel "Duty and custom, will I kneel,"
A tear stood in his steel blue eye
But still he answered with a sigh
"Higher."
6. "Beware the Eastern workmen, sage;
"Beware the Western farmers' rage,"
That was the peasant's last good night.
A voice replied far out of sight
"Higher."
7. At break of day as paper ward,
The plow, trustful Tariff hand,
Turned up their hungry Moorish eyes,
A voice from nowhere faint did rise,
"Higher."
8. A wanderer, by a bustling sheep,
Was found, all buried in a heap;
Covered and covered and covered o'er
With taxes more, and more, and more,
"Higher."
9. There in the morning of a better day
A relic of the past he lay.
His best friends all from near and far Hope he has passed where taxes are
"Higher."

Newton and the Tariff.

To the Secretary:

After reading one of the thoughtful and suggestive articles that appear in the Tariff Reform Column of the GRAPHIC, it occurs to me to ask your club to make a practical application of its plausible theories right here in Newton among the members of the club. If their arguments can endure a practical home test, it would be good evidence of their value for the country at large. But if they fail for Newton, they surely would be worthless for the nation, as there are few cities in the country whose prosperity is not more dependent on manufacturing than Newton. Small as are our interests in this direction, we nevertheless manufacture in great quantities Silks, Cottons, Worsteds, Stuffs, Fancy Cordage, Paper, Machinery, and Fire and Police Alarm Apparatus. The exact figures of these enterprises are not necessary for our purpose but it is evidently giving your club the advantage of the argument to call the total value of their plants $1,000,000 and the number of workmen employed in them 1000. Now all of these manufactures are protected, some of them very highly, and any considerable reduction of the Tariff must inevitably cripple them so that general decay would set in, and, before many years empty and silent shops would stand in the place of thriving industries. As a necessary result 1000 workmen with their families (say 3000 in all) would be driven elsewhere for work, and the city would lose one-seventh of its population. The City Treasury also would suffer by the loss of $15,000 in taxes, the depletion of which sum from the expenditures of the highway department or of the public schools would compel unwelcome deterioration.

The question is, are the Tariff Reformers of Newton ready to see the City of their homes thus crippled for the sake of any theory, however ideal it may appear on paper. The club will confer a favor on many readers if, in answering this question, it will avoid deep disquisitions on Political Economy which not one in ten thousand understands and upon which no two writers agree, and selecting a concrete example like the Nonantum Worsteds Company, or Oris Pettie's Machine Shop, will tell us how these concerns can sell their products for 20 per cent less than present values and continue to exist.

Newton and the World.

We have printed the above communication in full though it may be some weeks before we can reply to the last demand, and show "how these concerns can sell their products" for less "than present values, and continue to exist." We will pass over to-day the assumption "that any considerable reduction of the Tariff must inevitably cripple" the industries of Newton, and meet face to face the inquiry "Are the Tariff Reformers of Newton ready to see the city of their homes crippled for the sake of a theory?" Yes, unequivocally! The Tariff Reformers are ready to look a little beyond their own door steps. We do not deny that a reduction of the Tariff may injure some industries; we doubt not that many enterprises born of the Tariff must wither. It does not require very great breadth of mind to understand that measures of advantage to the State might be hurtful to our own city. An economic policy of most benefit to the United States might affect injuriously the industries of Massachusetts. Logic suggests a still wider comparison, and the true Tariff Reformer will not hesitate to become a Citizen of the World, and to say, "Homo sum; humani nihil a me alienum puto." But in saying that he is still loyal to his home, his state, and his country, the greater patriotism has grown out of the less and must include it. Anything that tends to help the increasing purpose of the ages must in the end help each one of us.

Free intercourse between the nations of the earth would make for the development of finer types of manhood—there is ground enough for a reform of a Tariff. But when we further consider that not only our own country but our own state must reap great advantages from such a reform, the part that Newton plays is seen to be a small one.

It was for a theory only that Massachusetts let her fields lie fallow from 1775 to 1783; it was for a theory only that her counting rooms were vacant and the spindles idle in 1861; and for a theory only she will give such sacrifice as shall be needed in 1889. We may be mistaken, we may be fanatical, but we believe in the truth and justice of our cause and shall appeal to no selfish interest, no sectional prejudice, no party passion, to maintain it. It was our purpose to present to our readers studies of Newton's industries. The letter quoted above confirms our resolution, and we hope to show our inquirer how each of our mills and factories is affected by the present Tariff, and what good or ill would come to it through a Reform Bill. But we shall not ask help in our work simply because Tariff Reform will enrich Newton, nor should we hesitate to ask it on the ground that the Nonantum Worsteds Mills or Oris Pettie's Machine Shop might be crippled.

Some Questions Started by the Flood in Pennsylvania.

In every great calamity that involves suffering and loss of life there are two questions which are very likely to be asked:—

First, is it a judgement?
Second, is such suffering compatible with the divine goodness?

No doubt there are many persons who are in perplexity today how to regard this dreadful disaster by which so many lives were lost and by which so many survivors have been brought into sorrow that will be life long for want of them.

Is this a judgement?
Certainly not in the sense in which some people think of the visitation of punishment. Our Lord corrected the tendency which some in His day showed towards regarding every calamity as a direct judgment from the hands of the Almighty by asking, "Suppose ye that those 18 upon whom the tower in Siloam fell were sinners above all that dwell in Jerusalem?"

The motive of the book of Job is to show that suffering and privation may have other purposes than punishment.

We must dismiss then from our minds the thought that Deity is ever intervening by some sudden and unexpected way for the punishment of offenders—as if He were an angry sovereign waiting to hurl His thunderbolts of wrath at the guilty. The present life does not exhibit an exact system of rewards and punishments. But there is a sense in which God is a God of judgment.

There are great natural laws which cannot be violated with impunity. Punishment inevitably follows the offence, either directly or indirectly.

No one can study the causes of this calamity without seeing that here is one result of the denudation of the forests in Pennsylvania. It is bewildering to try to count up the millions of feet of timber cut every year in that section. A forest once cut down requires many years for its renewal.

The whole condition of the surface soil has been changed by stripping the land of its trees, for whereas the presence of the trees once made spongy receptacles for the rainfall, their absence permits the rapid drying up of the surface, and, worse than all, the swift moving of waters over their surface instead of absorbing them.

Everybody knows by this time that the destruction of the forests means floods and freshets. There is no telling where the next one will come, but every place is in more or less danger.

The execution of the law of nature is inevitable, whatever may be the delay. Then again, if for any purpose a body of water is backed up at an elevation higher than the houses of the people living below, and the banking up is weak, there comes a time when the law of pressure, which is a form of the law of gravity, will bring it down. Everybody knows that too.

We cannot expect Deity to suspend the law of gravity to satisfy the cupidities or the stupidity of engineers and fishing clubs.

It is very sad that innocent human lives are involved in the consequent suffering, but our care for the innocent should lead us to study all the more closely the laws which Deity has appointed. The goodness of God cannot be impugned because He executes the laws which He has impressed upon His universe. Nor can it be impugned because the sadness and suffering which result from such a calamity are so great.

If this life were all it would be a serious reflection upon the goodness of God that two thirds of all who are born never reach years of maturity.

Why is life given if not to attain here the fullness of its powers?

Life is to be regarded as a boon under all circumstances, so that the one must thank God for his own creation, but the sphere in which life is to be lived cannot surely be only this visible world. There must be something else. If there be something else, then the length of our present stage of being is comparatively an unimportant matter. It is only a point over which we pass in transit to that which is eternal.

It surely cannot make much difference whether one die either at 70 or at 50 years of age, if the man have conformed himself to the will of his Lord. And thus, if we know, as we know, that the future may be equally favorable for this entrance into the unchanging existence.

In other words we are not to regard death to a man prepared for it as a calamity, come when it will. It may be a calamity to others, but not to him if he is ready to go.

Nothing is more needed than the urging of people to be prepared for death, and nothing more accordant with sound reason than that we all must so live that the call to depart shall never be unexpected. It is when men live in a condition of unpreparedness for the great change, when they are living only for the present, that it becomes a calamity to die.

It must also be remembered that although we may not become the victims of a disaster so great as that which swept down the valley in Pennsylvania, each individual is exposed every day to perils great enough to make him see how slender is the thread of existence.

Says Jeremy Taylor, "To preserve a man alive in the midst of so many chances and hostilities is as great a miracle as to create him."

"Death meets us everywhere, and is procured by every instrument and in all chances, and enters in at many doors."

Every reflecting person must see that he holds his lease of life here upon a very precarious tenure, and that he must be ready to give it up at any moment.

So far as the suffering of survivors is concerned, while it may be extreme and while there may be no solace that is adequate, we must not forget the grand spectacle of myriads of hands stretched out in human sympathy to do all that man can do to afford relief and comfort. The whole land is better for this dreadful calamity, for all our people seem more closely knit together in the bonds of brotherhood. It is one of the evidences of the growth of Christianity in the world that when suffering comes there is the springing up of people of all kinds to help the sufferers. It would have been a calamity worse than the freshest itself if there had not been this splendid exhibition of kindness. The very hour the news reached our great cities physicians, nurses, the red cross society and others made ready to relieve the needy.

In some instances our church buildings were turned at once into workshops to clothe the naked, the tide of Christian sympathy rises higher and higher, and this great calamity marks the nearer coming of His reign whose mission is to make all men brothers.

The School Children's Concert.

To the Editor of the GRAPHIC.

The Newtonville Woman's Guild never has been conspicuous for failure in its methods or results in doing good, so when it was announced that a concert by the children of the Clavin and Adams schools under the auspices of the Guild for the benefit of the Newton Cottage Hospital, was to be given at Newtonville, June 6, the public had perfect confidence in the project. Nor was it to be disappointed Thursday evening, nearly two hundred children marched in perfect order down the aisle of the Congregationalist church and took seats in the west wing. A little later the two teachers of the primary classes walked in followed by their little troops, and took a front seat. Everybody's pet was there from the little fellow with the sunshine still seeming to glint from his flaxen hair, and by his side an ebony schoolmate, whose face and curls evidently had been touched also by the same impartial sunshine, and whose very wriggling was rhythmic, to the boys and girls who hope to be somewhere among the N. H. S. "nineties" in a year or two.

It was heaping coals of fire on the always-too-busy heads of our parents who neglect to assist schools, and see what others are doing for us, to have Mr. Walton, the singing teacher, lay out his whole work before us like a chart, in a succession of music drills, each followed by a little concert from each grade as he passed to the work of the higher class. After a while it was found necessary to divide the program somewhat, but enough had been done to show the careful teaching through which songs had come into our homes.

Mr. Walton paid a high compliment to his faithful co-workers, the teachers, and they well deserved it. The latter part of the evening was given to songs. A duet by Miss Josephine Hart and Miss Alice S. Cobb was very sweet and suggested much promise in the future, while the "Jolliest Boys Alive", Masters Bosson, Wiggin, Kimball, and Merrill made us hope that their quartet might be a permanent thing.

One could not help but think how well the projector of this concert had shown her ability as an educator (in the best sense of the word) by thus putting into the children's minds the idea that somebody must work for a public good that any one may have the benefit of, if he chooses.

At home he has seen Mr. Walton, the singing teacher, lay out his whole work before us like a chart, in a succession of music drills, each followed by a little concert from each grade as he passed to the work of the higher class.

After a while it was found necessary to divide the program somewhat, but enough had been done to show the careful teaching through which songs had come into our homes.

Mr. Walton paid a high compliment to his faithful co-workers, the teachers, and they well deserved it. The latter part of the evening was given to songs. A duet by Miss Josephine Hart and Miss Alice S. Cobb was very sweet and suggested much promise in the future, while the "Jolliest Boys Alive", Masters Bosson, Wiggin, Kimball, and Merrill made us hope that their quartet might be a permanent thing.

One could not help but think how well the projector of this concert had shown her ability as an educator (in the best sense of the word) by thus putting into the children's minds the idea that somebody must work for a public good that any one may have the benefit of, if he chooses.

THE HIGH SCHOOL.

There has been a good deal of discussion about the High School and the class of pupils who attend, and whether it was patronized by all the citizens, or only by those who could afford to send their children to private schools, and also as to what villages sent the most pupils. To solve some of the questions raised, we give today a full list of the pupils at the High School, arranged by classes, with the names of parents and their residences. In the absence of any regular catalogue, it has taken a good deal of labor to arrange the names, and we are under obligations to Head Master Goodwin, and several of the teachers and pupils of the school, for assistance in the work.

The length of the list certainly shows that the High School is appreciated by the people of Newton, and that its advantages are availed of by citizens generally. It is the most expensive portion of our school system, but good things are generally expensive, and if the work is well and thoroughly done, the cost will not be regretted.

The school has more pupils than many colleges, and the course of study covers quite as much ground as that offered by the smaller colleges. When high schools were first started in Massachusetts they were quite modest affairs, but with the advance in educational matters, they have grown and expanded into proportions that the projectors of the system never dreamed of.

The question is often asked whether our higher public schools are fulfilling their mission of preparing pupils for the battle of life, whether high school graduates are better fitted to earn their living, to consider the case from a bare utilitarian standpoint, better fitted to compete successfully, than pupils who stop with the grammar school and enter at once into business. The great majority of pupils, although this is not so true in Newton as in most towns, have to make their own way in the world. The question is does the course of study fit them for this, or do they have to begin on the same level with those who left school several years earlier? The present course of study in our schools is certainly not practical, but how to make it so is something which is puzzling the educators of the country. We see tentative efforts to provide a remedy, here and there, by adding classes in industrial training to the already overcrowded curriculum, but whether the whole system should not be overhauled, is a question that is troubling many who once took it for granted that our school system was the best in the world.

The postal service seems to be pretty badly demoralized, judging from the great number of complaints from mail subscribers to the GRAPHIC. Every week brings a dozen or more, and there are probably many others who are not heard from. People living in towns a few hours distant write that they do not get their papers until the next week, although they are sent out from the Newton post office before 5 o'clock, Friday afternoons, and ought to be delivered anywhere in Boston or its suburbs by Saturday morning, and have been so delivered in the past. The daily papers say that the railway mail service has been thoroughly reorganized in New England, and as our experience is only that of other weekly papers, we should say that the report is correct. There was the same trouble when the last Democratic administration re-organized the service. It is of course a very desirable thing to have all the postal clerks belong to the same party as the national administration, but it is of much more importance to the people that their mail should be delivered promptly. No wholesale changes can be made in such a complicated and extensive system without making trouble. How long the spoils system will be allowed to disarrange the mail service of the country is a question, but the American people are noted for being long suffering. As for the GRAPHIC, we shall do what we can to have them reach subscribers promptly, and are always glad to mail a second copy when the first is not received. Fortunately, there will not be another change in the national administration for nearly four years, and in a few months the new men will probably become more familiar with their duties.

The Metropolitan Drainage bill, passed by the last legislature, provides for some very important work, and the three commissioners to be appointed under it will have the expending of some five million dollars, and also the apportionment of the expense among the cities and towns to be benefited. The commissioners will be paid $3,000 a year each and the act also provides for a twenty-year 3 per cent loan. There are to be two systems, one embracing Newton, Brighton, Brookline, Waltham and Watertown, empty into the Boston system, and the other draining Cambridge, Charlestown, Chelsea, Winchester, Woburn, Melrose, Medford, Belmont, Arlington, Stoneham, Malden, Everett, Somerville, East Boston and Winthrop, by means of an intercepting sewer, emptying off Deer Island. The region affected by the bill embraces one-sixth of the population of the state, and the question has been discussed for many years. It will prove of immense benefit to Newton, where the need of some system of sewerage in the more thickly settled villages has been long confessed. With a good system of sewerage there will be no limit to the growth of the city.

The Boston Record announces that Mr. A. E. Pillsbury wants to be attorney general, and that his friends are going to make a fight for him. There is no evident reason why Mr. Pillsbury should take Attorney General Waterman's place if the latter is willing to accept another term. We do not think that even the Record will claim that Mr. Pillsbury is a more able lawyer, or would give greater strength to the ticket. Mr. Waterman has shown himself to be a safe and conservative official and has made many friends whose votes will be needed this fall. The policy of placing "young men to the front" has not proved a very profitable one for the party, and it would be wiser for such young men as Mr. Pillsbury to restrain their aspirations for office, and allow the real leaders of the party to be placed in command this fall. In an off year, when the result is uncertain, only such men should be nominated as would add to the popularity of the ticket.

The commencement exercises at Lasell take up considerable space in the GRAPHIC this week, and it is only the truth to say that Lasell is growing in reputation and popularity, and is a school in which Newton justly takes a good deal of pride. The Lasell notes which we have published the past year give some idea of the excellent work which the school is doing, and a special feature is made of the practical duties which the young ladies will have to encounter in life, while the more ornamental receive their full share of attention.

The exhibition of the police signal systems at City Hall last Saturday evening was a convincing proof that the Gamewell system can do all that was claimed for it and is the equal, to say the least, of any system. As the Gamewell company is a home affair, Newton people were much interested in the showing, and from the exhibition it was easy to see why the Gamewell system has been adopted by so many large cities. It has all the advantages that are claimed by the other company besides special ones of its own.

Bogus Baking Powder Tests.

Rather ingenious but not less fraudulent are the pretended tests of baking powder being made in many of the kitchens by agents who are trying to further the sale of a Chicago article. These so-called tests consist in mixing separately, with water, a sample of the baking powder found in the house and of that carried by the agent. From that found in the house, if a pure article, the bubbles of gas will rise and burst on top like those on a glass of champagne. The Chicago baking powder which they carry, when mixed with water, will show an extra froth upon the top of the mixture which is claimed as evidence of superiority. On the contrary, however, it is not only the exhibition of a trick, but is absolute proof that the baking powder which so acts is adulterated. The chemists have ascertained that the adulterant used is a chemical added for the express purpose of producing this action and deceiving housekeepers as to the true value of the baking powder. This is not only a dishonest trick, but a dirty one, for the chemical is the product of the filthy refuse of the slaughter house, and if this baking powder is used in the preparation of food passes into the biscuit or cake without change. Of course, any statements made in reference to other baking powders, by parties caught in practising such tricks as these for the purpose of deceiving the public, will be entitled to no credit.

It is probably wisest in the interest of our families, and to prevent our food from being contaminated by tramps of this kind, to turn all persons who wish or attempt to tamper with it unceremoniously from the door, and to use those articles only which experience has proved satisfactory, or the official tests have established as pure and wholesome.

LASSELL'S COMMENCEMENT.

THE GRADUATING EXERCISES, PRIZE DRILL, RECEPTION, ETC.

Commencement week at Lasell has drawn many visitors to Auburndale this week, and the various events have been largely attended. The report of the baccalaureate sermon will be found on the second page and the other events are described below.

COMMENCEMENT EXERCISES.

At the Congregational church, Auburndale, Tuesday morning, the exercises of the graduating class were held. There was a large gathering present, the students and faculty occupying seats in the front of the church. On the pulpit platform a mound of foliage and choice flowers were tastefully arranged, and the class motto was suspended from the arch in the rear of the pulpit. The inscription read: "Add to virtue knowledge." Nearly all the students were dressed in white or soft tints, and the chief ornament consisted of beautiful bouquets worn at the corsage. The exercises opened with instrumental music by the Salem Cantata orchestra, followed by prayer by Rev. Edward Woods of Chelsea.

The commencement address was delivered by Rev. Alexander McKenzie, D. D., of Cambridge. In his opening remarks he said: "I have known Lasell Seminary longer than most men. When I was first acquainted with it, about 12 girls and three teachers formed the complement of the school. The graduating day is to you a memorable event. It is the stepping forward into the world—into the hopes and joys of the future. What is this world into which so much young life is constantly going? Of our own country, seen through our own and the eyes of others, we gather comfortable assurances touching ourselves and the future. Looking about us into the world we see much of hope and encouragement and the student who gazes from the steps of the academy next upon God's handiwork, the beautiful flowers and the growing vines, contemplates a fair picture. They realize that the world, with its hard places, has its beautiful features. There is not a member of the graduating class, however, who would not gladly exchange its position in the class, provided they felt called to the examination, for sake of living over again the joys and friendships of the happy school days." The speaker then announced his theme on the material and ideal forces in this country, pointing out the opportunity for useful and high moral purposes, counselling the members of the graduating class to discharge their duties that the world would be the better through their influence and moral training.

At the conclusion of the address music was rendered by the orchestra, after which the "good-by" for the class was pronounced by Miss Edith Irvine Gale. The diplomas were then presented to the seniors by Prof. Bragdon. Appended is the list of graduates and the subjects of their essays: Frances W. Barbour, Evansville, Ind.; "The Influence of Music upon Character"; Josephine Bogart, Pen Yan, N. Y.; "Sketches of Russian Literature"; Carrie M. Brown, Denver, Col.; "The Poor Indian"; Leah T. —Mr. Henry H. Read was interviewed by a Traveler reporter about building in Newton Centre, with the following result:

"Although no building boom has struck the village, it is still slowly moving, regularly, but this year with a little more push than formerly. There are today probably more houses in process of building than have been in any one time before, some fifteen of the houses being built within seven miles of the depot. Glenwood, a comparatively new section of the village, has lately attracted a great many newcomers, some thirteen houses having been erected the past three years. A few houses in Newton Centre have been built for sale, but the majority have been built by their owners to live in. Recent sales of land range from 30 cents to 15 cents. The situation of Newton Centre should attract many who are in search of suburban property, as it is less crowded than the other villages, and the most elevated of any. Mr. Bray has just started cellars for four new houses, and recent sales of land will probably start half a dozen more early in the fall. Newton Centre also boasts of the most wide-awake improvement association to be found anywhere in that section.

—The sad news comes from New York of the sudden death of Mr. Gardner R. Colby, son of the late Gardner Colby of this city. He was on his way to Monmouth Beach, N. J., and his death occurred at Sandy Hook. Mr. Colby was born in Boston in 1829.

When still quite a young man he became associated with the present firm of Harding, Colby & Co., a commission dry goods house in New York and in Boston, and Mr. Colby has managed the New York house since the death of his father.

Mr. Colby's private fortune runs into the millions. He moved to Orange about 20 years ago, and at once connected himself with the North Orange Baptist church. At the time of his death he was a deacon, president of the board of trustees and superintendent of the mission school in the valley. He was married about 30 years ago, and has had three sons, Gardner, Louis S. Clair and Arthur. The first named was in business with his father. The other two are still in college.

Mr. Colby was a member of the American Board of Home Missions, a director in the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western railroad, a director in the Farmers' Loan & Trust Company, and a managing director of the National Bank. His residence, "Holly Hall," was one of the show places of the Oranges. He was a lover of poetry, and had written verses himself.

—Comrade A. Neilson of Dahlgren Post No. 2, G. A. R. of South Boston, invited Dahlgren Post to spend the afternoon and evening of the 17th with him, and the visiting post invited Charles Ward Post, of Newton, to become their guests. The stormy weather interfered with the program of out-door sports that had been arranged, but Associates Hall was secured and Dahlgren Post, the Alpha Effe and Bangle corps, and seventy members of the local post gathered there and Commander Robert Henderson of Post 2 welcomed the visitors, his speech being received with cheers. Patriotic songs and music followed, and a prize drill between six members of Post 2, which was won by Comrade Broughton, with Chaplain Bradley as second. The two teams were then cleared and the visitors marched to Comrade Neilson's residence on Homer street, where a short stay was made. Returning to the hall, the guests found a substantial supper awaiting them. After supper there were some informal races in the square, among them a bicycle race with four entries, a fat man's race, and a foot race between Rev. J. J. Lewis of Boston and Rev. Pleasant Hunter of Newtonville; Rev. Mr. Holmes was urged to enter but could not be prevailed upon. Rev. Mr. Lewis giving as the reason that Mr. Holmes was in the army and nothing could make the army boys run. Returning to the hall, the assembly was called to order by Mr. Neilson, who introduced Comrade Henderson of Dahlgren Post. Commander Whitney of Charles Ward Post followed, and then brief addresses were made by Alderman Chadwick, Representative Slocum, Rev. Pleasant Hunter, Rev. T. J. Drury, who told of experiences in Early's last battle and Comrade George W. Morse of Newtonville. The assembly was a very enthusiastic one and made the hall ring with applause at the good points of the speakers. Comrade Ryan of Post 62 and Comrade Broughton of Post 2 gave an exhibition drill, the latter winning. Chaplain Bradley gave the bugle calls by request, the cavalry and rearguard, taps, etc., and the Alpha Effe and Bangle Corps gave some inspiring music. The meeting closed about 10 o'clock, and the visitors all concluded that they could not have had a better time had the weather been pleasant, as they thanked Mr. Neilson for his hospitality.

—The proceeds of the entertainment by the Mission Circle, at the Congregational chapel, were $49, which is to be sent in aid of a school in Utah.

—That "sign post," erected by Mr. Williams in front of his store and so soon removed, if it had remained might have been used for a leaning post.

—Letters at Newton Highlands post-office, June 17, 1889: Mrs. Gersindorf, J. S. Keller, Rev. J. L. Packard, Mrs. Susan E. Stowell, Mrs. Caroline White.

—Mr. John W. White of this village attended a prize dance at Newport last week and won an elegant silver medal awarded for best gliding waiter.

—The concreting of the space in front of the store of Messrs. Williams & Brickett, has been completed, much to the satisfaction, and also to that of the public.

—The Monday club did not hold their lawn party at Mrs. C. H. Brown's on the 17th, as the day was stormy. Mrs. Brown has invited the club for the 4th of July.

—The Congregational sewing circle sent a barrel of clothing, etc., valued at $100, to Supt. Broad of Topeka, Kansas, to be distributed among the missionaries in that state.

—Mrs. C. H. Newhall has been in Maine for several weeks, whither she went to attend the funeral of a sister. We are sorry to hear that Mrs. Newhall is not in good health.

—Messrs. E. Fewkes & Son, the florists, are taking down their old greenhouses near their residence on Hyde street, and will have all their houses on the corner of Hyde and Centre streets.

—We notice that the good work of boxing the shade trees set out by the Newton Highlands Improvement association, has been commenced on Floral avenue, in front of the estate of Mrs. Pevear.

—Miss Shevelton of Manchester addressed the Society of Christian Endeavor on Tuesday evening on the work among the colored people in the South, especially at Straight University, New Orleans, where she has been teaching.

—Mr. G. W. Ferren of Winchester street has new potatoes grown in his garden to eat with his 17th of June dinner. Formerly, it was thought the proper thing to have new potatoes on the 4th of July, but Mr. Ferren prefers the previous holiday.

NEWTON UPPER FALLS.

—An account of the drowning accident will be found on another page.

—We understand that Mrs. J. B. Newell is quite sick at her home on Oak street.

—The seventeenth passed very quietly, the bad weather effecting very materially the plans of many who had anticipated an outing on that day.

—The Young People's society have elected the following officers: Herbert Locke, pres.; Edward Cooper, vice-pres.; Mary E. Bird, secretary; Oscar F. Nutt, treas.

—The funeral of Mrs. Wm. E. Clarke occurred on Saturday of last week, at her late residence, Rev. Mr. Abbott of Lake Street officiating. The remains were taken to Newton cemetery for interment.

—The presiding elder of the Boston district, Rev. Geo. S. Chadbourne, D. D., will preach at the Methodist church next Sunday morning at 10:30. He will hold a Love Feat in the vestry at 6:15 o'clock. All are most cordially invited to both services.

—The first in the production of early peas in Newton was undoubtedly the garden of Mrs. Henry Billings of Newton Upper Falls. Nice full pods were picked and on the table the 3rd of June, and the 7th of June six bushels were delivered at Geo. F. Richardson's provision store. On the 10th, eight bushels more were delivered at the same place from these vines.

NEWTON LOWER FALLS.

—The streets have been relieved this week of about an inch of mud and are now in fine condition.

—F. Crehore & Sons and E. E. Moody's dry goods store were the only business places to observe the 17th.

—A great many people visited Riverside from this village the 17th, where the Newton Club gave an enjoyable entertainment.

—A number of Mr. Hale's men are at work on Beacon street and in the vicinity of his residence, plowing and breaking the ground for a new street.

—The bridge is not entirely completed, the work remaining being to set up a safety railing on the west end. The workers are obliged to cross on one sidewalk.

—The loopers who demanded an increase of wages, recently, in the Dudley Hosiery Mills, were discharged, and their places will be filled by new help next week.

—Mr. Hoyt is making some alterations at the post office, which will be a convenience to parties who are without boxes, and add greatly to the general appearance of the store.

—Police officer Varney was assaulted last Sunday evening by one Bigelow of Wellesley. A warrant was issued for the arrest of the offender and was served by Officer Carman.

—A new horse has been added to the fire department service. It is a fine looking animal and will, without doubt, prove satisfactory. The chestnut-colored horse was removed on account of broken wind.

—The remaining gravel on the Washington street hill is being gradually taken away, as gravel is needed to repair the streets. At present its appearance is similar to that of a cart path in a back woods district.

—A successful entertainment was held in Boyden Hall, last Monday evening, by the Methodist Episcopal Society. A lawn party was to have been given, but the inclemency of the weather prevented. The participants had a good time, nevertheless.

—Mr. John Cunningham of Wellesley died last Tuesday after an illness of only ten days. A short time ago he slipped and fell down a steep flight of stairs, but being young, strong and healthy man it was thought he would come through all right.

ALBERT HOWE & CO., Auctioneers, Brighton, Mass.

TO BE SOLD AT AUCTION

THE— Valuable Estate Situated on the corner of Beacon Street and Institution Avenue, NEWTON CENTRE.

SATURDAY, July 6, '89, at 4 P.M.

This property comprises 17,207 square feet of land, more or less, having a frontage of over 350 feet on said streets with a block of two houses thereon. The location is very central and near railroad station, making this a desirable property for improvement by the erection of a business building, or for other purposes.

A large advance in values in this village in the near future, especially in business locations, renders this an exceptional opportunity for a safe and profitable investment. $200 to be paid at time of sale. For particulars apply to

W. A. B. YOUNG & CO., 25 Congress St., Boston

The family, consisting of widow and two children, have the sympathy of the community.

Fourth of July.—What would a Fourth of July be without fireworks? As an inspirer of patriotism in the rising generation, nothing can be more suggestive of the "cock's red glare and bombs bursting in air" as seen by the defenders of our liberties. For many years the firm of Masten & Wells, of Boston, have given special attention to the manufacture of these goods, and they claim that their assortment provided for the present season is "just splendid." Towns and individuals should send for their catalogue, and see the economical manner in which they make up "Collections" and save purchasers express and freight charges. For particulars, see advertisement in another column.

High School Alumni.

The High School Alumni met at the High School building Wednesday evening and adjourned to meet next Wednesday evening at City Hall, at 7:30. All old members of the school are urgently requested to be present.

A CARD.

HEADQUARTERS CHARLES WARD POST 62, G. A. R., NEWTONVILLE, June 20, 1889.

MOVED.—That the thanks of this Post are hereby extended to the Cladins Guards and to the Newton High School Battalion of their services as escort on Memorial Day. Also, to the citizens generally or the bountiful supply of flowers, and for all services rendered, which in any manner contributed to the success of the day. Especially would we remember the compliment paid that Post by the Armed Battalion of the 1st Regiment, and for the badges which they so kindly decorated each comrade, thus reminding us, that the Soldiers of '61 are still remembered, and that the patriotism which existed with the women of '61 to '65 still lives in the hearts of the men of the present day.

Clark, Godman, who has been spending the winter here have gone to the latter's home at Cleveland, O.

—Miss Lilian Hallock, who has been passing several weeks with Mrs. Goodwin on Jefferson street, leaves this week for her home in Waterville, Maine.

—Mr. O. F. Hamlin, baggage master at the depot, and Miss Hattie E. Fish were married Wednesday last and have gone to Washington on a wedding tour.

—U. G. McQueen is making extensive repairs and putting in a new bath room in the R. S. Minot house on Morse street. It will be ready for occupancy July 10th.

—At the last week of the session of the legislature, Governor Ames commissioned Representative Gorham D. Gilman to be a justice of the peace for the commonwealth.

—Richardson street is nearing completion, and it now has a road bed that ought to last a hundred years at least, judging from the amount of stone that has been put upon it.

—Farnham T. Daly, son of James T.
Daly of Maple street, fell and broke his arm on Thursday. Dr. J. F. Frisbie attended him and had him removed to the Newton Cottage Hospital.

—The eloquent Temperance orator, Mr.
Robert Scott of Malden will speak at the Y. M. C. A. open air meeting next Sunday.
These are held on the grounds of Dr.
Hitchcock opposite the Methodist church.

—Messrs. Alston Burr and James Stone of Newton, and Robert Bush of Auburndale were members of this year's graduating class at Harvard. Mr. Burr's school recordable mention in English and Mr. Bush in Chemistry.

—The services in Grace church will not be changed. They begin in the morning on Sundays at 10:45 and in the evening at 7:30. The Holy communion is now celebrated every Sunday. The Sunday school continues in session all summer at 9:30 a.m.

—Misses Annie B. Blackwell of Newton,
Henrietta F. Greenwood of Newtonville,
Marion E. Marsh and Emily F. Wheeler,
West Newton, were members of the graduating class at the Framingham Normal School this week. Miss Blackwell was the valedictorian.

—Nonantum lodge of Brighten is soon to have a new hall in a building which is to be erected by Mr. Samuel Hano. The corner stones were laid Thursday with the usual Odd Fellow ceremonies by Mr. Hano, and a large number of Newton members of the order were present.

—Mrs. W. H. Emery and the Misses Enery arrived home from the West, Saturday evening. They have been absent several weeks during which time they visited the Yellowstone Park, making a tour of the cities of Duluth, St. Paul, Minneapolis and other points of interest.

—The Channing Church Literary class met in the church parlors Tuesday evening.
To discuss a course of study for next year.
There was a large attendance and it was finally voted to take up Tennyson for the first six meetings, and to have a miscellaneous course for the last six meetings.

—The Newton Natural History society will have its next field day at Newport,
R. I., on Monday, July 15th. Particulars of this proposed excursion will be given next week. All those who wish to go on the field day should make early application to Dr. J. F. Frisbie, who will lead the party.

—The bottom of a glass carboy in Dr.
Hudson's cellar, containing about 300 lbs.
of sulphuric acid fell out Saturday afternoon and John Davis, the prescription clerk, and Mr. Hudson's son were quite severely burned by the fluid. Their clothing was entirely destroyed and both received burns about the hands and limbs.

—Miss Bessie Holmes gave a lawn party to the members of the graduating class of the Bigelow school, Thursday afternoon, at her father's residence on Park street. The guests of the school, Rev. Dr. Shinn,
Rev. Mr. Hornbrook and Rev. Mr. Mc-Keown were present. A tent was erected on the lawn, where refreshments were served, and the young people had a very pleasant time.

—Carpenter's Union No. 275 held its regular meeting Wednesday evening. The newly elected officers will take their seats
July 1st: President, Charles Pike; V. P.,
James Randall; R. S., F. W. King; F. S.,
C. Condon; Treas., Joseph Watt; Com.,
Alfred Murray; Warden, H. McKenzie. A subscription for the carpenters on strike at Lowell for nine hours was started and about $50 realized.

—The Newton Street Railway company have staked out the location for their iron poles along the lines of their proposed road, and the poles will be set in a few days.
The rails which were ordered from the Camden Iron company will probably be ready in a few weeks, as the rail works were started up the week after the flood.
The foundry in which the frogs and switches were cast was washed away, and this may cause some delay, unless they can be obtained elsewhere.

—The closing exercises of the Bigelow school were held Thursday morning. After devotional exercises by Rev. Mr. Horn-brook, Longfellow's "Evangeline" was read by Mabel Eddy, Bessie Holmes, Hattie Warren, Grace Stephenson, Belle Bailey, Lizzie Farrell, Lizzie Leahy, Janet Laselle and Julia Meehan. The reading was interspersed with some remarkably fine singing by the school, and a fine piano solo by Bessie Brown. Rev. Dr. Shinn presented the diplomas with a few words of practical advice.

—The exhibition of the sewing of the scholars of the Bigelow school was most creditable, and shows what may be easily done by our pupils in the way of practical work, outside of the regular routine of study. There are many fine specimens of workmanship, both of useful and fancy sewing, many pieces of which would compare favorably with the exhibitions of artists. This work was done by scholars of the 4th, 5th, 6th and 7th grades only. We were glad to note that several boys had taken so much interest and shown such proficiency. The lessons are one hour a week and the work shown was done in the sewing hour at the school.
Miss Grant, the teacher of sewing, shows excellent ability in her teaching.

—The field day to Marblehead Neck was a very enjoyable time, although the party numbered but nineteen. In the morning dark clouds threatened rain and a large number who intended going were deterred through fear of a wetting. The nineteen brave ones who took the risk were well rewarded for the day, for as perfect as day could be for the seaside, and they felt the old adage with the addition, "None but the brave deserve the fair" field day, to be very true. Prof. Barton of the Institute of Technology with a geological class accompanied the society. Several hours were spent on the Neck and then the party crossed by ferry to Marblehead and there wandered around through that historic town, visiting St. Michael's church, Abbott Town hall and library and other places.

—The Middlesex Club's dinner at Nantasket on Saturday was a sort of Brackett day, and the boom for him was started by the defeat of Governor Ames. In his preliminary remarks he amused his auditors with a joke about a judge and his friend who had been out late at night, the friend receiving sentence in the morning from the judge with whom he had been merry the night before. Then the judge asked his friend, Gov. Brackett, to help him out. Judge Kennedy, said the defeated Governor, didn't need any helping out. He needed it a few weeks ago, before he reached his present office, "and I helped him out then," said Mr. Brackett,
"so far as I could." I believe in politicians.
I believe in appointing a politician, and Judge Kennedy was supported by me, because, for one reason, he was my friend.
Other things being equal, the man who performs political service for his party should get the appointment. When I speak of politicians, I am not using it as certain high-toned newspapers employ the term, in an inviolable sense; I use the term as denoting a man who occupies and performs properly the duties of public office. Some people think that when appointments to public office are made, somebody who is far from the public walk of life should be chosen, but I believe in recognizing men of the people, who represent the people's hopes, and aspirations, and needs.

—Mr. Stephen Winter Dana Jackson died Saturday morning after a brief illness. The deceased was born at the Jackson homestead April 7, 1834. His father, Hon.
William Jackson, was well known throughout the state as an enterprising and public spirited citizen who was active in promoting the welfare of Newton as a town. His son, the subject of this notice, early displayed great energy and business tact, and when a young man succeeding in winning a high position in business circles in Chicago and St. Louis. He returned to the East during the administration of President Lincoln, when he served for some time in the department of the treasury at Washington. In 1861 he went to the isthmus of Panama as manager of the Boston Ice company, with which enterprise he was connected until 1883. During a considerable portion of that time he was also agent of the Atlas company line of steamships. He then returned to Boston, and until his death was treasurer and general manager of the Meisterschaft Publishing company.
He took a deep interest, and was liberal in contribution and earnest effort. Personally, he was a man of great hospitality and kindness of character. He leaves many friends who will sincerely mourn his loss.
The funeral services were largely attended on Monday, Rev. Dr. Calkins officiating.
The burial was at the Jackson lot in the Centre street cemetery.

Y. M. C. A.

The first open air meeting was held upon Dr. Hitchcock's grounds opposite the Methodist Church. Easy sitting was provided for the audience under the shade trees. A platform has been made for the accommodation of the speaker, band of music and organ. S. M.
Saxford, Esq., preached a clear gospel sermon and close attention was given throughout. Mr. Hugh Campbell conducted the Praise Services. Preaching next Sunday, if pleasant, upon the same grounds.

Miss Spear's School.

The closing exercises on Friday last fully sustained the reputation of this school, which has really reached its quarter-century, though the next year was fixed upon for the reunion of some six hundred past pupils.

The school began in a most unpretending way, in the dining-room of the principal's home with six or eight pupils;
removing the next year to the ante-room of Middlesex Hall and having made three other removals. For the past fifteen years Miss Bamford has been associated with Miss Spear and these two accomplished women supplement each other in the most complete manner. Their work has been on the lines of the public schools, and often they have helped young people to make up lost time or to gain time by doing extra work.

Many of their former pupils are now a great credit to them, and those pupils without exception, we believe, are proud to acknowledge their indebtedness to the thorough and conscientious training of Miss Spear's school.

A Good Work Going On.

The work of the Food Commissions of the different states promises to result in much good. These "investigating committees," as they might properly be called, being a part of the State machinery, are no favor, and in consequence the public are likely to get bottom facts.

The presence of excessive adulteration in spices, cream of tartar, cheese, milk, and etc., has long been suspected, and the recently issued report of the New Jersey State Commission to the legislature of that state shows that the public fears in regard thereto were not groundless; but the information that a much advertised baking powder was found to contain ammonia will be a surprise to consumers in different parts of the country who have relied so implicitly on it as an absolutely pure article.

However let the good work go on, no matter how hard the blow may fall or where it may strike. Consumers cannot know too much concerning articles that enter so largely into our daily diet.

GOOD BYE TO BOOKS.

GRADUATING EXERCISES OF THE CLASS
OF '89, NEWTON HIGH SCHOOL.

The graduating exercises of the class of '89, Newton High School, were held in the high school building, Tuesday morning. There was a large gathering present from various parts of the city. The hall was tastefully decorated and the occasion will be long pleasantly remembered by those, especially, who had completed the course of study. In after life, these early days of education are recalled and the graduating day is ever associated with the pleasantest memories and the brightest anticipations of youth.

The exercises opened with prayer by Rev. Mr. Hornbrook, after which the "Salvete" of the class was pronounced by Harold Hutchinson. A piano solo was then rendered by Miss Mamie P. Solis who rendered the movements from Polonaise No. 7, (Chopin) in a most creditable manner, the execution being particularly brilliant. Maj. F. H. Moore-house of the high school battalion, one of the most popular members of the class of '89, gave Pope's translation of the "Parting of Hector and Andromache." The declamation was marked by evident conception of the scene and the characters represented. It was a very creditable piece of work. A song by Carlton
W. Judkins, "The River of Years," was well rendered and preceded one of the prettiest features of the occasion, the "Selections from the Poets" by sixteen young ladies dressed in pretty costumes and looking very sweet and attractive.
Surely no poet could object to listen to his lines read from fair young women's lips, especially when the thoughts were so well interpreted and the words so definitely spoken. The following young ladies participated in this feature of the program: Gertrude A. Blaisdell, Alice G. Colburn, Isabel N. Cole, Helen G. Eager, Nellie M. Flint, Mary B. Forbes, Harriet H. Henry, Florence L. Johnson, E. Mabel Langford, Flora H. Luther, Stella L.
Miller, Minnie A. Nichols, Constantia W.
Smith, Myra J. Stone, Margaret S. Wallace, Alice A. Warren.

The song, "May Blossoms," was rendered by Miss Edith C. Newell, followed by a declamation, "The Defense of Parnell," by Eugene H. Mather, initiating the presentation of the comedy from the French, "La Poudre aux Yeux," with the following cast of characters:

Dr. Malingre.....William F. Warner
Mons. Ratinio.....Arthur E. Fowle
Frederic Ratinio, fils de M. Ratinio.....
Clarence H. Holmes
Un Tapisser.....Albert W. Little
Mme. Malingre.....Mary C. Cutter
Mme. Ratinio.....Elizabeth B. Spaulding
Emma, femme de Dr. Malingre.....
Edith Kimball
Alexandrine, femme de chambre de Mme.
Malingre.....Mary W. Cook
Soubre, cuisiniere de Mme. Malingre.....
Helen Philbrick

The parts were well taken, generally considered, and the principal characters were especially worthy of commendation.

At the conclusion of the play, a selection for violin and piano was given by Miss Mamie P. Solis and Sidney S. Emery, and the class history, an unusually bright and witty paper, was read by Miss Clara E. Sheppard. A rendition by a double quartet, finely given, preceded the presentation of diplomas by Mr. C. C.
Barton, chairman of the school board.

CITY GOVERNMENT.

West Newton Solid Against the Almshouse Location.

AN EXCITING DEBATE OVER THE POLICE SIGNAL SYSTEM.

A Session Lasting Until long after Midnight.

Monday evening's session of the city government was the most exciting meeting held for a long time. The public hearing over the Almshouse location was crowded with West Newton citizens, and an exciting debate upon the Police Signal System continued the meeting of the aldermen until after one o'clock.

THE REGULAR BUSINESS.

The board of aldermen was twenty minutes late in beginning, but all the members were present and Mayor Burr presided. The first business was a hearing to R. J. McAdoo on his petition for license to build a stable on Otis street, near Otis Place. Mr. McAdoo explained the location and said the stable was to be used for his express teams, and that five horses would be kept there.

Mr. Geo. L. Keyes said that he had signed the remonstrance, as so many horses would be a nuisance there and the stable would depreciate the value of property. He was building a double house there, and it would interfere with renting the house.

Mr. Geo. R. Pulsifer also appeared in remonstrance, as the stable would injure two houses there in which he was interested. However carefully such a stable was kept it would be more or less damage to the surrounding property.

Judge Slocum appeared for Mr. McAdoo and said his lot was 90 by 150 feet, and that to carry on his business it was necessary to keep teams. He now hired a stable but his lease was nearly out, and there would be no great risk from fire as the underwriters had assured him they would not increase the risk on the surrounding property. It was near the corner of Murray street, and this was a good way out of the village. He noticed Mr. Kingsbury was one of the remonstrants but he had just built a stable on his lot.

Mr. Keyes said that if Mr. McAdoo was to build a private stable, like Mr. Kingsbury's, no one would think of objecting. The hearing was then closed.

ANOTHER STABLE.

Mr. J. F. Makee appeared in behalf of his petition to build a carriage shed on the Robinson place, Pelham street, Newton Centre. He had a stable on the street for eleven years, and wished to move it to the next lot.

Alderman Harbach stated that Miss White objected, as her house was within ten feet of the proposed stable.

Mr. Makee said the present stable was within two feet of Miss White's house, and she would be better off if it was moved.

Alderman Harbach said that Miss White had two houses there, and the one she rented would be damaged by the proposed stables, she thought. No one else appeared and the hearing was closed.

Charles W. Florence and Rufus Kendall was appointed special policeman without pay at the Second Congregational Church. George F. Sanders was appointed horseman of No. 2 horse, to fill vacancy.

THE WEST NEWTON ALMSHOUSE HEARING.

A joint convention was then held to hear the remonstrants against locating the almshouse on the Kelly land, Cherry street, Hon. Charles Robinson appearing for the remonstrants. The hearing lasted about two hours and the Council Chambers were crowded, several ladies being among the spectators.

Alderman Tolman presented a second remonstrance, signed by E. M. Hall, Samuel Barnard and some forty others.

Mr. Robinson said that the proposed location was in close proximity to valuable estates and in full sight of the surrounding country. It would be detrimental to all of West Newton, and too near the City Hall, and a thickly settled neighborhood. The lot was too small for an almshouse, and he was surprised that such a location should be proposed.

Mr. C. F. Eddy said the proposed lot was too small, the number of inmates may double, and then more land would be needed.

Mr. Robinson said that Edward Fleming thought it would damage his property 25 per cent. Mr. Geo. Cook and others thought the same.

Mr. Harry Mason appeared for Waban, and said they did not wish to force the almshouse on any one, but it was a question of dollars and cents, and whether the almshouse was of more injury where it was or in the location selected. Land in Waban was selling at 10 cents a foot. In Cherry street the character was fixed and the presence of the almshouse would not change it. Waban people were convinced that the almshouse should not remain there, and its presence would do more damage than on Cherry street.

Mr. Robinson and Mr. Samuel Hano then had a discussion about the price Mr. Hano paid for the 120 acres he bought last year in Waban. He said he expected to lay out $100,000 there.

Mr. W. C. Strong said he had lived by the almshouse for 14 years and he had not found it a nuisance, and he wished to disabuse the people of the idea that it was disagreeable. He had lived two miles from the abattoir in Brighton, before moving to Waban, instead of by the side of it. The almshouse occupied valuable land, which was now unsaleable, and he thought it ought to be removed.

Mr. Robinson closed for the remonstrants and advocated selling a part of the farm and keeping the rest, which would be a great saving, as the present buildings could be used. New buildings would bring the cost up to $30,000, and the almshouse would do ten times the damage on Cherry street that it would in Waban. The agitation for removal was in the interest of the speculators who had bought land cheap in Waban and hoped to make money.

After a hearing of over two hours, the convention was dissolved, and an order to rescind the one for the purchase of the Cherry street land was presented and tabled.

MINOR MATTERS.

Petitions were received for the laying out of Glenwood avenue, Newton Centre; for a cross-walk, Walnut street, from north side of Lake avenue; for three street lamps, Lake avenue, and re-location of those on the street; for private stable on Clark street, ward 5, by Chas. Bishop, granted; for stable on Park street, ward 6, by C. E. Rand; for stable on Centre street, ward 6, Geo. A. Pierce; for stable on Elmwood street, corner Gibbs, L. L. Brooks; for grading sidewalk, Walnut street, ward 5, Otis E. Rowe; for street lamp, Chestnut street, near Prince, Fred R. Cutter; for laying out of Chester street.

Orders were passed allowing parties to use fire on their own premises, July 1, and authorizing the city clerk to issue licenses for sale of fireworks; authorizing the committee on fuel to advertise for proposals for 2000 tons of coal, and make a contract for same; appointing Theodore W. Trowbridge auctioneer; granting the City Hall to St. Bernard's church; appropriating $4,000 to be charged to 1889 assessment, for ventilating Davis, Franklin, Hamilton, Mason, and new old High school buildings, as ordered by state inspector; granting the location to New England Telephone and Telegraph company, once to suburban company; granting a number of petitions for street lights and for sidewalks.

Notice was given that Messrs. Sully & Ryan were building on Auburndale avenue a house that encroached on street and the case was referred to City Solicitor.

SEWERAGE.

Alderman Chadwick reported on that part of the Mayor's message relating to sewerage, that the passage of the Metropolitan sewerage bill had settled the question of sewerage disposal, and that it was necessary to have plans carefully made for a sewerage system, for both house and surface drainage, and an order was passed authorizing the committee to expend $3,000 for additional surveys, plans and designs, the plans to be submitted as soon as possible.

Orders were passed appropriating $1500 for draining Waverly avenue, corner of Sargent street, and $4000 for widening, deepening and covering Hyde or Lemon brook.

NO VACATION SCHOOL.

The order appropriating $1500 for vacation school at Auburndale was voted down, Alderman Pettie thinking it unjust for the rest of the city to establish a school in one section and not in all, and saying that he was afraid such a school would interfere with the business of the mountains and sea shore, and with their ball games on the extensive grounds the city was to provide. Messrs. Pettie, Harbach, Childs and Johnson voted no.

Orders were passed appropriating $1500, for cellars and foundation for removal of the Cladin school building, for the Mayor to display the national colors, and have the bells rung on the 4th; appropriating $500 for trimming shade trees about the city; granting use of City Hall to High school alumni, June 26th, and to school committee, June 29th; appropriating $1000 for the purchase of office of City Treasurer; $3,370 for laying water mains; $500 for horse, wagon and harness for the water department.

A communication from the Board of Health recommended needed sanitary improvements in engine house 2; referred to Public Property committee.

THE POLICE SIGNAL SYSTEM.

About midnight the police signal system was reached, and considerable interest was felt, as the committee had been careful not to divulge the nature of their report.

Alderman Johnson said the police committee had received three bids, $1700 for the Davis system, $4800 for the Gamewell system, and $5,886.50 for the Wilson Municipal system. They had taken much time to look through the matter thoroughly and impartially, and they recommended the adoption of the Municipal system, which they felt would be best for the city and they presented an order to that effect.

Alderman Childs called for the reading of the bids of the two companies, and they were read.

Alderman Chadwick presented a communication from citizens and tax-payers protesting against the Gamewell company. Messrs. Rand, Otis E. Rowe, and others, and asking to be heard by the Council, as the committee had failed to give them an opportunity to place facts and figures before them, and they believed that the company had been misrepresented.

Alderman Chadwick said he had attended the exhibition given by the Gamewell company, and he had looked over the two systems carefully and thoroughly as he knew how, and he failed to see why the Gamewell system was not equal to any other. He thought a hearing would enable the council to vote intelligently, as now they were in the dark in all the things being equal, he thought the contract should be given to the Newton company.

Alderman Johnson said he took exception to the statement made in the communication. The Gamewell company had every opportunity given them. Alderman Childs said he did not hesitate to vote to give the contract to a company which had been only two years in existence against a corporation that had been twenty-five years, and whose pay roll in Newton last year was $85,000. He wanted to come to the exhibition but he was informed that it was only for the police committee. He thought the council should go slowly till they could investigate. He had examined both systems at his own expense, but the lower branch had no member on the committee, and they should know something about it before voting. One system was used in only 2 cities, the other in 35 cities and towns, the work of one had never been excelled, but a tremendous effort had been made to undermine them, and misrepresentation had been resorted to. He thought the committee was honest in their recommendation, but he thought the other 19 members of the council should have been invited to the exhibition. He favored fair play and an intelligent vote, and the members should have a chance to find out what system was the best before voting.

Alderman Kennedy said he was not surprised at the opposition, but he was surprised that the Gamewell company should send in such a communication. As long ago as last fall, the city government had begun to consider the matter. The committee had been invited to examine the Gamewell system and had found it perfectly satisfactory. The system in Somerville gave entire satisfaction. All the policemen testified to this and Boston was adding new boxes every day. The committee had gone to Brookline and Lynn, and had examined the Gamewell system there. The one they were notified the 24th of May of the hearing, and not a week and hardly a day had passed that some member of the company has not been to see the committee. I never stated to the ward one alderman that the hearing was only for the committee. The New York system is not the one the company showed here. For the past three months we have given the major portion of our time to the Gamewell system. A public hearing would understand it, where the system is working within reach of us. I suppose we will be criticised and told there is something wrong, but we have been working for the best interests of the city.

Alderman Childs referred to the last speaker as a second Daniel cometh to judge—ment. He knew something of the inside history of the matter. Last October, when he was a member of the finance committee, a recommendation came from the police committee for the appropriation of money for the Wilson system before the matter was investigated. As such an order could not pass the finance committee, it was changed, and a police signal system was recommended. This committee have been at work six months. They visited Boston and saw the Gamewell system in working satisfactorily in Brookline and Lynn. I have the report of the Brookline chief of police of 1888, strongly endorsing the Gamewell system, and I have a letter from the chief, with a stronger endorsement still. There is no haste, we have waited six months, and can wait a week or two longer. I did not think that the committee received a quid pro quo, as I know they are not purchasable men. The City Marshall has always been enthusiastic for the Wilson system, and he probably argues that he has looked into this and knows about it, and so he recommends it. I would have what I understand. It is said that all the policemen favor it; they are in sympathy with the chief and ought to be discharged if they are not. When the proper time comes I will tell what I know of the way the system was put through in Boston. I can tell where the company was, which they want to foist on Newton, because they can't sell it to any one else. The police commissioners of Boston for some reason feel compelled to bolster up this corporation.

Alderman Kennedy said that the committee did not misrepresent the Gamewell company; if the Ward One alderman has got all this information, what does he want further light for. Somerville, a city like Newton, is satisfied with the system.

Alderman Childs replied that the Ward Seven alderman talked like a lawyer anxious to win his case, and not like a representative of the city.

Alderman Kennedy said the police committee had not informed any one to vote for their recommendations. The City Marshall and committee want the best system.

Alderman Chadwick said it was getting to be to-morrow, and the police committee should not take offense if their recommendations were not adopted. Other committees had suffered the same thing and had lived through it, even after their views had been set aside. He moved to lay the matter on the table.

Alderman Kennedy charged that there was another motive that lay behind the motion for delay.

Alderman Chadwick said there was no other motive but a desire to get the best.

Alderman Pettie said the hour was late and I am far from home, (I a. m.) as the order involves the board of aldermen, and I have not studied the matter carefully I should not know how to vote.

Alderman Childs moved that a hearing be granted to both companies next Monday evening, and that they be requested to exhibit the workings of their system.

The aldermen from Ward 7 showed that he was ready to consider the motives of others, his motives had not been questioned. He did not believe in railroadng the matter through, the whole thing would be lost if we take time to consider.

Alderman Kennedy said that he was not trying to railroad through, and if anyone wanted delay for looking into the matter he would not oppose it, if that was the reason and they were honest in doing it.

Alderman Childs said he did not believe in making charges of misrepresentation against gentlemen who were bound by the rules of the board to act quietly and hear it. It was an outrage on decency to attack the character or integrity of one of the most honest and upright citizens of Newton, and charge him with misrepresentation.

Alderman Johnson said he stood by the statement, and Mayor Burr said the same.

Alderman Childs spoke of the financial standing of the two companies.

Alderman Pettie asked how much more the Wilson Company gave for the extra thousand dollars.

Alderman Kennedy said he could not tell exactly but the bid would show.

Alderman Childs motion was then passed, for a hearing next Monday evening at 7.15, and the board adjourned.

THE WOLF AND THE LAMB.

VI.

A Wolf saw a Lamb taking his morning draught and had a mind to devour him. Aware that Jupiter was watching he began to make excuse.

Wolf. You have muddied the waters of this INFANT stream.

Lamb. I am lower than you and surely cannot muddy your water.

Wolf. What business have you so far from HOME?

Lamb. Jupiter means me to get the best water I can find, whether it be near home or abroad.

Wolf. How dare you give the farmer your wool for nothing, you Pauper Laborer?

Lamb. The farmer cares for me, and I pay him for that.

Wolf. Do not argue any more; I am hungry.

In a twinkling the wolf had made a meal of the Lamb and Jupiter had made an entry in his memorandum book:

1789—Infant Industries.
1828—Home Labor.
1888—Pauper Labor.
1892—?

Among Ourselves.

"The Tariff is a humbug."
—John Candler?

One Hundred and Fifteen Tariff Reformers on the list to-day.

"England is one of the most heavily protected countries in the world."
—James T. Allen.

Senator Hoar thinks that art works should be free from customs. A step in the right direction, Senator!

The merchants of the Northwest want Free Trade with Canada; and Senator Hoar makes no protest.

How much higher is the price of sugar going? Wages in the sugar refineries have gone up also (we suppose) but the managers modestly decline to publish the fact!

By their fruit ye shall know them. Here are some of the fruits of protection:

(1) American copper is sold cheaper in London than New York. (2) Salt from Onondaga County, New York, was for years sold to the people of Canada at much lower rates than to the people of the State that produced it. (3) Hair-cloth manufactured in New England has been bought cheaper in Montreal than it could be in Boston. (4) Fruits grown in America and canned in Baltimore can be obtained for less money in Europe than here. (5) Canadian farmers have bought American mowers and reapers cheaper than American farmers could buy them.

Tariffs, Taxes, Trusts trammel trade. Treat these terrible things truly, turn them to terrestrial tinder. Tut! Touch them tenderly.

Tinned Plates.

I.

WHAT THEY ARE.

"We all know what wool is and what wools are; Mr. Windom has instructed us in the matter of worsteds; and steel rails, silk goods, and even raw silk, most of us can tell at sight; but what are tinned plates?"

Thus the Tariff Reformer's wife, and in reply the Tariff Reformer as follows:

Tinned plates are thin sheets of steel covered or plated with tin. Tinned plate is produced almost exclusively in Wales. The sheets are cut to standard sizes, packed in oak boxes, and shipped to all parts of the world, about three-fourths of it coming to the United States. From tinned plate are made milk-pails and pans, dinner-pails, bread pans, cake pans, pie pans, wash basins, tin cups, colanders, strainers, skimmers, graters, tea-pots, coffee pots, foot tubs, cans for vegetables, fruits, fish and meat, oil cans, and many other articles of common use.

In the manufacture of tinware in this country 26,000 hands are employed and $12,000,000 invested. The salmon works of Oregon, the fruit-preservers of California, Delaware, Michigan, and Illinois, the vegetable canning works all over the country, the oyster canning works of Baltimore, the lobster packers of Maine, and the canneries of dairy products of New York, represent a capital of $50,000,000 and a wage list of 40,000 hands. Last year we imported 655,000 pounds of tinned plate worth $19,000,000 and paid the United States government $6,500,000 duty.

Protection for Colleges.

Kansas cast 80,000 more Republican votes in November than Democratic ones and Kansas has a State university. Professor Canfield has been teaching Political Economy in this institution but the Kansas legislators don't want Political Economy taught; they want something taught that "agrees with the 80,000 majority." So Prof. Canfield is gone and Prof. Blackmar is come. The Kansas youth will now learn how short crops produce wealth, and how foreigners pay our taxes and how State Tariffs would be a good thing if we could have them and how the Chinese Wall makes everybody wealthy, healthy and wise.

Michigan has a Republican majority also, and a State University, and a Professor who teaches Political Economy. But there are not so many fools in the State Legislature as in Kansas, and Professor Adams is still "poisoning" the minds of the boys, though more than twenty leading members of the Legislature think something ought to be done. One voice sounds out true; the voice of the Speaker of the House of Representatives—Mr. Dicketa.—

"I do not believe it a good principle for majorities to dictate how teachers, a very small minority, should instruct their pupils. The whole history of the world shows that insignificant minorities, poor and persecuted for the most part, have been the advance guard of thought. They have formulated theories afterward adopted by the people and indorsed by actual experience. I believe Prof. Adams should be at liberty to teach what he thinks best. I do not mean to say he is right. I believe he is wrong. I am a thorough Protectionist. From Speaker Dicketa's name we imagine there is good Scandinavian blood in his veins. At all events there is good Scandinavian courage in his heart and good Scandinavian sense in his brain. The men who founded Russia, conquered Italy, built up Norway, made England and got to America 500 years before Columbus, can't be made petty even by becoming Protectionists. Dicketa's right speaking has given us more respect for the whole party. But what shall we say of these asses who would make the filing of Professors' Chairs dependent upon the majority at the most recent election! The colleges will well say, "Protect us from our friends."

FIRE AT WEST NEWTON.

ST. BERNARD'S CATHOLIC CHURCH ALMOST TOTALLY DESTROYED.

St. Bernard's Catholic church of which Rev. Lawrence J. O'Toole is the pastor, situated on the corner of Washington and Prospect streets, West Newton, was almost totally destroyed by fire Sunday evening, little being left of the building above the basement but the brick walls which alone remained standing. The fire was first seen at about 6.35 o'clock and the fire apparatus at West Newton at once responded to a still alarm, the chemical engine and hose 2 soon arriving at the scene of the conflagration. Two alarms were immediately rung in from box 35, a first alarm followed by a general alarm, summoning the entire fire department of the city.

When the fire was first discovered the flames were raging fiercely, and were rapidly consuming the building. It started, it is supposed, in the boys' sanctuary on the north side of the church, and went up through the partitions to the roof, spreading through the rafters and woodwork to the steeple, which was in flames soon after the arrival of the chemical engine and hose 2. Streams were thrown on the burning building from the hydrants until the arrival of the steamers, a vast quantity of water being poured into the interior and upon the roof and steeple. The lines from the steamers continued this work, the hydrant streams being then utilized in pouring water upon the exterior, the pressure not being sufficient to force the streams above the roof when the steamers were in operation. The fire had gained so much headway, however, that little could be done except to keep it above the basement. The chemical engine was chiefly utilized in protecting surrounding property, the sparks from the burning timbers having set fire to the roofs of the houses occupied by D. J. Gosline and Andrew Peters.

The cause of the fire is not definitely known, but it is supposed that a spark from the charcoal used to heat the censer set fire to the robes in the boys' sanctuary and then communicated with the woodwork. Vesper services had been held in the church during the afternoon, lasting about an hour, and the building had been closed by the janitor about 4.30 o'clock. There had been no fire in the church, and the candles on the altar and the charcoal fire in the censer had been extinguished at the conclusion of the services. There are those who believe that the fire was of incendiary origin, but there seems to be nothing to support this theory.

The little of value was taken from the building although the janitor, Joseph Commons, succeeded in getting out the altar service and vestments, which were in the pastor's sanctuary. The organ was valued at $1500. It was placed in position in 1876, and was built by G. W. Ryder of Boston. Among the losses occasioned by the fire was the Sunday school library, containing about 250 volumes, a portion of the books, however, having been loaned to borrowers, and a number of valuable pieces of statuary. The building and the organ were insured. The insurance on the building was placed by Mr. Bennett with the National Fire Insurance Company, Hartford, $7000; Sun, London, $6500; Queen, Liverpool, $6500—total insurance on building, $20,000. The organ was insured for $500.

John Horrigan, a member of the company, was struck by the head by a falling timber. His injuries were not of a serious character. The news of the fire spread quickly and in an incredibly short space of time the streets and yards in the vicinity outside of the line roped off by the police were packed with people, while every sort of a vehicle with its load of curious passengers got as near to the burning building as possible. It required the utmost efforts of the City Marshal and 10 officers to keep the crowd from surging into the open space. Occasionally, one in the vast number, plucking up courage, would make an attempt to dive under the ropes only to be promptly ejected through the vigilance of the police.

The scenes at the conflagration were not without their form of beauty, and the vast volume of flame which poured from the roof of the building, which could be likened only to a great brick furnace, and the fire which licked the steeple, ascending to the vane, presenting a picture magnificent in effect, but appalling in its destructive significance. It was a time, too, for criticism and the firemen who undoubtedly worked hard came in for a share of public censure. The chief of the department was criticized for not ordering out the reserve steamer, located in the West Newton fire station, it being the generally expressed opinion that the chemical engine in such a blaze was a useless piece of apparatus. While it is not reasonable to hold the idea that the chemical engine should be depended upon in such a fire, the real facts of the case would lead one to take exceptions to the criticism alluded to. Its value in protecting the surrounding property was clearly demonstrated. As the reserve engine, the great stickler in the minds of the complainants, it is only fair to state that its service would not have made the slightest difference in the result. The fire, unfortunately, had progressed too far before it was discovered or the alarm sounded, and the hydrant pressure proved sufficient to throw the water upon the steeple and into the building, accomplishing all that the steamer could have done, even had it been put in service. It was quite generally stated that the streams from the hydrants could not be thrown upon the steeple and above the roof of the church, but a careful investigation of the matter proves the incorrectness of the statement. It was only when the engines had been put in operation that the pressure was decreased so that the hydrant streams could not be forced up to the altitude named. The streams from the engines, however, did the work which had been accomplished previous to their arrival by the hydrant pressure.

A GRAPHIC reporter saw Mr. James B. Healey, who was the first sexton of the church and who afterwards held the position for 16 years and from him learned the facts in connection with the organization and history of the parish.

St. Bernard's parish was organized about 20 years ago, through the efforts of Rev. Father Flood, the first pastor of St. Bernard's church. The Catholics at West Newton had been in the habit of attending church in Waltham and it was deemed advisable with growing numbers to make an effort to build a church at home. Mass was celebrated for the first time in West Newton in a large tent and at the conclusion of the services a subscription was taken toward the erection of a church building, $1500 being secured for that purpose. The society after this meeting attended services in the town hall, where mass was celebrated each Sunday until the basement of the new church edifice had been completed. By this time an additional sum had been raised and the church, a handsome brick structure in the gothic style of architecture, was completed in 1871. It cost $45,000 and was free from debt a few years after the building had been completed. The dimensions of the edifice were 100x30, and the steeple was 170 feet high. Mr. Murphy of Providence was the architect. The first pastor was Fr. Flood, who built the church. Fr. McMannus and Fr. McGrath were the next pastors, and the present pastor is Rev. Fr. O'Toole. The congregation which numbered about 700 when the church was first built now numbers 1500.

THE POLICE SIGNAL SYSTEM.

The debate over the adoption of a police signal system, Monday evening, was one of the liveliest affairs we have had in the City Hall, this year, and the recommendation of the committee that the Wilson Municipal system be adopted has evidently stirred up a good deal of feeling. The action of the committee created some surprise, as it was generally supposed that they would favor the Gamewell system, and they gave no hint of the nature of their action until their report was introduced.

We are sorry to see that one member of the committee has so much personal feeling over the matter, and was ready to impute bad motives to all who opposed the immediate adoption of the order. This is bad policy always, and it is better to assume, at least, that opponents are just as honest and disinterested as we are. This looks more dignified, and then, too, we can claim a right to the same charity that we extend to others.

This prejudiced the listeners against the order, and another mistake made by the committee was, that in their report they gave no reason for their belief that the Municipal was the better system, and when Judge Kennedy was asked by Alderman Pettet what the city was to get for the extra thousand that the Municipal system costs, he was unable to state, or at least he failed to do so.

This is a mistake often made by committees of our city council; they consider a subject, reach their conclusions and then report what action they recommend without giving any of the reasons which led them to such conclusions. The council may have all possible confidence in a committee, but the other members, also, claim to have intelligence, and like to be able to vote intelligently; for this reason many committees have come to grief, although as Alderman Chadwick said, the members have lived through it. The Common Council has no representative on the police committee, and were not invited to the hearing. Naturally they do not wish to be completely ignored on such an important matter, which ought to have been considered by a joint special committee, so that the Common Council could have had some voice in the matter.

The effort to pass the order through both branches the same night was a grave error. It is the theory on which our city council is made up that one branch shall be a check on the other. They meet on alternate weeks, so that time may intervene, and hasty action be prevented. It is contrary to the two-board theory that any order shall pass both branches on the same evening, except in case of a great emergency, and it can hardly be claimed that there is any emergency in this case. The committee have been considering the matter for six months and they should have been willing to allow the other members at least six days to think over it, especially as they gave no facts to guide the other members to some intelligent conclusion as to the right way to vote.

It is a matter for regret that so much personal feeling was shown but this was probably due to the great interest the committee had in getting the best thing for Newton, and not to their personal relations to the Gamewell company. A committee that has spent a great deal of time on a matter, and has conscientiously made up their minds, naturally want to see their advice followed, and in the heat of debate things are said which are hardly judicial and in cooler moments would be regretted.

We want the best possible police signal system in Newton. If the Gamewell company can give it to us they should be favored, as their price is lower and they are a Newton company. If the Municipal system is the best and is worth the extra cost, let us have that. It makes no difference what systems they have in other places, it is the system that is to be put in here that is to be considered.

The council are to look into the question for themselves next Monday evening and this will be fair for both companies, and they will probably be glad of the extra advertising each will receive from it. The right to a hearing is always granted to citizens, and even the members of the police committee are probably now glad that they were overruled by the majority. It relieves them of all charge of unfairness or of any star-chamber proceedings.

THE ALMSHOUSE LOCATION.

The hearing upon the plan of locating the almshouse on Cherry street, West Newton, brought out the major portion of the voters of that ward, Monday evening, and they are unanimous against the plan. They are perfectly willing that there are "thousands of acres" in Newton less objectionable than the particular location recommended. If the remonstrants had had the experience of the committee, they would perhaps have modified their statements, as the committee could find no location to which the neighbors did not object quite as strenuously as do the West Newton people. Even the most remote sections of the city make the same plea that the almshouse would reduce the value of their property, and the sections midway between the villages all hope some day to be built up. The finest estates in Newton are getting to be those midway between the villages, where it is possible to secure extensive grounds at a moderate price. The selection of any one of these locations, which it is claimed, prevent all growth in this direction.

It is only fair to the committee to say that they were not influenced by any disregard for the people who live in the vicinity of Cherry street. This section is already being built up with houses of a very moderate cost, and is being subdivided into very small lots, and is being sold at a very low figure. They reasoned that the presence of the almshouse would not reduce the value of land from its present rate, and that the people who are building up that section would not be driven away by the presence of the almshouse. The location is also convenient to City Hall, is healthy and contains about as much land as can be profitably used for almshouse purposes. The price at which they bonded the land shows that it is not in a high-priced section of the city, and the order made by one of the remonstrants, some months ago, of $4,000 for these six and 3-4 acres, shows that even the neighbors regard land in that section as not very valuable. There are very few sections of the city where prices are lower than the offer quoted.

Of course, if a less objectionable site can be found, it would be much better, and we believe the committee are all of them open to conviction on the subject. If any of the remonstrants or any one else, knows of a tract of land, to which no objections can be made, and where the price is as low as on Cherry street, they should give the committee the immediate benefit of their knowledge. The committee have spent a great deal of time over the matter, have examined a great many locations, and their recommendation is the result. They can hardly be expected to change unless some other more suitable location is suggested.

It has been recommended that Newton follow the example of Cambridge. That city owned a point of land extending into Somerville, and they built their almshouse there in spite of the remonstrances of the Somerville people. This would be one way out of the difficulty, or we might advertise for proposals, and invite the owners of land, remote from the villages, properly secluded from the gaze of neighbors, and to which no objections would be raised by adjacent property-owners, to send in bids. However, as the West Newton people say that the presence of the Almshouse will damage all the property in their ward, it may be that other wards will hold the same view.

The Boston Journal of Thursday had a leading editorial on the governorship question, which attracted unusual attention, both from the position taken in regard to the two leading candidates now before the public, and in regard to the prospects of success, which the Journal regards as so dubious that only the strongest candidate should be nominated. It does not regard Mr. Brackett as this candidate, as it thinks the opposition of the temperance republicans would defeat him, and it does think that Mr. Crapo is the strongest candidate that could be chosen, and that he should be nominated if the republican party desires to follow, rather than to try to lead public opinion, so that its outspoken announcement has created the more surprise.

A rather suggestive sign of the times is a circular sent out by the Tremont Nail Co., of Wareham, Mass., a copy of which fell into our hands. It is sent to all the manufacturers in New England who use iron, and urges them to sign a petition to congress, to put iron ore and coal on the free list. It asserts that the movement is not in any way a political one, but such action is necessary to preserve the iron industries of New England from extermination. Unless some such action is taken, it will be only a few years when the few remaining iron mills are closed. The history of the iron industries of New England has been a very melancholy one of late years, and it is time that our Congressmen were looking out for their home industries, as well as those of Pennsylvania.

Mr. J. R. Leeson has collected the letters he wrote to the GRAPHIC in the late campaign and other articles, and has published them in pamphlet form, at the request of those who wish to have his plain presentation of the arguments for the tariff, in a convenient form. Mr. Leeson has written an introduction to the pamphlet, which is of such an interesting nature that we shall give it next week. Mr. Leeson is so thoroughly posted on matters relating to the tariff, that his contributions are always valuable.

GOVERNOR AMES has appointed the commission to have charge of carrying out the metropolitan sewerage bill. The three men are John Quincy Adams of Quincy, Asa French of Braintree and Hosea King of Bridgewater. They are all from the second congressional district and are all political opponents of Congressman Morse, which some people think is more than a coincidence. They are all able men.

COLONEL CAMPBELL gets a remarkably good position as railroad commissioner, and he is abundantly qualified for the duties. As private secretary of Governor Ames he has gained a large acquaintance with public affairs, and is possessed of excellent tact, ability and judgment. The newspaper men would be glad to see him in even a higher position.

In the list of those present at the Brackett meeting, Thursday, were the following from this city: Representative Slocum and Gilman, C. Bowditch Coffin; Hayden Brown, and J. N. T. Allen of West Newton; Mr. Slocum made an excellent speech, endorsing Mr. Brackett, and his record on the temperance question.

A limited number of copies of the GRAPHIC of June 21st, containing a complete catalogue of the High School, can be obtained at the GRAPHIC office.

Police Signal System.

The city is about to adopt a police signal system and it is important, therefore, that the respective merits of the various systems should be determined in order to get such apparatus as will accomplish the best results in locating the members of the department and in the transmission of intelligence to the central station. The systems under consideration are those of the Municipal Signal Company of Boston and the Gamewell Company of this city. It has been decided that the Gamewell system will not furnish an automatic self-registering time stamp and a box with a citizen's key and this was regarded as a serious defect, as the features could be secured in the other system.

As the Gamewell Company was a home concern, employing a large number of skilled mechanics and paying to the city large taxes, directly and indirectly, it was generally understood that if these special devices could be provided that the city would naturally award the contract to that company. The Gamewell Company has shown these devices and exhibited the plant of an excellent working system before the committee on police in the City Hall. Notwithstanding this fact the police committee, after carefully refraining from any expression of its views upon the subject to any member of the city council, finally reported Monday evening recommending that the city adopt the system of the Municipal Signal Company, but without giving any good reason for its recommendation that it was the best system. In the opinion of the writer the members of the police committee, if directly asked the question which of the two systems shown in the City Hall was the best, would be at a loss for a reply, unless governed by an unrecurrent prejudice. Certainly, the apparatus shown by the Gamewell did the work as well and supplied the needed devices for a first-class service, covering all the important points of the other system, together with some features which I think were a decided improvement. Among them may be mentioned the numerical indicator for the wagon house, which, although an old device in telegraphic alarm signals, is new in its application to the present indicator, as it renders a mistake in the box number impossible.

The police committee ignores the automatic register and box with citizen's key to which Mr. Leeson has referred. It is understood, that it is an infringement of the Municipal Signal Company. How does the committee arrive at this conclusion? Will the members of the Municipal Signal Company claim that the devices named and covered by the patents of their company; on the other hand, the Gamewell Company claims that its patent rights cover these points. One statement is as good as another, there is a proper channel for redress. It is sufficient if the company awarded the contract gives bonds to protect the city in case of a law suit. All things considered, it is good policy to patronize the Gamewell company, certainly reliable and possessing a substantial surplus. It asserts that it can give to Newton what it desires and it shows the necessary electrical apparatus and devices to substantially prove its statement. The sentiment of the city is in favor of the Gamewell Company if it can give the police department a first-class system and the no good reason to do it is its own to do it.

HOME MARKET.

A Valuable Collection.

We have been shown two elegant albums, in which are collected all the letters of commendation received by young Edward G. Blaisdell, of Auburndale, for heroic conduct displayed last winter in rescuing a comrade from drowning while engaged in a game of "hooky," on the banks of the pond. The particulars were published in the GRAPHIC at the time of its occurrence in January last. The book is large and handsomely bound in morocco. The first page contains a photograph of young Blaisdell, who is but 16 years of age. This is followed by letters laudatory of his noble conduct from Presidents Cleveland and Harrison, Vice-President Morton, U. S. Senator Ingalls, President of the Senate, and a long list of other Senators, members of the House, governors of several States, the Mayors of many cities, and other officials.

There are letters also from the Hon. John W. Wadsworth, Postmaster General; Gen. A. W. Greeley, of Arctic fame, and from Ella Wheeler Wilcox, the authoress. There are other interesting letters from foreign ambassadors. That from the Korean minister is of curiosity. On one sheet the letter is written in Korean language, and on the opposite, is an English translation. It is a remarkable bit of penmanship, executed by "Ye Ha Yong." Many other letters received are in Spanish, Italian and French.

Album No. 2, is ornamented in gold, and contains clippings from the different newspapers in which they have from time to time appeared. It is matter for debate that there ever has been an album that contained so many autograph letters and from such distinguished people. All the foreign legations unite in awarding praise to so gallant and commendable an act. The Chinese, the Mexican, the Persian, the French, that of Colombia, Costa Rica, the legation of Nicaragua, and the minister from Peru. These albums will prove a source of much pride and pleasure to the family and friends of the young man who has received so many voluntary testimonials for his courageous and disinterested conduct.

N. H. S. Alumni.

A meeting of the Newton High School Alumni was held in the city hall, Wednesday evening, for the purpose of completing the organization of an Alumni association. About fifty members were in attendance and Mr. D. W. Farquhar presided. After the reading of the records of the last meeting, by the acting secretary, a constitution and by-laws was submitted by the committee, Mr. Morton, Miss Sheppard and Mr. Little, and accepted with amendments. It was decided not to complete the organization until a future meeting, to arrange for which the present committee are to maintain temporary officers and a committee of five were appointed to aid in arranging for the next meeting sometime in the fall, as follows: Mr. Cutler, Miss Sheppard, Mr. Whitmore, Miss Nickerson and Miss Angier.

IS YOUR BAKING POWDER PURE?

Do its Manufacturers Publish all the Ingredients Used?

IS IT FREE FROM AMMONIA?

As is well known, ammonia is unhealthy in food, and dries up the bread material.

Protection to consumers of food compounds lies in their ability to choose those made from healthful substances. Unless manufacturers publish just what their baking powder is made of, do not use their goods, but buy instead

CLEVELAND'S SUPERIOR BAKING POWDER.

This powder is made only of strictly pure grape cream of tartar, and strictly pure bicarbonate of soda, with a little wheat flour to preserve it. This is attested by official analyses of Government and State chemists, and physicians, and chemists of Boards of Health throughout the country.

THE LAUREL HOUSE.

THE LAKE CARA SALJO.—SOME OF THE AMUSEMENTS.—MRS. CLEVELAND AND THE WHITNEYS.

It is five weeks to-day since we arrived in Lakewood, and still we linger on held by the invisible spell of its refreshing "piney air." Never in our wanderings over this "Mother earth" has it been my good fortune to find such another hotel as the "Laurel House," so perfect in all its appointments. Each room is provided with an open fireplace, in which you burn the most delicious pine wood, free to all. The coziness of an open fire makes our rooms more than delightful, and we would feign tarry longer upstairs were the public rooms less attractive. Let us take a stroll around the lower floor. The construction of the hotel is most spacious, the old house which in days of yore, was the run of the place being in the centre, while numerous L's run out on either side, terminating in other houses almost as large as the centre building.

The office is in the main house, and from this you reach (through a glass corridor, which has all the effects of a conservatory, with its comfortable arm-chairs and groups of graceful tropical plants) the reading room which is most luxuriant. Here you find all the periodicals, magazines and the leading daily papers, to say nothing of a dozen or so from the other side. On your right, sits a young girl in dainty Empire Matinee, reading "Life;" on the left is one of our most dignified senators, deeply engrossed in a copy of the "Forum." Open fires glow brightly, and if you glance in the direction of the windows, great masses of beautiful plants make you forget that it is not June. Farther to the right is an immense music room, with a raised stage at one end, and what is surprising in a hotel, a really good Steinway grand piano.

THE LAKE.

But we have tarried long enough indoors on this lovely May morning. Let us take a view of the town. The reddish color of the soil reminds you most forcibly that this is Lakewood, N. J., and not Lakewood, N. Y. We walk quietly down the main street, which is very much like the main streets of one of our New England villages, with its row of stately trees and rather unsatisfactory shops on either side. After walking for a short distance you turn to the left and come to "the Lake," which bears the rather curious name of "Cara Saljo," named by Mr. Buck, who formerly owned most of the place, for his three daughters—Carry, Sally and Josephine; this lake is about three miles long, and has a most picturesque boat house on its banks, where for the small sum of a quarter, delightful boats for rowing and sailing can be procured. There is something certainly weirdly bewitching about going out on the water in the early spring; and on a warm day it is just alive with boats, flying hither and thither. This little body of water is framed in by beautiful pine woods and one can take a most invigorating stroll all along its banks, and if a great pedestrian walk quite around. This walk is one of the features of the place, and one never tires of wandering in and out along its shady paths, here losing and again finding the lake. Stopping for a rest and little chat on some of its inviting seats, until you cross a stony bridge called the "Kissing Bridge," where for a time you lose the lake entirely. There are all kinds of interesting walks, where you find the brilliant checkerberry, hidden among its glossy leaves, and if you look deeper the beautiful, delicate pink of the dainty "May blossom" or trailing arbutus. The mosses here are very rare, the famous Pixey being among them. This is exquisitely dainty and is only found in two other places. Strange, uncanny fungi are quite frequently seen in the damp mossy dell, one curious variety assuming the shape of the leaf of the tree upon which it grows. Over head the trees are quite gray with hanging moss, of a delicate grayish green.

The drives are simply charming and you can ride for miles through the stately pines, which seem to nod and beckon you ever on and on, like so many solemn Druids, while a soft murmur as of far distant waves is ever in the air. Among the most charming of the drives is the one which follows the lake, and on your return, to finish with the "Catal drive" and "Pine Park" an afternoon well spent, I can assure you. Equestrianism is abundant, and I never had such glorious rides as here, in and out of the pines, up briery, winding paths, too narrow for a carriage, and finishing with a brisk gallop up the Ursin street.

SOME OF THE GAYETIES.

This is not a gay place, although the young people find plenty to interest them. There is an excellent board tennis court, and between the hours of 3 and 5 one can always find amusement in watching the constant movement and good playing of the brave youths and fair maidens, in their bright and picturesque tennis suits.

Bowling is quite the rage here, and last week there were some splendid scores made, two gentlemen almost reaching the highest number of three hundred.

Then there is always the barge running to and from the woods, where you can sit and read when it is warm and clear, and enjoy the exquisite fragrance of the pines. We have had several concerts, most of them for charitable objects, a lecture on "Paris" by Harry French, and another on the "Glaciers" by a man whose name has escaped me, a very successful Easter sale with fan drill and other attractions in the evening. A fascinating talk on "William Shakespeare," by the talented young Episcopal minister. The Decorative Art Society from New York sent down some beautiful articles, which were exhibited in the parlor, and we ladies found that the good taste and artistic beauty of the lovely things could not be resisted. A pianist and violinist furnish excellent music every evening, but there is very little dancing, on account of the lack of that very essential article—men. However, a fortnight ago, they managed to import a few, and had a very successful German. I have never seen anything prettier, in fact they seemed to have gleaned all the best of the old figures, and added several new ones, which were very "chic;" they danced each figure with a different dance, the "Kentucky polka," "Albanian," "York" and several others of a later date, adding their new charms to their old friends, the waltz and the polka.

Mrs. CLEVELAND and the WHITNEYS. We were favored last week with several celebrities among the guests. Mrs. Cleveland, prettier and more graceful than ever, delighted us all in her dainty, Parisian gowns. Little Dorothy Whitney, who was quite a belle among the little folks, was here with her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. ex-Secretary Whitney, and won the hearts of all by her quaint ways and sweet smiles. Mr. and Mrs. Clews were also here, and a young artist, who is on the staff of "Life," showed himself to be an excellent nurse in the faithful way in which he watched over a poor sick dog—a beautiful silky white collie with tan spots, who was very ill with influenza. He has just added more glory to his name in the very clever way in which he has illustrated "Gertrude's marriage," that charming little story of German home life.

The house still keeps well filled with people who are wending their way East from the South and soon we shall reverse the general line of travel and go South to Atlantic city.

An Important Element

Of the success of Hood's Sarsaparilla is the fact that every purchaser receives a fair equivalent for his money. The familiar headline "100 Doses One Dollar," shown by Pimples, is original with and true only of Hood's Sarsaparilla. This can easily be proven by any one who desires to test the matter. For real economy, buy only Hood's Sarsaparilla. Sold by all druggists.

For all Throat and Lung Diseases take Dr. James M. Solomon, Jr.'s, Cough Cure. It has cured thousands. All druggists, 50 cents per bottle.

A SHOPPING EXPERIENCE.

How a Lady Became Overcome by Nervous Strain and Fell on the Street—A valuable Lesson to All Nervous Women.

Mrs. Morton E. Fassett, of Lowell, went into Boston recently to do a day's shopping. She visited many of the leading stores, and became so interested in the attractive goods she saw that she failed to realize the right of time. The care of selecting just the right articles made her nervous, and neglecting to take her lunch, added to this nervous anxiety, that when she came out from one of the stores she fell prostrate upon the sidewalk on Tremont Street. She was kindly cared for and eventually reached her home, but her nervous system received a shock from which she has not yet recovered.

Such experiences are by no means uncommon. Many ladies, it is true, do not fall lifeless upon the street, but that the nervous systems of thousands of lovely ladies is undermined there can be no doubt. Nervousness seems to be almost universal, and hundreds of women would be lovely and otherwise so glad that they could be cured of their nervousness. To their husbands, lovers and friends, are not attractive because they are so delicate and nervous. The well known Mrs. Burdett, writing on this subject, says: "Why ladies will allow themselves to become weakened and sickly I cannot understand, when it can be so easily avoided. Careful living, the right food, and a regular use of the right remedy will keep any woman bright and healthy. Good nature, a good temper instead of the thousand unhealthy follies, and the regular use of the preparation known as Hunt's Remedy, will, I am sure, regulate and keep any woman in perfect health. I have found this Great Remedy invaluable in my own case, and I am sure it can be made equally so in that of every other woman."

The above clearly stated advice should be of the greatest value to all ladies. Whether suffering from the slightest ailment, it shows that well directed care and the use of the right remedy will preserve health, prolong beauty and make life more joyous.

WE DO NOT HESITATE To assert that in no other establishment in New England will you be able to make your selections from such a magnificent stock of goods. No other establishment caters to the wants of the purchasing public so thoroughly and completely as to do so.

No Other Establishment in our line of business Can Compete With Us, Either in the varieties offered, for selection or in the remarkably low prices quoted on the goods.

WE SELL FOR EITHER CASH OR ON INSTALMENTS, AND ANY ARTICLE WHICH YOU BUY OF US WE WILL DELIVER FREE to any city or town in New England where there is a railroad freight station.

IN REGARD TO OUR NOW FOR

CARPET SALE CHAMBER SETS.

We will say this: The manufacturers of carpets, owing to the dull buying of their goods by the retailers, find themselves overstocked, and, as a matter of fact, are anxious to dispose of a part of their surplus at once. We have taken advantage of this condition of the market, and have made some mammoth purchases in this line, and all its branches done properly and at reasonable prices. All kinds of Carpet Linings for sale. Church Cushions and Mattings cleaned at bottom prices. Carpets called for and delivered free of charge. Send postal.

Sole Manufacturer of the ROCHESTER BUG EXTERMINATOR. Price 35 cents a bottle; bottle for One Dollar.

Do yourselves or us a greater favor than to come to our establishment, look at our stock, and then compare it with the small, insignificant displays which are offered in the majority of houses in our line of business in this city.

WE MAKE NO VAIN BOASTS nor MISLEADING STATEMENTS, neither do we come out in the papers with falsehoods so glaring that they insult the intelligence of the people who read them. WHAT WE HAVE DONE is a matter of record, and a record of which we are proud. WHAT WE CAN DO, we want you to come and see for yourselves.

WE HAVE CARPETED OUR SIDEWALK WITH

Royal Wilton Velvet,

The same grade that we are selling at such low prices, and shall let it be until Wednesday night. It has already had three days' wear, and we propose to give it three days more. THUS END THE WALK ON THAT CARPET daily, and when we take it up it will have been subjected to such an ordeal as no other carpet has ever passed through. You must know that we are pretty confident of what our goods will stand when we do this.

LOOK FOR THAT CARPET

As you pass by, and then come in and see our styles and get our prices.

We have hundreds of rolls of

STRAW MATTING

And at the prices we are selling the stock is waning rapidly.

—Circulars are distributed about town for the purpose of getting enough interested parties to institute a commandery of the People's Five Year Beneficent Order of Newton Highlands. Persons joining get $500 at the end of five years, or $200 per week during sickness.

—In memory of Dr. B. K. Pierce a memorial service is to be held next Sunday morning at the Methodist church. There will be an address by Rev. Dr. Huntington. The evening service will be addressed by Rev. J. W. F. Barnes, chaplain of the state prison.

—The Historical club held their final meeting of the season at the house of the president, Edith Read, each member inviting two friends. After a short business meeting, in which the work of the year was reviewed, the time was pleasantly passed out on the lawn. This club, composed of six young ladies, has been very active during the year, devoting a part of the time of each meeting to historical studies and have put in a great deal of earnest work.

—The 70th anniversary of the Baptist Sunday school is to be celebrated at the church next Sunday evening. There are to be recitations by the children, musical selections and addresses by some of the former superintendents. This school was organized in 1819, through the efforts of Mrs. Clara Hyde, the mother of Mr. J. F. C. Hyde of Newton Highlands. The first meetings of the school were held at her house until they were changed to the church on account of the growing interest shown by the attendants. Up to the present time there have been twenty superintendents. Mr. Asa W. Armstrong at present occupying that position and making the twenty-first.

—The graduating exercises of the Mason school were held in the Mason hall last Monday afternoon. The exercises consisted of a general review of school work during the past year and reflected credit upon those under whom they have perfected their studies at the grammar school. The diplomas were presented by Mr. Charles C. Barton, the chairman of the school board, with an appropriate address. A large number of parents and friends filled the hall. In the evening, at the invitation of Mr. Burton, the class reception was held at his residence. The lawn and house were illuminated, the Chinese lanterns making a very pretty effect.

—The committee in charge of the Fourth of July celebration at Newton Centre have arranged for an all-day program, which, it is believed, will be of general interest. In the morning there will be boat and swimming races on the pond, followed by athletic sports on the common. In the afternoon, there will be a ball game on Walworth's field, between the Gun club and a strong outfit of town nine. Barges will run every fifteen minutes, from the post office, for the accommodation of all wishing to witness the game. The Gun club has been greatly strengthened by the addition of several new players, and a very good game is anticipated.

—Miss Emma Stevens, the eldest daughter of G. P. Stevens, who has been teaching in a school at North Dunbarton, N. H., for a term of ten years, with good success, will return home this week. Miss Stevens being an active member of the Society of Christian Endeavor here and finding no superior organization there, was successful in organizing one in that place.

A Queer Decision.

(Boston Herald.)
It is a queer decision, if the Governor has really made it, to appoint all the members of the metropolitan sewerage system from outside the district to be covered by it. There are capable men in the cities and towns interested who have made a study of the subject, and who are best fitted to deal with it. For instance, Newton has an ex-mayor who has devoted a great deal of time to the study of this question, who is recommended for a place on the commission by the present Mayor on the commission by the present Mayor and sewerage committee, and Newton has a longer front on the Charles than any other city or town.

NEWTON LOWER FALLS.

—A great many large sized turtles are hauled out of the river here by fishermen.
—The Hamiltons visited Highlandville last Saturday and were defeated by the local nine there.

—Mr. Daniel Higgins was united in marriage to Miss Annie Cunningham at the bride's residence last Sunday evening.

—Mr. Geo. Smith has three houses being finished and ready for occupancy. They will be ready for occupancy about July 1st.

—By the closing of the Rice paper mill a number of hands are thrown out of employment. In all probability it will be shut down but for a short time.

—Parties occupying the lower part of the large block opposite the Boydton block are encircled by a stone wall, which has been built in front of that dwelling.

—Many people would like to see a good ball game on the afternoon of the Fourth, but would like to see a better game than the one which occurred on the 20th of May.

—The Wellesley whistle, which blew for a brush fire on Walnut street last Friday, caused quite a stir. Many imagine that one of the mills are on fire when the whistle is blown.

—The entertainment given at Boydton Hall, Tuesday evening, by the society of the "King's Daughters," was a pleasing success; ice cream and cake were offered for sale. The whole was a successful affair financially as well as otherwise.

—A concrete walk extending across Grove street has been laid by the city. This convenience will be richly appreciated when wet weather comes, as heretofore that vicinity has been low and a large pool of water forms, making it almost impossible to cross.

—The Auburns and a nine from this village played a game of ball on the former's grounds last Saturday, which resulted in favor of the local nine by a score of 28. The game abounded in numerous errors, the redeeming features being the batting of the Auburns.

—A detachment of the tribe of red men dressed up as regular Indians, caused quite a sensation while passing through here Wednesday evening distributing programs for their picnic at Sherborn, July 4th. Numerous fish horns supplied sufficient noise to satisfy everybody.

NONANTUM.

—The Sons of St. George are to take a place in the Fourth of July procession at Walham.

—Where are the horse carriage and the fire alarm striker we have so long been waiting for?

—The North Evangelical Sunday school will hold their annual picnic, July 4th, in the grounds of Mr. Roberts, on the bank of the Charles river, near Auburndale.

—There is a large stagnant puddle of mud and water in front of the boarding house kept by H. S. Ross on California street, which needs the attention of the Board of Health, as it is well calculated to breed disease. The same may be said in regard to the head of Adams street near Watertown street.

Auction
Valuable Estate

Situated on the corner of Beacon Street and Institution Avenue,
NEWTON CENTRE,
SATURDAY, July 6, '89, at 4 P. M.

This property comprises 17,267 square feet of land, more or less, having a frontage of over 350 feet on said streets with a block of two houses thereon. The location is very central and near railroad station, making this a desirable property for improvement by the erection of a business block or a public building. The certainty of a large advance in values in this village in the near future, especially in business locations, renders this an exceptional opportunity for a safe and profitable investment. $200 to be paid at time of sale, the balance to be paid in installments of $25 per month, with interest at 6% per annum. WM. B. YOUNG, 25 Congress St., Boston

LIQUOR SEIZURES AT NONANTUM.

THE OFFICERS RAID SEVERAL PLACES, AND CAPTURE HARD STUFF.

The police made an onslaught on the illegal liquor dealers of Nonantum last Saturday evening, visiting four places and securing a considerable quantity of whiskey and lager beer. City Marshall Richardson and Officers Burke, N. F. Bosworth and Ryan went to Sarah Boyle's place, corner of Middle and Adams streets, and secured a small quantity of whiskey. Two bottles containing whiskey were thrown out of the window when the officers put in an appearance, striking upon the ground, breaking them and spilling the contents.

Officers Purcell and Libby went to Charles McGonigle's store, corner of Bridge and Chandler streets, and found two bottles containing whiskey. McGonigle's house and barn on Chandler street were searched by Officers Conroy and Holmes. In a chamber on the first floor they found a gallon of whiskey and 2-1/2 gallons of lager beer.

At Jeremiah Meaney's house, West street, Officer Clay caught Mrs. Meaney while in the act of smashing a bottle containing whiskey in the sink. Officers Fuller, Fletcher and Quilly searched Thomas Mullen's house on Adams street, and located a trap in the staircase which opened upward by a string and pulley arrangement. Under the staircase they found his concealed stock, consisting of 1-1/2 gallons of whiskey and half a gallon of lager beer, which were captured. The liquor and lager beer was taken to police headquarters, West Newton.

The Somerville Sentinel says: "Col. E. H. Haskell of Newton, who has been mentioned as an acceptable candidate for Governor to the temperance wing of the Republican party, is a resident of Newton and is engaged as a commission merchant in the paper business. He first came into prominence as the secretary of the Republican State Committee, where his efficient work, organizing capacity, and genial presence gave him an excellent reputation. He subsequently served for two terms as a member of the Governor's Council. If elected Governor, Col. Haskell would make an able and popular official. His instincts, his record, his affiliations are all on the right side of every moral issue, and he has the ability to honor all the drafts made upon a Governor of Massachusetts."

MIDDLESEX SS. PROBATE COURT.
To the heirs-at-law, next of kin, and all other persons interested in the estate of Mary H. Potter, late of Newton, in said County, deceased.
GREETING:
Whereas, a certain instrument purporting to be the last will and testament of said deceased has been presented to said Court, for Probate, by John Sturgis Potter, who plays that letters testamentary may be issued to him, the executor therein named, and that he may be exempt from giving a surety or securities on his bond pursuant to said will, to-wit:

You are hereby cited to appear at a Probate Court to be held at Cambridge, in said County of Middlesex, on the first Tuesday of July next, at nine o'clock in the forenoon, to show cause, if any you have, against the same.

And said petitioner is hereby directed to give public notice thereof, by publishing this citation once a week, for three successive weeks, in the newspaper called the NEWTON GRAPHIC, printed at Newton, the last publication to be two days, at least, before said Court.

Witness, George M. Brooks, Esquire, Judge of said Court, this twelfth day of June, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and eighty nine. J. H. TYLER, Register.
